MR. ROOSEVELT BRANDS STATEMENTS OF PARKER AS BASE FALSEHOODS

President Refutes the Slanderous Accusations Made by the Democratic Candidate for Chief Magistrate.

ARE ATROCIOUS AND UNTRUE

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

President Roosevelt tonight gave the lie to the slanderous statements that have been promulgated by Judge Parker and others to the effect the Republican campaign managers have blackmailed the trusts into campaign contributions, and that money has been secured from these great corporations by compacts under which the trusts are to receive certain considerations in the event of Roosevelt's election. Judge Parker started on this tack several days ago, and in his daily speeches he has gradually grown more immoderate in his charges and accusations until the president refused to longer remain silent.

Political and personal friends of the president have advised him to ignore the charges, contending that a dignified silence was in keeping with the situation. This advice was deferred to until tonight. Then he refused to longer keep silent. In his own words, "I speak now lest the silence of self-respect be misunderstood."

The statement is thoroughly characteristic of the man. It is direct, straight from the shoulder. It leaves not the slightest doubt of his meaning. The sentence, "the statements of Mr. Parker are unqualifiedly and atrociously false" are strong words. If they mean anything, they mean a challenge to Judge Parker to prove his statements or stand convicted before the people as a liar and slanderer.

An Unjust Accusation.

The statement is a natural outburst of protest of an honest man against a foul and unjust accusation, and it rings true in every word. The text follows:

"White House.

"Washington, November 4, 1904.

"Certain slanderous accusations as to Mr. Cortelyou and myself have been repeated time and again by Judge Parker, the candidate of his party for the office of president. He neither has produced nor can produce any proof of their truth; yet he has not withdrawn them; and as his position gives them wide currency I speak now lest the silence of self-respect be misunderstood.

"Mr. Parker's charges are in effect that the president of the United States and Mr. Cortelyou, formerly Mr. Cleveland's executive clerk, then Mr. McKinley's and my secretary, then secretary of commerce and labor, and now chairman of the Republican national committee, have been in a conspiracy to blackmail corporations, Mr. Cortelyou using his knowledge, gained while he was secretary of the department of commerce and labor, to extort money from the corporations, and I, the president, having appointed him for this especial purpose.

The Question Up to Parker.

"The gravamen of those charges lies in the assertion that the corporations have been blackmailed into contributing, and in the implication, which in one or two of Mr. Parker's speeches has taken the form practically of an assertion, that they have been promised certain immunities or favors or have been assured that they would receive some kind of improper consideration in view of their contributions. That contributions have been made to the Republican committee, as contributions have been made to the Democratic committee, is not the question at issue.

"Mr. Parker's assertion is in effect that such contributions have been made for improper motives, either in consequence of threats or in consequence of improper promises, direct or indirect on the part of the recipients. Mr. Parker knows best whether this is true of the contributions to his campaign fund which have come through his trusted friends and advisers who represent the great corporate interests that stand behind him. But there is not one particle of truth in the statement as regards anything that has gone on in the management of the Republican campaign.

Insinuations Are Monstrous.

"Mr. Parker's accusations against Mr. Cortelyou and me are monstrous. If true they would brand both of us forever with infamy, and inasmuch as they are false heavy must be the condemnation of the man making them.

"I chose Mr. Cortelyou as chairman of the national committee after having taken successively to persuade Mr. Elihu Root, Mr. W. Murray Crane and Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss to accept the position. I chose him with extreme reluctance, because I could ill spare him from the cabinet. But I felt that he possessed the high integrity which I demanded in the man who was to manage my campaign.

"I am content that Mr. Parker and I should be judged by the public on the characters of the two men whom we chose to manage our campaigns, he by the character of his nominee, Mr. Thomas Taggart, and I by the character of Mr. Cortelyou. The assertion that Mr. Cortelyou had any knowledge gained while in any official position whereby he was enabled to secure and did secure any contributions from any corporation is a falsehood. The assertion that there has been any blackmail, direct or indirect, by Mr. Cortelyou or by me is a falsehood. The assertion that there has been made in behalf and by my authority by Mr. Cortelyou or any one else any pledge or promise, or that there has been any understanding as to future immunities or benefits, in recognition of any contribution from any source, is a wicked falsehood.

Parker's Courage Lacking.

"That Mr. Parker should desire to avoid the discussion of principles I can well understand, for it is but the bare truth to say that he has not attacked us on any matter of principle or upon any action of the government save after first misstating that principle or that action. But I cannot understand how any honorable man, a candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people, can take refuge not merely in personalities, but in such base and unworthy personalities.

"If I deemed it necessary to support my flat denial by any evidence I would ask all men of common sense to ponder well what has been done in this campaign by Mr. Cortelyou, and to compare it with what Mr. Parker himself did when he was managing Mr. Hill's campaign for governor, and to compare what has been done as regards the great corporations and monied interests under this administration with what was done under the last Democratic administration, while Mr. Olney was attorney general. I would ask all honest men whether they seriously deem it possible that the course this administration has taken in every matter from the Northern Securities suit, to the

PARKER'S ACCUSATIONS REFUTED BY PRESIDENT

The following excerpt from Judge Parker's speech made in Hartford, Conn., Thursday night, has resulted in a personal statement by President Roosevelt:

In the promotion of our business interests we need a department of commerce and labor. The problems involved are many, and difficulties have to be overcome at every turn, so that all the ingenuity and honesty of our people will be required, in order to attain the best results in the shortest time and with the least waste of effort.

But we do not want a department of commerce and labor, whose secretary shall go out from it every four years, after he had filled his brain and his notebook with the secrets of all the great corporations and combinations, which depend upon the government for business or favors, in order not to serve the people, but to raise money to corrupt them.

We want a department of commerce and labor which will furnish our merchants, farmers, manufacturers and workmen with the fullest and latest information, intelligently and honestly obtained, and so fairly prepared, that dependence may be placed upon it as a real guide.

We want to know what other countries are doing in industries, and this is all the more important because we feel sure that in none of them has the head of such a department retired from his work to go out into the business world in order to collect bloody money.

We do not need, and ought not to have, a modern inquisitor who exploits corporations to collect money for corrupting the franchise or electing pliant legislators, or capturing the electoral vote of pivotal states.

FAIRBANKS' DAUGHTER HAS BEEN FORGIVEN

Wife of Ensign Timmons Is Received With Open Arms at Parental Home.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Adelaide Fairbanks Timmons, daughter of Senator Fairbanks, the Republican vice presidential nominee, who married Ensign John W. Timmons against her parents' wishes, returned home today, and was received with open arms by her mother.

"Daughter, I have missed you," said Mrs. Fairbanks, simply, as she clasped in her arms the beautiful young woman who created a sensation last autumn by her marriage.

"Oh, it is so good to be home again," Mrs. Timmons replied, as she kissed her mother.

"I am glad, and your father will be glad that you have come back, Adelaide," said Mrs. Fairbanks, "We have forgiven you." And the two women walked into the house with their arms around each other.

TOOL DRESSER KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF GAS

Driller Is Seriously Burned Near Burgettstown—Accident Followed an Oil Strike.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BURGETTSTOWN, Nov. 4.—By an explosion of gas at a well on the J. W. Farrell farm, three miles from Burgettstown this afternoon, Paul Gillespie, a tool dresser, 24 years old, was burned to death, and Samuel Gallagher, a driller, 45 years old, was seriously injured.

Flowing oil had been struck and a stream of oil ran from the derrick to a pile of live ashes nearby. With the ignition of the oil, gas, which had also accumulated, also caught fire and an explosion resulted. Gillespie, who was standing on the derrick floor, was enveloped in the flame and was dead when his companions reached him. The body was taken to his home in McDonald. Gallagher's burns are not regarded as fatal. The derrick and drilling apparatus were burned to the ground.

ASK FOR RECEIVER.

Quaker City Odd Fellows Resort to Court in Order to Save Their Temple.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—An application for the appointment of a receiver for Odd Fellows temple was made today by John G. Johnson, representing a comparatively small number of claimants who hold bonds amounting to $96,300. The action is taken with a view of raising the money necessary to pay off the judgments for upward of $100,000 held against the temple by Mrs. Anna Walker, as executrix of the estate of William Weightman.

The Odd Fellows have been unable to raise the money to meet their indebtness to the Weightman estate, and as the bondholders did not want the building sold on execution, necessitating their buying it in, they decided to ask for a receiver.

SCARED BY MEGAPHONE.

Woman Summons Half the Male Population of Chicora and the Robbers Flee.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—A megaphone was used to frighten burglars at Chicora last night.

Miss Katherine Hoch, who lives alone on the edge of the town, was aroused in the night by thieves making a noise downstairs. Miss Hoch seized the megaphone and, rushing to a window, began to shout through the big horn for help. In a few minutes half the male population was hastening toward the Hoch residence. The robbers had fled.

JUDGE PARKER PROMISES TO ANSWER MR. ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The statement issued by President Roosevelt and the speech of Gov. Odell in New York in which the governor made certain charges against the Democratic candidate for president were shown to Judge Parker at a late hour. The judge had decided not to make any more speeches during this campaign, but after reading the president's statement and the governor's speech, he announced that he will make a reply.

SHIP COPPER TO JAPAN FOR THE FIRST TIME

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (Special.)—For the first time the United States is exporting copper to Japan. That country is ordinarily an exporter of the metal, but the war has caused her to take all the home supplies and order more. The United Metals Selling Company has taken contracts for the delivery of 10,000,000 pounds of copper in Japan.

PANAMA'S MONEY WILL BE SOUND

Philadelphia Mint Begins to Turn Out Coins for New Republic.

GOLD BASIS IS INDICATED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 4.

Work was begun today at the mint on coins for the new republic of Panama, the United States having secured the contract for coinage, in competition with France. That the monetary system of the republic is on a gold basis is indicated by the value placed in each unit.

In the coin which will pass for an American 50-cent piece there are 386 grains of silver, while in the American silver dollar, supposed to be double in value, there are 412½ grains. The Panama 50-cent piece is worth 50 cents in gold, intrinsically.

Besides the 50-cent piece the coins include the equivalent denominations of 25, 12½, 5 and 2½ cents.

There is nothing but Philadelphia in the making of the coins. The sketches were drawn by Designer Barber of the mint, and the special dies and machinery were constructed in the machine shop attached to the big federal plant in Spring Garden street. On one side of the coins is the head of Balboa, and on the other the coat-of-arms of the republic.

On each of the half dollars is stamped the guarantee "900 fine," so that it might not be confounded with the less stable currency of other South American countries.

MINISTER OF WAR ANDRE SLAPPED BY A DEPUTY

Exciting Scene in French Chamber. Andre Called a Liar—Vote of Confidence Given.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Today's sitting of the chamber of deputies was one of the stormiest and most heated in recent years, the excitement culminating when Gabriel Syventon, a prominent Nationalist deputy, stepped up to Gen. Andre, the minister of war, and slapped his face. A tremendous tumult ensued, deputies of all parties crowding upon the floor of the house, where a free fight was soon in progress. Speaker Brisson left the chair, thus suspending the sitting. Syventon's temporary exclusion later was voted, and he was removed by soldiers.

During the debate Gen. Andre explained the disloyalty he had found in the army. During maneuvers, he said, one colonel actually replaced the tri-color by a flag bearing a Royalist insignia.

Here Gen. Jacquey exclaimed: "You are lieing," but he withdrew the charge under threat of the speaker's censure.

The vote of confidence had just been proposed when Gen. Andre was attacked. The government won by a vote of over 100 majority.

BOOKER WASHINGTON'S SON WANTS AN ARMY JOB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Booker Washington, Jr., the eldest son of Booker T. Washington, has filed an application for appointment as paymaster in the army. The applicant describes himself as 23 years old and a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The first indorsement on the application is that of Booker T. Washington.

AIRSHIP UNDER BONDS NOT TO FLY AWAY

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Fearful that the great airship which Hippolyte Francois proposes to sail Monday might possibly escape from the place it is under customs bond not to leave, the government today required the exposition company to give an additional bond of $16,000 before it would consent to the French airship leaving the world's fair aeronautic concourse.

Leave to Join Russian Army.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Officials of James W. Ellsworth & Co., coal operators, state that within the last two weeks 40 of their Russian miners have left to enlist in the Russian army.

Girl Marries Third Time.

AKRON, O., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Mrs. Grace Ray Grill, aged 19, who was divorced from Henry W. Grill yesterday, was tonight married to C. A. Fox. She was divorced from Dr. J. L. Kent when she was 16.

Carnegie Rechosen Lord Rector.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 4.—Andrew Carnegie has been unanimously elected lord rector of St. Andrew's university. The announcement was received with loud applause and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

PITTSBURGHERS CLOSE BIG DEAL IN BOATS

Acquire Large Number of Vessels of Commodore Laidley's White Collar Line.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 4.—A big deal involving the transfer of a large number of steamboats is about to be completed by which Pittsburgh and upriver steamboat owners acquire a number of Commodore Laidley's White Collar line steamers. The final negotiations will be held soon in Cincinnati.

Commodore F. A. Laidley today stated negotiations have been pending more than a week between himself and Capt. Gordon Greene, Capt. William E. Rowe, Capt. M. T. Noll and Capt. Jesse Hughes. Transfer, he said, probably would be made by the first of the coming week. He said the negotiations between Capt. Greene and Capt. Rowe, owners of quite a number of steamboats running in the upper Ohio and Kanawha rivers, concern the following vessels: The Kanawha, Greenland, Greenwood and Evergreen, Valley Belle, Leroy, Cricket and probably several others.

JEYKELL-HYDE CASE IS BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Young Philadelphian, Out of Work, Robs by Night to Support Young Wife.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Robbing that he might support his young wife, from whom he carefully concealed the source of his income, Harry Mitchell, of 114 Delancey street played the dual roles in a double life until he was arrested. Then he confessed.

Mitchell brought his wife from Shenandoah three months ago. Pride kept him from telling her that he could not secure employment, so he concocted a scheme to rob. He would leave home every morning, ostensibly to go to work, but instead would enter boarding houses. At night he would return home with the money, proceeds of his pawned loot.

His wife never thought the money was dishonest until Mitchell was arrested.

B. & O. LIMITED WRECKED.

Engineer Odenthol Killed Near Mansfield, O., and Fireman Sustains a Broken Leg.

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Vestibuled limited No. 8 on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was wrecked several miles west of here at 7 o'clock this evening. Engineer Odenthol of Newark, O., was killed, and the fireman sustained a broken leg. The train was drawn by two engines and the first engine broke away from the train, leaving the tender behind. The second engine left the track and rolled over.

The baggage, express and mail cars also left the track, but no person in them was hurt and no damage was done to any of the other cars.

TO CENTUPLE CAPITAL.

Lake Erie and Pittsburgh Stockholders Propose to Increase Stock to $10,000,000.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 4.—A meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Erie & Pittsburgh railroad is to be held tomorrow at the general offices of the company at Lorain, for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of increasing the capital stock from $100,000 to $10,000,000.

One of the most important matters will be the probability of bringing out at this meeting the real backing of the company. If it proves that the Steel Corporation is the backer of the property, the opposition of the other railroads will have some groundwork upon which to proceed.

PRACTICAL WAY TO SHOW ALLEGIANCE TO MIKADO

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The Japanese students of Yale, about 25 in number, met last evening in Dwight hall by themselves to celebrate the mikado's birthday. Hatsuji Mayesan urged his fellow students to show their allegiance in the following manner: "First—We must keep our bodies strong. Secondly—We must be loyal to our friends. Thirdly—We must pursue our studies faithfully."

KEPT PROMISE TO ELUDE JUSTICE BY SUICIDE

BURLINGTON, IA., Nov. 4.—Jacob Graves, who shot and killed Thomas Layton, was found in his cabin on Frys island today by officers who were pursuing him. He had a bullet hole in his head. Death was the fulfillment of a threat to elude justice by suicide.

St. Louis Has Steel Institute.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—Headed by Sir William Whitewell of London, 30 members of the British Iron and Steel Institute arrived here today. The special train of the institute will depart Monday for Chicago.

BANQUET WAS INTERNATIONAL

Chamber of Commerce Gathering Assumes a Broad Scope.

FLAGS ARE ENTWINED

Distinguished Men of Letters and Statecraft Meet the Leaders in Pittsburgh's Affairs.

MORLEY'S ADDRESS NOTABLE

SOME POINTS THAT SCORED

I have been told, in confidence, that the election in the United States is foregone conclusion.—John Morley.

Mix brains, real brains, with everything you do.—Nicholas Murray Butler.

We can turn with pardonable pride to the unconquerable John Hay, and our president and next president, Theodore Roosevelt.—Rabbi Levy.

What Columbia is to New York; what Johns Hopkins is to Baltimore; what the University of Pennsylvania is to Philadelphia, will the Western University of Pennsylvania be to Pittsburgh, and she will be as much to her as the others can be to their constituency.—Chancellor McCormick.

To its long list of dinners that each year have reflected the main topic of the time, whether local, state or national, the chamber of commerce of Pittsburgh added last evening a dinner of international import. Although not expressed in so many words, the tenor of the entire gathering was friendliness to the English-speaking alliance, and throughout the gathering there were indications of a hearty good will toward such a sentiment felt by the representative business men of Pittsburgh.

The presence of John Morley, England's distinguished publicist, tended more than any one other faction to give this character to the assemblage, and time and again mention of Mr. Morley's name gave rise to applause that was deeper and more significant than the customary greeting to a prominent guest.

The dinner was held at the Hotel Schenley, and all of the 350 seats around the tables in the banquet hall were filled when the proceedings were started by the Rev. Dr. J. Hall McIlvaine, rector of Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, invoking the divine blessing.

Members Meet Distinguished Men.

By 7 o'clock the lobby of the Schenley was well filled with the members and guests of the chamber, and an informal reception preceded the arrival of the invited guests of the evening. Just before the dinner was started the members were given an opportunity to grasp the hands of the 15 officers and guests of the association. The men who formed this line were in this order: George H. Anderson, vice president of the chamber; John Eaton, president; the Hon. John Morley, W. N. Frew, Dr. Seth Low, Dr. W. J. Holland, George Westinghouse, Chancellor S. B. McCormick, Maj. A. P. Burchfield, John B. Jackson, Dr. J. Leonard Levy, Robert Pitcairn, Judge Joseph Buffington and the Hon. H. K. Porter.

The members then passed to the banquet hall, which they found decorated simply, but handsomely. At the east side of the hall was the speaker's table, at which sat the gentlemen whom they had met. At right angles with this table were 10 others. On the wall behind the speakers' table were suspended the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack. On the tables stood huge vases of yellow chrysanthemums, while ferns and trailing vines decorated the surface of the tables.

Many Unite in Singing.

To each guest was given an exceedingly handsome souvenir menu and program. Its front cover was decorated with a portrait of Mr. Morley, beneath which were the American and British flags embossed in colors. It was tied with a white ribbon, fastened with a gold seal of the city of Pittsburgh. On the inside pages were steel engravings representing typical scenes of Pittsburgh industry, a view of the city as it is today, a drawing of "Science Directing Labor," and a sketch of the locomotives and steel cars that play so large a part in the city's industry.

From a shelter of fifty palms on the stage at the west side of the hall came orchestral music, with which, time and again, the voices of the banqueters were joined in familiar tunes, whether patriotic airs, the songs of Stephen Foster or the popular ditties of the day.

This singing by the assemblage was one of the marked features of the banquet. Twice it reached a climax which brought every man present to his feet, and evoked a thunderous volume of sound. The national anthems of the two countries, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King," caused these demonstrations.

None of these demonstrations equalled, however, that which came when Toastmaster Porter proposed "The Presidents of the United States and the King of England." The enthusiasm of those present who had heard the first part of the toast carried them away, only to allow them to redouble the cheering and waving of napkins when the second was given.

Addresses Were Notable.

Notable after-dinner addresses were made at this meeting, the telling points of which will linger long in the minds of those who heard the speakers. President John Eaton of the chamber, in calling the gathering to order and introducing Congressman H. K. Porter as toastmaster, spoke briefly but effectively. Mr. Porter's remarks on accepting the office were delivered in his most eloquent vein. Following him came Dr. William J. Holland, Pittsburgh's distinguished scholar, who, in the absence of D. T. Watson, Esq., responded to the toast "The United States." Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, caught the enthusiasm of the gathering and spoke with marked effect on "Education in Its Relation to Commercial and Industrial Development." The Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Rodeph Shalom congregation, with eloquence and learning answered the toast, "England, the Mother Country." Chancellor S. B. McCormick, the new head of the Western university, unveiled many important facts in his scholarly address on "The Educational Future of Pittsburgh."

At the very close came a feature to which many of those present had looked forward, a short talk by the Rt. Hon. John Morley.

Ovation to John Morley.

It was with boundless enthusiasm that the guest of honor, the Hon. John Morley, was received as he arose to respond to his toast. His formal introduction by Toastmaster Porter was greeted by the entire assemblage standing, wildly cheering, then blending their voices in the strains of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." For fully 10 minutes Mr. Morley was left standing, awaiting the abatement of the ovation that greeted him.

There was significance in the generous applause that greeted President Eaton's reference to Greater Pittsburgh. When Mr. Porter mentioned the name of John Hay, secretary of state, a prolonged outburst of applause resulted, and a similar ovation was given at the mention of James Bryce, Representative John Daizell and Senator P. C. Knox.

Dr. Holland, although modestly excusing himself for taking the place of Mr. Watson, made an address which evoked applause from his hearers at many points.

Invited Guests Who Were Absent.

The special invited guests who were unable to attend the dinner included President Theodore Roosevelt, Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker, Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador; the Hon. Richard Guenther, consul general to Germany; P. C. Knox, United States Senator, and David T. Watson, Esq.

The members of the committee in charge of the banquet were A. P. Burchfield, chairman; Robert Pitcairn, H. K. Porter, James H. Willock, W. J. Holland, John B. Jackson, H. D. W. English, W. M. Frew, James W. Brown, John B. Barbour, Jr., William McConway, E. B. Taylor, John C. Anlch, Lee S. Smith and George H. Anderson.

Mr. Morley, Mr. Low and Dr. Butler were the guests of President W. N. Frew and the Carnegie Steel Company yesterday morning in a trip through the Homestead works of the company. The party left the residence of Mr. Frew in Beechwood boulevard at 9:30 a. m., on a special trolley car and returned to the city at noon, after having seen the greater part of the Homestead plant. They were present at the luncheon at the Union club. Yesterday afternoon the visitors were entertained with a carriage drive through the parks. They leave for the east today.

PRESIDENT JOHN EATON INTRODUCES H. K. PORTER

Chief Officer of the Chamber of Commerce Speaks of the Work It Has Done and is Doing.

President John Eaton of the chamber of commerce in introducing the toastmaster of the evening, Congressman H. Kirk Porter, said:

It is a singular coincidence that the first associations called chambers of commerce, composed of representative men, organized for the purpose of considering and advising in commercial matters, were established during the same year (1768) in the mother country, England, and in America, her offspring. Since that time similar commercial bodies have been established in nearly every city of prominence in this and foreign countries. The influence of such associations, especially when combined, has been potent and far-reaching.

It is therefore, a happy blending of the old and the new to have with us tonight one of England's greatest statesmen, who has crossed the water to honor Pittsburgh, to honor its great ironmaster and this commercial body.

It would not be fitting for me, as president, to exploit the work of the chamber before this body of distinguished and representative men from home and abroad—your presence here expresses more forcibly than words the influence and standing of our chamber in the community.

It is sufficient, therefore, for me to say that the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce has always been prompt in considering international, national, municipal, commercial and educational matters for the benefit and welfare of the people. We stand for the advancement of all—not for individual interests.

The chamber has taken a lively interest in the great undertakings of our former townsman, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, to make this city great not only in manufacturing and art, but especially in educational facilities. Not content with giving us a library and a museum full of most interesting and instructive objects, he has founded a school of technology, which, with the existing institutions—our university, academies and schools—will place Pittsburgh in the front rank as an educational center.

It is especially fitting that we should have here with us tonight two such representative educational men as the presidents of Columbia university and the Western University of Pennsylvania.

In 1854 the buildings of the Columbia university stand out prominently. The university was then old, having been established as King's college by the royal charter in 1754. If I am rightly informed, Columbia was the first of the great educational institutions to include in its curriculum a practical education—an education intended to fit the young men for commercial life. Therefore, in the institution of which President Butler is the head, there is also a blending of the old and the new.

The chamber has just entered upon a work which I am sure will appeal to every Pittsburgher, as also to every thinking man in the surrounding country—an effort to make Pittsburgh what she should be—Greater Pittsburgh—great in population, as well as in manufacturing, art and education. The tonnage of Pittsburgh exceeds the combined tonnage of the five largest commercial cities in the world. If the surrounding cities and towns were annexed, Pittsburgh would take the place which rightfully belongs to her. I bespeak for the "greater" city of the future the hearty cooperation of the press and the people of this community.

The chamber has recently moved into commodious, pleasant and centrally located quarters, and it would give us great pleasure to welcome our distinguished guests to the new rooms.

I now have the pleasure of introducing the toastmaster of the evening—a fellow townsman, a manufacturer, a scholar and a man whom every Pittsburgher honors and esteems—the Hon. H. Kirke Porter.

TOASTMASTER H. K. PORTER GREETS FOREIGN GUEST

Speaks of the Interchange of Benefits Between the United States and Foreign Nations.

Congressman H. K. Porter, the toastmaster, in assuming the duties of his position, said:

As a fitting beginning for these exercises we take up international matters. We are come here in great numbers as are met by a distinguished guest. Standing at his side as he represents his glorious country, I propose as the first toast of the evening, to the cheer-standing, seldom response, the president of the United States and the king.

Up to the time of President Lincoln the United States were a foreign people to nearly all the rest of the world. De Tocqueville almost alone of distinguished foreign writers, sketched us to the world in sympathetic spirit and, taking prophetic turn, took a hopeful and flattering view of our future. The attitude of other writers and our few visitors was that so adequately suggested by James Russell Lowell as "a certain condescension in foreigners," and while we can now look back complacently and smile as we recognize how reasonable and just they were, yet we were very sensitive then, and naturally so.

But from the time of the civil war, and still more from the Centennial exposition in 1876, we have been admitted in thought and increasing influence into the family of nations, and not merely by a formal recognition. Another date much more recent marks a great leap forward in this same direction. The war with Spain in 1898, in three short months brought us into the notice of the whole world, awakened serious thought in every chancellery in Europe, and brought us to bear with an effectiveness never dreamed of before, into the mysterious east. Dewey read in Manila on May Day, 98, had blazed our way into the orient with the torch of war, even as Perry, his forerunner, had gone on an errand of peace, but bear in mind, in a vessel of war. But the world has learned that Dewey's aim and intent was only to secure a just and lasting peace, where there had been only its mocking semblance before. From the vantage ground of Manila we were able to co-operate with the foremost nations in that march to Pekin for the rescue of imperilled legations, and by that readiness to emphasize the word of friendliness that came from the warm heart and the magic pen of Secretary Hay.

But in this summer of 1904 we have been privileged to welcome in an almost steady stream more men of foreign birth and of marked distinction in their professions and in their activities than we have ever seen before. It is but yesterday that the great company of the foremost men of England engaged in the important industries in iron and steel have left our city. Archbishop Davidson, the primate of the Established church of Great Britain, has been a guest in America, and in the nature of his reception a national guest. The distinguished historian and publicist, the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, with his intimate knowledge of our affairs that is an amazement to the best informed of our own people, is here again making a prolonged stay and studying at first hand, that is understood, our methods and manners, and manner of life in an important presidential campaign, and we are proud in Pittsburgh to welcome another of England's famous statesmen as our guest tonight. Happy the nation that produces these great writers, thought and intellectual activity, put forth for the good of mankind; and proud may we well be that such men find in America subjects worthy their serious investigation. Welcome, thrice welcome, to our shores and to our homes. Our love for our old home, wherever it may have been across the seas, has been not merely a sentiment, but well-nigh a passion; has been an honor to us in all our history, and has not lessened, even with the increasing fervor of our patriotism for our own America, and the world shall learn and know that in proportion to our love of home, so is our desire for the welfare and prosperity of every other nation and people. Their advancement in self-government for peace and progress is a blessing to all the world as well.

We have one with us who is a true American and yet he comes from a British isle, from one of the West Indies. A little island of the West Indies sent, in the early days of this republic, even before it had become a republic, in colonial days, Alexander Hamilton, and later that same island sent a distinguished citizen to be president of a prosperous university, and it has sent to our midst, where he has made his mark in many a profession and at the head of our great educational institution also, the man who is to speak to us tonight on the toast that we drink with all our hearts, "The United States," to be responded to by our friend and by this earnest working brother of the chamber of commerce, Dr. Holland.

GROWTH OF GRAND NATION IN THE UNITED STATES

Dr. Holland Pays His Respects to the Anti-Imperialists in Responding to a Toast.

Dr. William J. Holland, director of the Carnegie museum, responded, in the absence of D. T. Watson, Esq., to the first toast of the evening, "The United States." Dr. Holland said:

"The United States." As we utter the words we mentally indulge in a territorial definition. The definition necessarily to many minds is somewhat vague and nebulous, but both as to the progress of events, an eminent American statesman has recently defined the United States as follows: "The United States are bounded on the north by the aurora borealis, on the south by the procession of equinoxes, on the east by the primeval chaos, and on the west by the day of judgment. I believe that this is a definition approved at present by the so-called anti-imperialist following—I will not call them a party—who apparently discover symptoms on the far-off western horizon of impending doom.

There are gentlemen here this evening who recall the fact that when they first began to study their geographies all that great territory now included within the limits of the Pacific states and the great state of Texas and the territory of Arizona was not included within our boundaries. I am not an old man, when 45 years ago I was a small boy, in the old red school house on the hillside, I began to study geography; there were but 32 stars on our flag. Today there are 45. The territory of the United States during the last 50 years either by conquest or by purchase, has nearly doubled. When I was a lad the great middle west was almost a terra incognita, the range of hostile Indian tribes and of the buffalo. The frontier was just beyond the Mississippi. None of the great transcontinental lines of railway had been built.

Saw the First Railway Train.

In fact, I as a boy stood by and saw the first railway train which passed over the road from Steubenville to Columbus. I was incorporated myself only two years after the Pennsylvania railroad received its act of incorporation, and my first visit to this city was made in the cold days of canal boats and the Portage railway. Wonderful beyond the telling has been the development that has taken place within the last half of a century on this continent. The great wave of immigration has swept across the plains, over the mountains, far on to the Pacific, within the memory of those of us who are here present in middle life. Alaska, with its mighty river and its vast stores of wealth, is a recent acquisition. Hawaii, and through the accident of war a multitude of islands slumbering in eastern and western seas, have come under the Stars and Stripes. Today we may say, as our brethren of the empire across the seas are wont to say, that the sun never sets upon our broad domain, for as his first beams kiss the hills of Maine, the afterglow of the sunset lingers on the top of the forest-crowned peaks of the Philippines.

The United States! Gentlemen, a state is something more than territory. All of these lands to which I have alluded existed before the United States was born. What constitutes a state? Territory? Yes; a you ato.

DIED.

BROWN—On Friday, November 4, 1904, at 12 o'clock, midnight, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Louis L. Sherman, 3511 Homer street, East End, SOLOMON BROWN, of New Castle, Pa.

Notice of funeral later.

a place to stand upon, as a matter of course. But that is not enough.

What constitutes a state?
Not high raised battlements or labored mound,
Thick wall or moated gate;
Not cities proud, with spires and turrets crowned;
Not marts and broad-armed ports
Where, laughing at the storm, proud navies ride;
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-browed baseness wafts perfume to pride.
No; men, high minded men—
Men who their duties know,
But know their rights, and knowing, dare maintain.
Prevent the long aimed blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain.
These constitute a state.

Thus the poet Akenside, as admirably paraphrased by Sir William Jones, has given expression to the great primal truth, that the essence of statehood is manhood.

Looking at the Past.

As I interrogate the pages of history, I find that tested by the answer of the poet we have the profoundest cause for gratitude. As was so magnificently pointed out by our distinguished guest from across the Atlantic, in his matchless address yesterday, to the soil of this virgin continent there have been brought all of those elements which, fused together, are certain to result in the development of a people who by the universal consent of intelligent mankind are destined to stand upon a globe made by infinite wisdom as the theater of human action. Saxon and Celt, Puritan and cavalier, men who love the right better than they love life, men of courage and of high ideals, were the forefathers in that mighty migration, far out-rivaling in its dimensions that elder migration which swept from the north to the far lands of the Mediterranean in the later days of the Cæsars. We have received to ourselves men of every nation and of every race on the globe, and there is here being formed a new amalgamation, a people who we fondly hope will illustrate in themselves the best that is in our humanity, physically, cerrainly; morally and spiritually, we trust.

The United States! Her mission is not only to create south out of the God-given treasures which are lodged in sun and soil, but to stand for blessings richer far than those of the fertile field and of the mine, the blessings which come to human life from pursuit of those things which are honorable and pure, and of good report. Her mission is armed with strength, to protect and uplift the lowly, to comfort them that mourn, and to show mercy and kindness to the oppressed and to the desolate of earth; to preach peace to all mankind, and to follow it.

And now, in conclusion, I cannot refrain from alluding to the fact that in all that we have we are to a certain large degree debtors to the noble spirits who have been potent in the counsels of that elder land that is so happily represented here this evening by one of her most distinguished scholars and statesmen. We, too, are the heirs of the speech of Shakespeare and of Milton. Our law is fundamentally the old law of England. We too have inherited our love of liberty and of justice from those who wrote Magna Charta and who fought at Marston moor. Our God is the God of our English fathers. This land so rich in hope is, after all, only Greater England in the west.

OLD PRINCIPLES APPLIED TO PROBLEMS OF TODAY

President of Columbia University Shows the Need of Trained Minds in the World's Workshops.

"Education in Its Relation to Its Commercial and Industrial Development" was the toast responded to by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university. Dr. Butler said, in part:

Not on the whole surface of our round globe could this sentiment be more precisely matched than in the city of furnaces and of factories, this busy center of trade and transportation, of which these astounding facts and figures are true, and where could there be a greater stimulus to a response than under the shadow of this great institution, dedicated to the development of letters and of science, which is arising almost within the sound of my voice. One of the most eminent of our American statesmen has said that education is the chief business of a democratic state, and if we interpret education as not merely the formal learning of the schools, but as the summation of all those influences which make for man's upbuilding and development, then who can doubt that he was perfectly right?

It is not true that this is the newest civilization the world has seen; it is the oldest. It stands upon the shoulders of all that has gone before, and in the interior of every great deed that has been done, of every great ideal that has been cherished, of every great thought that has stimulated man, whether it originated in Greece or Rome, in the orient, on the face of Europe or in any part of this great land of ours; and, the task of the day in which we live is not only to do the day's work, but to transmit that tradition, not only unhampered but enriched, to those who are to come after us. That is what education really means, and that is what the intelligent schools, the intelligent universities all over this land are endeavoring to do, and it means it with a peculiar force and significance in a commercial and industrial age; for look at what has happened.

Man Was Afraid of Nature.

"Why is it that man has been so long in conquering the very thing which has always lain at his hand? Why, is it, with all these vast achievements in art, in literature, in music, in war, in statesmanship—why is it that so long nature has repelled our advances and declined our address? Why was it reserved for the nineteenth century for a man to apply to the forms of external nature some tithe of the force he had been applying for generations to his own aspirations and his own ideals? The simple truth is that at first man was afraid of nature, and again, he had conquered no method with which to study it. Slowly man was afraid of nature. He looked at these stupendous forces which seemed too great for his capacity, the moving of the wind, the revolution of the earth or sun, whichever he conceived it to be; the rise and fall of the tide, and changes of the seasons; all these things seemed to him so stupendous as to be supernatural, so he felt himself to be gods and fell down in pagan worship. He had no method, he had no heart to question nature and pursue its secret.

It was reserved for a later day, when man had found he could do nothing with nature by dictating to it; it was reserved for that day, when some beginning of light dawned upon a globe made by infinite wisdom as the theater of human action. Saxon and Celt, Puritan and cavalier, men who love the right better than they love life, men of courage and of high ideals, were the forefathers in that mighty migration, far out-rivaling in its dimensions that elder migration which swept from the north to the far lands of the Mediterranean in the later days of the Cæsars. DR. J. LEONARD LEVY TO KIN ACROSS THE SEA

Responds to the Toast of "England, the Mother County"—The Cradle of Our Race.

The Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Eighth street temple, responded to the toast, "England, the Mother Country." Dr. Levy said in part:

In the very vanguard of civilizing forces never been England, our mother country. Whatever else the flag of old England has meant, it has persistently stood for impartial justice and a broad liberty. Whatever faults the critics may discover in England's policy, she has nevertheless been "the home of the brave and land of the free." Whatever wrong the cold cynic may close in our mother's heart, it must be generally conceded that she has been among the world's great civilizing forces, bearing the ark of the political covenant of peace and progress and abundantly demonstrating that "peace hath her victories not less renowned than war."

Whatever England's relation to the world, whatever the historic part she has played in relation to other nations, as American citizens we are after all most interested in that phase of her history that most intimately connects her with us. Great Britain is the cradle of our race. The blood in the veins of the American people is drawn from English sources. The founders of this nation brought with them from Albion's isle "all that was democratic in her polity and protestant in her religion." The influence of colonial times still lives in our present-day institutions, and it is in honor of revers such English names as Raleigh and Penn, John Smith and Roger Williams. Our language, the greater part of our literature, much of our law, the spirit of our Constitution, we owe to the mother country. The translated Bible, read in most of our churches, comes to us from Hampton court.

England and America are truly "kin across the sea." Are not liberty and democracy their mutual gifts to humanity? Tell me where, except under the aegis of their flags, will you find liberty on this earth? Will you say yet that there is liberty yet in Germany? Does liberty exist in Austria? Can you truly say that there is liberty in France or Italy. Is liberty to be found in Russia? No; but in the lands where Old Glory flies and where the Union Jack is hoisted, there and there alone, does liberty dwell; only there have liberal governments been established and only there is democracy the prevailing sentiment. Both of these peoples have been used as the rod of God's chastisement to the Spanish nation, which, above all others, has represented unrelenting cruelty and bitter oppression.

God forbid that I should plead for a political alliance! God forbid that I should utter a word in behalf of any union of forces which should take England and America on a career of world-empire, splashing through the blood of our fellowmen to an imperial throne! God forbid that these two countries should be allied by any alliance "that pens can make and pens can unmake." There is stronger than treaties, and if, tonight, our tribute to the mother country is to rise above a mere idle compliment and formal acknowledgement, it must take the form of a pledge that these two nations, which before God and one people, will be found on the broad high plane which makes for peace instead of war, for brotherhood instead of fratricide. I hope, therefore, that the motherland may have before her ages of continued usefulness in spreading the Gospel of liberty and justice.

I trust that the good old ship "Great Britain" may never founder on the sunken rocks of political deceit. I hope that the doors of her island home and loyal colonies may never turn on the rusty hinges of disloyalty to the highest political ideals. I trust that about the tree of British national life there may twine the ivy of gratitude and that the clusters which grow thereon may be fruits of repentance. In the name of our kinsmen across the sea, in the name of that most intimately connects her with us, in the name of our common ties of blood, speech, literature, hopes and aspirations; in the name of children yet unborn and generations still unintroduced to earth's life; in the name of international fraternity and universal peace; in the name of human progress that shall set the world singing the angels' chorus of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men." I pledge tonight "England—Our Mother Country."

THE EDUCATIONAL FUTURE OF PITTSBURGH DEPICTED

Chancellor McCormick of the Western University Makes a Strong Plea for His Institution.

The Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, spoke on "The Educational Future of Pittsburgh." His address is of peculiar interest at this time and was followed with close attention. He said:

The educational future of Pittsburgh will be what the people of Pittsburgh choose to make it. It is good for us to dream dreams, the most splendid, and to see visions, the most glorious, provided that we also think big thoughts, conceive big ideas and purpose big results; and provided further that we are diligent to persuade ourselves that no vision is too splendid, and no idea too large and no purpose too mighty to be changed into an equally great reality. Applying this thought, my purpose tonight, we do not hesitate to declare our conviction that the future of Pittsburgh, in the provision to be made for the education of her youth and in the development of her institutions of learning, will give her fame in the intellectual equal to that which she worthily enjoys in the industrial and commercial world. The problem is really a very simple one.

Given a population in the two cities of practically half a million, with several hundred thousand more in the immediate vicinity.

Given an accumulation of wealth in manufactory and commerce, in field and bank, in oil and gas and coal, and in every form of business investment and enterprise almost beyond the possibility of computation and altogether beyond the power of the imagination to conceive.

Wonderful Educational Future.

Given on the part of this vast population, possessed of these inexhaustible treasures, a type of character which is famed for its sterling integrity, its high moral purpose, its benedicent generosity and its aspiration to the best in the realm both of the intellect and of the soul.

Given all these, and surely we can predicate an educational future for such a community, wonderful in its possibilities and in its realization.

But it is sometimes declared that the material interests of Pittsburgh are so varied and so immense, that the demand by these upon her energies, both physical and mental, is so absorbing that it is idle to expect education to divert any considerable part of this energy to her own interests. We do not for a moment believe this theory and, on the contrary, believe that existing facts altogether disprove it. Note some of the facts.

The highest act of the human soul, higher than any operation of mere intellect or feeling or will, because combining all these, and centering upon a perfect being in apprehension, submission, reverence and love, is the act of worship. The people of Pittsburgh have erected nearly 400 church edifices, scores of which are most costly, in order that they may give expression, in worship, to their love and adoration of Almighty God. This fact distinguishes any community as highest.

Next to worship comes, perhaps, love for men and kindness toward those who are in distress, and when we seek to know how far Pittsburgh's absorbing material interests permit the exercise of these graces, the widow, the orphan, the aged, the fatherless poor, the sick, the suffering, will tell you that the people have provided something like 100 benevolent institutions in our midst, among these, nearly 50 homes of various sorts, 20 hospitals, 10 helping societies; all contributing to the relief and uplift of those who have fallen by the way and need the ministry of kindness and love.

Pittsburgh's Appreciation of Art.

But do the people care for art? Go to the art centers of Europe where the costliest product of artistic genius, ancient and modern, may be purchased, and it is Pittsburgh's appreciation of art which is everywhere spoken of, and follow the crowds of people where such products are exhibited here and one may learn whether our people care for art or not.

Or music? Since the Carnegie music halls were erected and opportunity has been given to hear, to music—the music that appeals to the cultured, music-loving soul—no person need be in doubt as to whether the Scotch-Irish stock of Pittsburgh care for music. Here, too, is an orchestra, one of the very finest, supported by the people and today, wherever men are informed, there

DR. LEVY REPLIES TO TOAST IN HIS HONOR

He Admits That an Emotional Chord Had Been Touched—Grand Tribute to Pittsburgh.

The toast, "John Morley, the Statesman and Man of Letters," proffered by the toastmaster, was received amid the wildest applause. As the last tones of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" died out, Mr. Morley arose and said, in part:

I thank you. It is no ordinary pleasure to be present at this joyous and genial feast. I am no sentimentalist, but one topic has arisen here that is dear to my heart, and is nearer to the heart of my countryman than any topic could have been. It is indicated in the interblending of our Union Jack and your Stars and Stripes behind me here. I felt full of emotion when I heard you sing our national anthem, which is us, in England, at all events, touches a chord which never fails to respond.

I and my countrymen can find no fault in what was said here by your toastmaster when he referred to Great Britain, the foremost country in the world (Laughter). I was delighted to hear it (Laughter). I would never have ventured in the United States to make any such claims, but now that it has been said I cheerfully and gratefully accept it.

Pittsburgh as a center of materialism is great, and her spiritual inspirations are of the highest character. Now for the material side for a moment. I visited the Homestead Steel works this morning, and I have seen many in my country, but I believe the iron and steel men of my country who were here several days will concur with me when I say I have seen the most stupendous to be seen in any country. This is not altogether a source of satisfaction. Can we in Great Britain compete with this energy, system and organization? I hope we can. I think though, we will have to waken up. I think we shall waken up.

Now I come to another thought. I hold firmly and strongly to a doctrine, which I believe I hold alone in this important assemblage—I am a free trader. I have heard great proprecies on your coming election, but unfortunately I shall not be here to find out if they will be fulfilled. I hope that your prophecies for the world's progress and your own will be literally fulfilled. In Great Britain on a former occasion, a period of protection is said to have done. It might be unbecoming of me to say that protection has fostered many of your great industries. But it is so hard to get rid of protection when the fostered industries have grown to their full bloom.

There has been great rejoicing among your manufacturers over the misguided report that our countrymen would revert to protection. To tell you honestly, although it might dampen some hopes, I don't believe it. I have been told, for confidence, that the election in the United States is a foregone conclusion. Well, I will tell you in the same confidence that the coming election in my country is also a foregone conclusion. That is, we are not going to allow even a small tariff on food or raw material, we will not embark on the perilous and foggy voyage of protection. Now govern yourselves accordingly.

I congratulate myself upon being the first Englishman, or rather the first citizen of Great Britain, to come to Pittsburgh and see such manifestations of international goodwill as we have seen here tonight. Difficulties may arise, I hope few—none—but if any, they will be surmounted if the two peoples understand one another as we do tonight, and meet face to face as we do tonight, and both deal fairly and work together toward the contribution of the world's peace and progress and the welfare of mankind. I shall take care to communicate to my friends in Great Britain (though they are not, I fear, converted by eloquence tonight, or my economical heresies) a feeling exists far deeper than things political and that our social ideas and the unity of our race for the good of the world and the happiness of mankind shall remain unbroken. As long as I live I shall never forget the reception and enlightened ideas of the people of Pittsburgh.

McKinley Memorial Trustees to Meet.

CANTON, O., Nov. 4.—To ratify the decision of the committee on design and attend to other important affairs in connection with the building of the memorial, the trustees of the National McKinley Memorial association will meet in New York Tuesday, November 22, in the rooms of the Republican club, 54 West Fortieth street.

STARS OF HEAVEN CONTROL MARKETS

Mrs. Ruth Park Has Sure Thing on Railroads, Sugar and Copper Holdings.

SELLS KNOWLEDGE TO PUBLIC

"You were born under Jupiter, in the sign Sagacious. You are by nature intuitive and your judgment is always right, but you frequently allow a friend to lead you aside and then you lose. You are everlasting in your friendships, but if a man does you an injury you tell him about it as quick as you can snap your finger, and you are done with him forever. You are intensely Republican and you want to see Teddy elected. You have been successful in the market, but you should never sell. People born under Jupiter in Sagacious should always buy. They should never sell. Any business you go into, you keep on buying."

This is the horoscope of a Gazette reporter as furnished by Mrs. Ruth H. Park of 103 Forty-fourth street. Mrs. Park is a remarkable woman. She can foretell the vagaries of the stock market a week ahead of time and is doing a rushing business selling her tips at $5 a week to the votaries of the ticker and the tape.

When the reporter called on Mrs. Park last evening there were several ahead of him and he had to go back to the dining room and wait. There was an elderly gentleman there whom a younger woman in the room called "Pap." "Pap" and the reporter struck up a conversation. It began about the weather, which naturally led to the statement that it was too dry to do any hunting. This naturally led to rabbit dogs and coon dogs and the subject of rabbits brought up Glade Mills, up in Butler county, that being good rabbit country.

Bob Sold His Oil Well.

Glade Mills is in the Butler county oil field and this led into oil and there "Pap" seemed to be at home. His brother-in-law has a half-dozen wells up at Glade Mills and he pumps about $12 worth of oil a day from them. It's an easy living. "Bob" had a good chance last spring. He owned a half-interest in a lease at Glade Mills and his partner decided to put down a well. "Bob" looked over the ground and says he, "ye kin hev my half-interest. I don't want nothin' to do with thet." Well sir, his pardner drilled it and when she come in, oil spouted clear over the durrick. Then she settled down to 30 bar'l a day and she's been runnin' that ever since. "Tother day, when I wuz up there, I asked Bob: 'Bob hev ye ever figgered up how much ye didn't git by not goin' into thet well?' He says: 'Naw. I been too all-fired hot at myself to do any figgerin'."

Then "Pap" laid back in his chair and laughed and the reporter laid back in his chair and laughed and wondered, to himself, why, with an astrologer in the family "Bob" ever let a "30 bar'l" well get away from him like that.

In the midst of their hilarity Mrs. Park appeared and said the reporter could come into the parlor. The parlor is one of those rooms that is cheerful according to the old school. Haircloth furniture, with springs in the seats that keep a fellow kind of sitting around like to get off one of them. A tombstone, called in the ancient days a "marble mantel," a gas stove sitting in front of the closed fireplace, heightened the ghastliness of the graveyard look of the mantel and robbed the room of what other cheerfulness it might have had. The reporter got right down to business at once, as he could see Mrs. Park was a business woman.

Wheat Not in Her Line.

"I saw your ad. in this evening's paper," he said, "and as I am interested in the market, I thought I'd call. Can you tell me anything about wheat?"

Mrs. Park backed up at once. "I never have anything to do with the wheat market. I am a psychic. You understand, don't you? I am an astrologer. I thoroughly understand the science of astrology and I know that, next to the good Lord Himself, the planets control everything. I have made a special study of speculation and have discovered just what planets control railroad stocks, sugar stocks, copper stocks, etc. But I have never made any study of wheat. There is a planet that controls the wheat market, but I have not studied that out. But the stock market I have under absolute and complete control. I can tell you every Saturday what to play for the next week. I can tell you the hour a change is to take place and whether it will be up or down. I have foretold the market absolutely correct 11 days out of every 12. In fact in five weeks I have only missed it three times. Now isn't that grand?"

The reporter admitted that this was great work. The astrologer is a big, fleshy woman, with high cheek bones, a big, pleasant face and hair that is next to blonde. She weighs about 170 pounds and looks as if three square meals was an everyday occurrence. When the reporter asked her if she went into a trance to do her figuring she leaned back in her chair and laughed until she shook all over.

Has Written Book on Astrology.

"Do I look as if I were subject to trances?" she inquired, as her mirth broke out again. Then she read the horoscope. "No, sir. I don't need to go into a trance. I am a scientist. I have $500 worth of scientific books on astrology. I have written a book on astrology which is ready for printing.

Mrs. Park has struck a new line. She reads horoscopes occasionally, but she is not a fortune teller. Her specialty is furnishing tips on the stock market. She prefers to give her tips on "the ups," as she puts it, rather than on "the downs." She does not seem to have gotten the bears psychologically corralled as yet, and is liable to slip up in her advice to those who would sell. She can always pick a rising market, she said, but is not so certain about a falling one. When the reporter tried to explain that this failing was liable to leave a client up in the air with a large batch of stocks which had lost their bottom, she did not seem to understand. Evidently the mysteries and terms of the stock market were more mysterious and foreign to her than the terms of astrology.

Mrs. Park has been publishing free tips on the market to advertise her business. Superstitious speculators have been following them with fairly good success during the past week. The free tips have now ceased and in the future she is going to charge $5 a week for her service.

Is Going Into Market.

"They'll all be coming to me soon," she said. "I'm going to show the people of this country that I can do just what I say I'll do. The big ones will be coming to me soon. And I'm going to use my knowledge for myself, too. I'm going to play the market. Not myself. I don't dare go into the market. Why, I was in there yesterday and I just got to going all over. I just wanted to get right out on the floor and I felt the most peculiar sensation. You know I'm a psychic. Well I just got going all over until I had an attack of heart failure and I had to get out of there.

"It would kill me, but I'll send 'Pap' to do my speculating for me. Now you wouldn't be affected by it at all. You'd just stay there and be as cool as ice, whether you win or lose. You are a born sport. When your money is going away from you, you just have as much fun as when it is coming toward you. You will be immensely wealthy some day and it will all come from the stock market. But as I said, don't sell. Buy all the time. Any business you go into, don't try to sell anything. Just keep on buying."

That such a course would eventually result in a man going broke or else owning everything and being equally bad off, did not seem to occur to Mrs. Park. She was anxious to enroll the reporter as a client, but his horoscope was as much as he could stand for in one evening. The $5 per week is invariably in advance.

The Railroads Will Change Schedules in a short time. Don't get left. Have a breakfast of DUNLEVY'S WHITE LILY SAUSAGES before starting out. They are all pork but the spices. Sold by leading dealers.

BRIDGE VICTIM NOT IDENTIFIED

Viewed by Hundreds at Morgue and Is Twice Mistaken for Other People.

CLOTHING NEW AND GOOD

The body of the woman who committed suicide by jumping off the Sixth street bridge in the Allegheny river Thursday night was recovered by Samuel W. Carpenter yesterday afternoon. Although the body was viewed by 500 men and women last night she still remains unidentified. It was also determined yesterday the woman did not have a baby in her arms when she ended her life.

There are two women in this city who resemble the woman closely. She was twice identified yesterday by different persons, but after they had made sworn statements as to the name and age, it was learned that both these women were still alive. One of the identifications was made by a father and brother, who said the woman was a daughter and sister. The father became uncertain after he made his affidavit and asked to view the woman again. His daughter had a scar on her left foot. On the left foot of the drowned woman was a bruise received in the fall, which the men had mistaken for a scar.

Last night the woman was identified again by two women as a friend who lived in Lawrenceville. Later it was learned this person was living. Both women who had been taken for the dead woman called at the morgue later. They bore a striking resemblance to the unfortunate girl.

The woman is about 26 years old, five feet two inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds. She had black hair, regular features and her teeth are perfect with exception of a small gold filling in the right upper eye tooth. She was well dressed, wearing a short tan cloth coat, flannel waist, with a blue and white figure, and oxford shoes, black underskirt and a black cloth skirt, white felt hat with green trimmings. Her clothing was practically new.

John Frederick Kofman, aged 30, of Ellsworth, died at the West Penn hospital last night from injuries received in the Ellsworth mines. His back was broken by a fall of slate on September 14.

Antonio Giuliano of 7316 Tioga street has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of Vincenzo Gelardi, who shot and killed Pasquale Rochetti, October 30, in West End. The fugitive is described as being a man five feet six inches tall, about 40 years old, weighs about 140 pounds, red hair, long red eyebrows and long red mustache. The city detectives are also looking for Gelardi.

Director Moore of the department of public safety ordered the police and detectives to spare no effort or expense in capturing Gelardi. Giuliano was a friend of Rochetti.

Annie Meagher of Rochester, N. Y., last night identified the man who was killed on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at McKees Rocks, October 26, as her brother, Frank T. Meagher. There was a letter found on the dead man which led to the location of his relatives.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Hundreds Flock from All Parts of the Monongahela Valley to Braddock.

An institute held last evening under the auspices of the Braddock public school teachers in Carnegie music hall, Braddock, was attended by 300 teachers of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin, with many from Turtle Creek and East Pittsburgh, and hundreds of parents and friends of pupils. The institute will be continued this morning. Prof. Grant Norris, superintendent of the Braddock schools, presided. Dr. H. V. Hotchkiss, superintendent of the public schools at Akron, O., delivered an address, "Some Educational Mile Stones." Prof. Samuel Hamilton of Braddock talked on "The Rights and Duties of Parents."

The session this morning will open at 9 o'clock. Prof. J. L. Allison of Wilkinsburg will speak on "Self-Culture Necessary for Culture of Others," and Prof. George H. Lamb of Braddock will talk on "The Relation of Schools With the Library." Prof. J. M. Morris of Homestead will speak on "The Teacher—In Loco Parentis," and the closing address of the institute will be by Prof. Hamilton on "The Recitation."

SCANT HOPE FROM BIGELOW.

Sixth Ward People May Get Cement Walk in Bluff Street, but That Is All.

The committee of residents of the Sixth ward, who are asking for a public park in Bluff street, received scant hope yesterday from Director Bigelow when they called to request that the $10,000 appropriated for the park be expended for that purpose.

Bigelow told the committee there was not enough ground available for a park in Bluff street, and that if trees were planted there they would be killed by the gaseous atmosphere that ascends from the gas plant in Second avenue. The committee said if they could have even a cement walk along the outside of Bluff street it would be acceptable. Director Bigelow finally consented to go over the ground.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME TO SEE WORLD'S FAIR

Two runaway boys were detained at South Side police station last night. They were William Manon, aged 13, and Muriel Esplen, aged 11, both of Sheraden. The boys left home yesterday to go to the world's fair. An officer found them at the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie depot. They had already purchased tickets for St. Louis, but these were redeemed. They admitted they had left home without the knowledge of their parents.

Agents Receive Heavy Fines.

L. Burnett and J. E. Adams, who were arrested by Detectives Eagan and Sieffert Thursday as suspicious persons, were arraigned for a hearing before Magistrate Stewart yesterday. Burnett was ordered to pay $100 and costs and Adams $50. The latter paid his fine, but Burnett was sent to the workhouse for 90 days. The men were arrested for obtaining money under false pretense by advertising.

Cured of Asthma

After Years of Terrible Suffering.

Mary Josephine Bezy, Floyd Knob, Ind., writes: "After suffering untold agonies for 33 years from Asthma, I was cured by Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. I used to be so bad that I could not move without help, but I can now do all my own work." Another writes: "My little boy 7 years old has been a sufferer for several years, some times so bad off that we could not hold him in bed, expecting any moment for him to breathe his last. Doctors did him no good and we had almost given up in despair, when through accident we heard of Schiffmann's Asthma Cure, tried it and it almost instantly relieved him." Mrs. D. C. Harris, Elbow P. O., Va.

Mr. W. Serena, Cavalier, N. D., says: "I was troubled with asthma for 20 years, about 8 years ago I started to use your Asthma Cure, and have not had an attack for six years."

HAMILTON'S

A Quick Clearance of

USED PIANOS

We did not expect to make any special announcements of this kind during the fall, but our percentage of exchanges of old pianos has been much larger than usual during the past month, with the result that our exchange rooms are unusually crowded. Therefore the necessity for a quick clearance. It is unnecessary to dilate on the quality. We would not offer anything that did not give full value and more.

Here's the list of uprights, all in good condition, remember:

Wheelock, -	$100	Tiffany, - -	$160
Chickering -	100	Erhardt, - -	165

50 Cent Thanksgiving Dinners.

MONDAY and continuing up to the day before Thanksgiving we will serve daily in our Restaurant, sixth floor, West, a Thanksgiving Turkey Dinner for the very remarkable figure of 50c. The turkey will be accompanied by toothsome side dishes incidental to such a dinner.

Lovers of fine shell oysters are notified that we make a specialty of serving Morris Cove and Blue Point Oysters on the half shell, and that we receive our day's supply absolutely fresh every morning, direct from Baltimore's big oyster man.

This Is Children's Day in Toyland.

EACH Saturday sees the children more and more enthusiastic over our wonderful exhibit of toys. Today the display will be more favorable than any day since we opened our Christmas collection, for the holiday exhibit is ready and includes everything novel in toys from Europe and everything novel that is made in the toy centers of America.

We urge parents if they cannot come themselves to let their children come alone. This department of the West Basement is theirs. It is maintained solely in the interest of children. They can spend many hours here of a Saturday feasting their young minds with the delights of Toyland.

$1.00 Pr. for Women's $1.65 and $1.75 Kid Gloves.

THIS sale today is the greatest we ever held in fine kid gloves for women, that we are exclusive agents for, and which we retail in a regular way for $1.65 and $1.75. They are French Suede Gloves of real kid in three-clasp lengths, and the only reason we are permitted to sell them for the even dollar a pair is that they are known as throw-outs from excess orders.

There are different cuts, medium, long and short fingers, medium and short hands. There is about any color that can be called for, including black and white, and of course all sizes. On sale this morning at the Glove Counter, East Store, and choice is from 3,600 pairs which reached us yesterday direct from the makers in France.

A Christmas suggestion: We'll sell you one dozen pairs of these gloves for $11.00.

Women's Shoes and Slippers.

WOMEN who are partial to inexpensive shoes should examine the splendid lines we have and which are sold for $3.00 and $3.50 a pair. We claim, and we are backed up in our claim by thousands and thousands of women who wear these shoes, that they are equal in every particular to shoes that sell for $1.00 more. And we also claim to sell better slippers, slippers that are full of style, for less money than such grades can be purchased for elsewhere. Speaking again of shoes, our variety extends from the very light sole and Louis XV. heel to the very heavy double-sole waterproof shoe, and in between these extremes there is about any weight desired. Some detail of our slipper variety—

White Kid Slippers, in all widths, $1.50 a pair.
Fur-trimmed Juliets and Felt Slippers, all styles and colors, $1.00 to $2.50 a pair.
White Satin Slippers, for $2.50 a pair.

Saturday, November 5, 1904.

The banquet of the chamber of commerce last night was made memorable by the presence of such distinguished guests as Mr. Morley, the English statesman and man of letters, and Dr. Butler, president of Columbia university, New York. The list of toasts covered subjects of the greatest importance and the speeches made are of such permanent value that we give an extensive report of them in our news columns.

The necessity for measures to prevent the overcrowding of street cars was again exemplified by the accident on Fifth avenue Thursday evening. A fuse burned out on a Hamilton avenue car because it was overloaded, causing a panic and the painful injury of one passenger, together with a blockade of traffic for many minutes. The results might easily have been worse. The adoption of Assistant Controller Morrow's ordinance would at least prevent the crowding of platforms, and that is where the overload is usually found. That ordinance, however, has been juggled into the corporations committee of select council, where it is likely to remain, on a plea that it is not a proper measure for the committee on public safety. As a matter of fact, the general police power of the city is ample to prohibit this dangerous overloading of public conveyances if exerted to that end, but the proposed ordinance is valuable as a specific mandate to that effect.

The New York Sun, which is supporting the Democratic candidate for governor of New York while supporting the Republican national ticket, finds it necessary to explain to its readers not only the claims of the candidate or its choice but also the way he spells his name and why he does so. The correct form is D-Cady Herrick, and thus it appears on the official ballot, but puzzled citizens keep inquiring why D-Cady instead of D. Cady. It appears that the D is not a contraction of anything, but is part of a name. Judge Herrick's father was an admirer of Daniel Cady and wanted to name his son after him, but did not want him to have more than two names, so he invented the hyphenated word D-Cady as the child's Christian name. Perhaps if the Democratic masses had known that a man with a hyphenated name was being brought forward even Judge Parker's recommendation might not have been able to settle the nomination. D. Cady might have stood a chance of election, but D-Cady suggests decadence.

At the last presidential election eight presidential tickets were voted for, some receiving only a few thousand votes in the whole country in a total poll of nearly 14,000,000. The Socialists, who poll less than 140,000 votes in the whole country, regularly put two presidential tickets in the field and they have two columns upon the ballot in most of the states this year. What good reason of public policy is there that the lists of nominees made by such small bodies should be placed in the hands of every voter at public expense, as is the general practice? It appears to be assumed that this is an essential feature of the Australian ballot system. As a matter of fact that system does not admit the names of anybody to the ballot unless a proportionate share of the expense is borne. The same rule ought to be applied in this country. It is sufficient if the state distributes the ballots, but it ought not to bear what is really party expenses. If any little party wants to advertise the fact of its existence by getting upon the official ballot it ought to bear the expense. That requirement would not be any check whatever upon an organization possessing genuine public support, but it would keep the ballot from being loaded down with tickets put up without any expectation of being elected, but as a cheap scheme of political agitation, and it would also put a stop to the formation of mushroom parties for fraudulent purposes. In Maryland "Repudiation," "Reformation" and other bogus parties have gotten upon the official ballot with lists of nominees made for no purpose except to confuse ignorant voters.

The importance of sound judgment and capacity in the presidential office is impressively set forth by Secretary Shaw by contrasting the results which followed Cleveland's precipitancy and those which have attended the wary circumspection shown by Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt. No one disputes President Cleveland's courage and integrity, but he carried into the presidential office the campaign habit of alarmist statement and applied himself to the management of public affairs in a way that upset business confidence and soon brought the country from a condition of prosperity to one of distress. He handled the silver question in a way that lost him the support of his own party in congress, creating faction feuds which have divided it ever since and which seem likely to transform its character. Secretary Shaw points out that during the last three years the country has passed through a speculative mania which might readily have been the occasion of panic had there been any weakness or incapacity in the national administration, but confidence and stability have been maintained. These views of the importance of the presidential office are not in the least exaggerated, although they seem to indicate that our constitutional system has assumed such a shape that we are putting all our eggs in one basket. Popular instinct seems to have led to the adoption of "Puddin'head Wilson's" rule: "Put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket."

Mr. Parker Answered.

Great ado has been made in the closing days of the campaign by Democratic orators, who, without any issue to talk about, have been compelled to fall back upon malicious statements involving the president and Mr. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican national committee, charging the latter with using knowledge gained as secretary of the department of commerce and labor in blackmailing the trusts for campaign funds. Judge Parker has been the chief offender in this respect, his speech at Hartford on Thursday night being a particularly flagrant one. That these charges are maliciously false is proven in the statement issued last night by Mr. Roosevelt. It is a complete refutation of Mr. Parker's charges, and is made in the president's usual forceful manner. The situation is surely an uncomfortable one for the Democratic candidate and his answer to the president's letter—if he can make one—is awaited with interest.

Went Too Far.

In amending the rule so as to prevent participation in the Republican primaries by citizens who did not vote the Republican ticket last February, even though they do vote the whole ticket next week, the Republican city committee went too far. This action appears in the nature of undue punishment for the offense of voting other than the party ticket under stress of excitement and expectations that were none the less attractive because they have not been realized. It would be better to take the view that those citizens who were misled at that time are now ready to remain more loyal to their party because they have been taught the lesson by experience. Those who were Republicans prior to that time and those who desire to be Republicans in the future ought to be encouraged in their good resolve rather than forbidden to mend their ways. Republicanism spells progress and is founded on principles of justice and liberty.

Among those who voted the Citizens party ticket last February are the Orphans. They were mistaken, but they were honest in their error. They should be welcomed back into the Republican party as useful members, because their honesty and sincerity cannot be doubted. There are many others equally deserving of consideration, and it will be a mistake if they are barred from participation in the city primaries merely because they mistakenly followed insincere promises for the achievement of their high ideals. Of course, the purpose of the final amendment was to shut out the corrupt and corrupting influences of the existing political control of the city, a purpose laudable enough in itself, but mature reflection will convince every fair-minded man that this undesirable element is far from constituting a majority of those who would be debarred by the rule. That element may, indeed, make an attempt to secure control of the party machinery, but that consideration ought not to operate to shut out good citizens whose votes will help to prevent that control. In any event, the Republicans ought to be willing to take their chances in a fight where the issues are as plain as in this city. There is yet time to recall the committee and rectify this error.

Founder's Day Significance.

Mr. John Morley's address on Founder's day had for its appropriate theme "Progress." While the British statesman took a broad view of world history and affairs, of the upbuilding of the great American republic, there lay close about him an illustration of his theme in the progress of the institution he honored by his distinguished presence. Indeed, that has ever been the watchword of the Carnegie institute from its first foundation. That is the idea typified in the designation of its anniversary celebration as Founder's day. It was founded by Mr. Carnegie, but it is never to cease growing, never to be complete.

When that building in which Mr. Morley spoke was dedicated, Pittsburgh felt it had acquired a magnificent institution for learning. The world admired and sent its congratulations. On Thursday it was apparent to the observer that the imposing Carnegie institute of nine years ago will soon become but one of a group of great buildings devoted to literature, learning, art and culture. The report of Col. Samuel Harden Church is a summary of progress that has been made and gives a glimpse of the strides that are to follow. It is significant of the character and purpose of the institution that Mr. John Morley, member of the British parliament, came to its anniversary with an eloquent address on the cosmopolitan progress of the world, discussing freely the social forces that have moved and are shaping the policies of nations and the enlightened thought of the time.

It may be truthfully said that Pittsburgh has a better appreciation, at this ninth opening of the art season, of the present value and future greatness of the institute than at any previous time. It is more cordially in sympathy with the design of the founder and more impressed by the beneficence of his purpose. It follows, necessarily, that Pittsburgh is more in the mood to enjoy to the full and benefit by the treasures there gathered. This season of the art galleries and the orchestra will be more largely attended than those which preceded it. As for the library, its usefulness grows from year to year, the fact being fully attested by the thousands of its readers. With the completion of the new buildings the museum will take its place in the foremost rank among those of the world. Last, but not least, the Technical schools will really become a part of this splendid institution, one of the superstructures imposed upon the well-conceived foundation. In the year to come Founder's day will be more enthusiastically celebrated by the whole people. There is not, anywhere in the world, another institution devoted to culture and progress that has grown so rapidly as this, either in its material acquisitions or in popular appreciation.

The Business Situation.

Facing the presidential election, the business of the country, both commercial and financial, presents an aspect of confidence that has probably never before been witnessed under similar circumstances. In previous presidential years, even when the outcome was not involved in serious doubt, business hesitated until the ballots were counted on both the presidential and congressional tickets. In 1896 and 1900 this holding back of enterprise was most conspicuous, and genuine improvement did not appear until some time after election day.

This year the usual order has been reversed. Confidence was first manifested in the stock market immediately after the nominations were made. This confidence was maintained throughout the campaign and developed into absolute buoyancy. It has finally extended from Wall street until it seems to embrace the whole country. It is particularly noticeable in the iron trade, where there has been actual improvement in present conditions and notable preparations for business in 1905. The bright outlook and the increasing demand for future delivery has had the effect of strengthening prices, not alone for iron and steel products, but for nearly all staple commodities. Dun's Index Number for November 1 shows an average advance of more than one per cent over October prices and more than 1.6 per cent over prices for the corresponding date a year ago. Since the compilation of these figures there has been a further advance in iron and steel products, coal and coke.

Notwithstanding the falling off in the movement of grain, as compared with a year ago, railroad gross earnings for the latest reported dates show an increase of more than 10 per cent. This indicates that the distribution of merchandise has increased sufficiently to more than offset the decrease in grain shipments. Another gratifying feature of the returns is that the improvement in railroad earnings cover all sections of the country.

The soundness of the general situation is indicated by the record of business failures. Dun's Review today reports that during the month of October the failures in the United States numbered 888, as compared with 1,086 for the same month last year. The liabilities involved in last month's failures were only $10,525,728, against $18,387,567 a year ago. These figures cover strictly commercial failures. In banking circles the improvement is much more striking. But seven banking institutions suspended last month, involving liabilities of only $842,660. In October, 1903, the banking failures numbered 21, with liabilities exceeding $13,000,000.

Another contrast which the situation today presents to that of last year or to other presidential years is the prevailing ease in the money market. Almost invariably on the eve of a presidential election there is a sharp advance in rates for call loans. Four years ago the rate ran up to 25 per cent, and eight years ago to more than double that figure. This week the highest rate was 2½ per cent, and this in the face of exports of $5,000,000 gold to Paris and $2,000,000 to Cuba. On the whole the difference in the tone of business sentiment has been as radical as that which has this year attended the conduct of the political campaign.

Our Consular Service.

How to improve our consular service will be a subject for discussion at the next convention of the national board of trade in Washington, and leading commercial organizations composing the body are asked to bring suggestions for its betterment. This is an entirely appropriate subject for boards of trade, as the consul is really a commercial agent who can best serve his country by the completeness and accuracy of his reports on business conditions in the country where he is stationed. If his reports are of value to the American manufacturer he is really building up trade in foreign countries. Ordinarily the consular reports are thrown in the waste basket, but occasionally a representative abroad presents his facts in such an interesting light that one cannot fail to notice them.

The early conception of the duties of such an office was rather vague. It was regarded as a reward for some political service and newspapermen have been most frequently allotted to the places. Previous training has not been considered essential and few such representatives know about international law. The result has been to discredit our country, whose agents must be compared by foreigners with the trained diplomats of Great Britain, where such posts belong to a profession in which education is continual and advancements are made on attainment.

The United States consul is not even required to possess a knowledge of the language of the nation he visits, although it may be such a general one as French. There is reason to believe, however, that some time we shall require familiarity with such ordinary court languages as French and German as a requisite to appointment and insist that our consul shall know something about international law. Recent changes in the consular service indicate a tendency in this direction, for President Roosevelt has made a good many transfers and promotions based on merit. By making the office a permanent one it will offer some attractions as a life vocation, with constant hope of advancement. But the qualifications cannot be determined by civil service examinations alone, as the candidate must possess certain fitness of character that will not appear in written tests.

Chefoo reports the total Japanese losses before Port Arthur during the past three months at 40,0000. This amount is not more than half of the aggregate of the losses reported from Chefoo in detail, but compared with the authentic account published yesterday morning is probably 10,000 above the actual figures.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Ever since the doors of the St. Regis hotel opened for patrons, Manager R. M. Haan's life has been full of trouble. More tales have been written about the St. Regis in its short existence than about any other hotel in the city. Some of them have not pleased the manager. For some days personals have been appearing in the papers signed "M. Ve D.," addressed to "Count V.," imploring him to come to her at the St. Regis. Today appeared in French the reply of the count, which, when made into English, says: "M. Ve D.—Under what name are you registered at the St. Regis? Go somewhere else; and do not make a public scandal; I implore you to remember our good name; write to me in care of the consulate.—Victor."

Mr. Haan declares someone is trying to bring the good name of his house into discredit. "The advertisement," he said today, "was put in by enemies to injure me. There are no broken-hearted countesses at the hotel, and the 'personal' has no meaning. I will prosecute the persons who wrote and inspired that advertisement if I can find them. Detectives in my employ are now trying to run down several clues which they have found, and I believe I know who wrote the 'personal' though I have no evidence on which I could now proceed." Moreover Mr. Haan is worried about the stories of high prices at his hostelry. He declares this "crusade" is keeping people who would bring him wealth without sadly injuring their exchequer away from his house. Still the names on the register at the St. Regis would indicate that the hotel is doing very well for a start.

National Committee Buys Gold Brick.

The Republican national committee has just learned that it bought a gold brick when it ordered several bales of pamphlets entitled: "Gerove, Taika ir Progresas. Zmogus del Zmoniu, Kurs per save prieiausmes deiet Avetimtauczia, ukusu Suvienytu Vaistiju, yra skirtmas del ju paramos."

This pamphlet, a 16-page affair, was sent in large numbers to the Hungarian quarter. The consignment came back promptly, as being unintelligible. A truckload was then sent to the Bohemian quarter, with the same result. All corners of the earth were searched for a tribe with representatives in this country among whom the pamphlets might be made useful, but without success. Yesterday a strange man who happened along gave the literary bureau a shock by picking up one of the pamphlets and reading it. This man said that the unknown language was none other than Pennsylvania Dutch.

P. S.—A man from Reading, Berks county, Pa., has just dropped into this office and denies that the above pamphlet is Pennsylvania Dutch. He said: "Das ist nit Bennsylvany Deutsch, alretty yet. You kann tell de diffruns by mine langwitch. Das ist Rooshan."

Certainly Talks Like True Scot.

When the British steamship St. Andrew, Capt. Fitzgerald, arrived in port this morning, she had one more passenger aboard than when she steamed out of Antwerp on October 28. Said passenger was and is a horned owl, but of what nationality, tribe or station in life no man in these parts knoweth. It was on October 29, in latitude 49, longitude 38, far out of sight of land—in very truth, 600 miles from the rocky coast of Newfoundland—that his owlship suddenly fluttered down from the sky and alighted on the rigging. A few minutes later the Scotch quartermaster was climbing stealthily up the rallines, wearing heavy gloves and a winning smile. When he reached a reasonably safe distance he temporized: "Are ye tired, Sandy?" said the quartermaster. "Will ye bide a wee?" "Hoot mon," said the owl and so he joined the crew of the good ship St. Andrew.

New King Will Be Crowned.

At the fifth and last matinee of the Road Drivers' association to be held over the lower Speedway stretch tomorrow, arrangements have been made to tender a reception to the world's champion trotter, Major Delmar, 2:01¼, owned by E. E. Smathers. Major Delmar will be escorted from Mr. Smathers' stable, in One Hundred and First street, to the Speedway and up to High Bridge. He will then come down under the escort of all the horses entered in the brushes, and upon reaching the grandstand he will be duly decked with flowers and an elaborate grand prize ribbon. Mr. Smathers has promised that after the presentation he will let the Major step a few fast exhibitions to please the crowd. Major Delmar won the gold cup at Memphis for the New York Driving club, defeating Lou Dillon. He also lowered the world's trotting record to 2:01¼ and proved himself the greatest trotter of history.

Two Long Falls That Were Not Fatal.

At J. Hood Wright hospital are two young men who fell from elevated perches in Harlem about the same time this morning. One, Gilbert Kirkwood, tumbled headlong 50 feet and struck a stone sidewalk. He has a slight scalp wound. The other, Alfred Lunn, dropped feet first into a pile of soft coal. He broke both legs. Kirkwood was lowering a scaffold from the cornice of the four-story building when he lost his balance and went over, head downward. When he struck the sidewalk he quivered once or twice and then straightened out. Dr. Severance came with an ambulance, but before he arrived Kirkwood astonished the crowd that gathered about the supposed corpse by sitting up and rubbing his eyes. "What's the row" he inquired. "You fell off the building," said a bystander. "Is that so?" said Kirkwood. "Well, I've wasted enough time here. Guess I'd better be going back to work." But Dr. Severance got there just then and prevailed on him to go to the hospital. The surgeon who sewed up the scalp wound said Kirkwood could begin drawing pay again by tomorrow.

—Ella W. Wilcox.

What do you propose making out of that boy of yours?

Maybe you are so interested in him as a plaything that you haven't thought of him as a man.

Boys and girls are very interesting as pets, but petted children rarely develop into men and women of much worth.

The pet boy who is a perfect joy in curls and cute small clothes may be a perfect terror, a regular heart-break when a little larger grown.

If you intend making a business man of your boy you should have him in training now in order that he may be in proper form when called into the ranks of those upon whom the responsibility of maintaining the integrity and success of the business world devolves.

You know, of course, that the boy is the beginning of the man, but you may not realize the great import of this fact. The tastes and manners formed in childhood continue in manhood and even in old age.

Are you so training him that he will be all right when he steps out into the great big world on his own account?

* * * * *

Suppose we get down to business.

Do you know how a boy should be trained and educated in order to fit him for a position of usefulness in life?

At first thought you may think you do, but upon second thought you may think differently. Anyway, you will hardly contend that you know more about it than those who have been highly successful in business.

Read the following from the pen of John Wanamaker, a man who has been eminently successful in everything he has undertaken:

"I do not know of any surer way for a young man to put himself on the wrong track of success, than to get himself into the habit of cigarette smoking, taking an occasional glass, and playing slot machines. Of course, if he doesn't intend to be a gentleman, profanity, vulgarity and dawdling on the streets at night will help him along the downward track.

"I have never known one fellow to make a real success in playing at lottery, of which the slot machine is a mild form, or in gambling, and it is now a fixed rule that no corporation or important business concern will take a man into its employ, no matter how smart he is, who uses intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

"Real, all-around success is scarcely possible to any fellow who does not rest the ladder that he is to climb on against the heart of God, and the Book of Proverbs is the best business book in the world, and the entire Bible points the way to success."

How does your training code compare with these suggestions by a practical business man of the successful type?

If your boy has the right sort of stuff in him, and you think he has, he can be fashioned into the right sort of a man. And the better the stuff the more effort will be necessary in the fashioning process.

Steel is more difficult to fashion into shapes and forms than lead or iron.

* * * * *

The secretary of organized charities, Seattle, has given the matter of success and failure in life a good deal of careful study, and his conclusion is that men are only boys grown big, and that as the boy is a success or failure so will the man be.

Poorly disciplined men are the outcome of poorly disciplined boys.

How is it with your boy?

Hear this authority a little further:

"The man of affairs today, in selecting an employe upon whom some day he may be obliged to lay the burden and responsibilities of the management of his business interests, always tries to get a boy or young man who is capable of working long hours under constant pressure. No youth can do this if he has impaired his heart action or his mental alertness by smoking cigarettes, drinking spirituous or vinous beverages or indulging in other so-called petty vices.

"And that introduces the subject of habit. The vices referred to, if continued through the age of adolescence and into young manhood, become fixed habits of life. It is just as easy and infinitely more valuable to acquire those other habits which will insure the boy an accredited place in the workaday world a little later. Every American boy should develop two habits, one of work, continued work under high pressure, for the economic world is demanding men with that habit; and the other the habit of helpfulness to humanity."

Mr. Quiet Observer:—As our teachers come wholly from homes of the so-called middle classes, where the luxury of well-trained servants is wanting, it follows that in very, very many cases she who has toiled faithfully all the day at school must needs bear half or the whole care and duties of the home, because of an invalid mother, illness at home or other causes.

From observation of wage-earning women, the teacher seems to be the representative of the only class whose daily labor so taxes her strength that she cannot enjoy her evenings or even devote them very strenuously to self culture as her ambition dictates.

That this is not overdrawn or exaggerated 2,000 in this county alone will attest.

Allowing that it is true, how does the state of affairs affect the question of "The School Teacher as a Wife"?

Quite favorably. Her profession assumes, besides the cultivation of numerous virtues, such as tact, patience and clairvoyant powers, that she stands for culture, refinement, agreeableness and adaptability to all classes. And in defense of tact alone what married man or woman will not say an ounce of tact outweighs pounds of hard sense in the making and preserving of happiness? In earning a livelihood she has learned the value of money and can be depended upon for its sensible, economical use.

In view of these facts he who takes from these ranks a wife gets one at once refined, cultured, tactful, agreeable and anxious that her lord and master shall find his haven of rest from public life always a model of neatness, his dinner always smoking hot and a loving hand always ready to administer to his every comfort—the luxuries for reasons above given she has probably missed.

Use of Wood Alcohol

* * *

Two physicians, Dr. Frank Fuller of Montreal and Dr. Casey A. Wood of Chicago, have completed the arduous task of collecting the details of 183 instances of blindness and 122 deaths which have resulted in the last few years, and had been previously unreported, from the drinking, inhalation or absorption through the skin of liquids or vapors of liquid containing methylated spirits, popularly known as wood alcohol. The results of their investigations are contained in a series of comprehensive articles which is concluded in the current number of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The object of this research was to check, if possible, the rapid increase in the number of deaths and cases of blindness in recent years from this species of intoxication. The authors trust that remedial legislation will in time abate this potent factor of calamity, but despair of ever gaining the ear of the general public in regard to the question, inasmuch as they are able to make their appeal only through a medium which reaches the medical profession alone.

The facts elicited during the course of this investigation are startling. Instead of commercial wood alcohol being confined to commercial manufactures, it was found to be an ingredient of many flavoring essences and extracts, as well as proprietary patent and household remedies widely advertised as cure-alls.

In addition to the common "Columbian spirits" and other forms of wood alcohol, methylated "Jamaica ginger," "bay rum," "cologne water," "witch hazel," "lemon extract" and essences of peppermint and lemon were discovered. The physicians conclude that death lurks in all of these, and cite well-authenticated cases in each instance to make good their claims.

The reason for the increase in the consumption of wood alcohol as an intoxicant is simple enough. Under the old process of manufacture the commercial article was so abhorrent both to taste and smell that no one would drink it. In recent years, however, a cheap "deodorized" methyl alcohol has been placed on the market, which is hardly distinguishable from the comparatively harmless ethyl alcohol used in compounding medical prescriptions. The "deodorized" wood spirit is untaxed, and retails for 50 cents a gallon; whereas the grain of etyl alcohol is subject to a tax and retails for $2 a gallon. Hence, the smell being removed from the wood alcohol, it is used both by accident and design instead of grain alcohol.

The "deodorized" fluid is described as having "the same volatile, agreeable vinous odor and the pungent, biting taste as pure ethyl alcohol."

Wood alcohol poisoning is of frequent occurrence in the Indian territory, and more than 50 deaths from this cause have been recorded there in the last few years. The reason of this is that the government does not allow ethyl alcohol to be sold within the confines of the territory, and the victims drink the "purified" methylated spirit intended for manufacturing purposes. Blindness from methylated liquids was unknown until the comparatively recent introduction of the "purified" product. Blindness, in the form of amblyopia and amaurosis may follow the drinking of methyl alcohol, or its absorption through the lungs or skin.

In Dr. Butler's 54 collected cases of methyl alcohol blindness, 28 had drunk wood alcohol, 12 had taken Jamaica ginger, 4 had taken Columbian spirits, 2 had taken essence of lemon or cinnamon, 1 had drunk so-called cologne spirits, 1 had taken an unknown alcoholic mixture, while 3 had inhaled methyl alcohol vapor.

The quantities necessary to produce the ill effects varied according to the fluid and to the individual. The reports indicate that of the wood alcocol from half an ounce to 16 ounces was taken; of the Jamaica ginger, from 3 to 25 ounces; of the Columbian spirits, from 6 to 8 ounces; of the essence of lemon, from 5 to 6 ounces, and of the cologne spirits, less than 8 ounces.

Total blindness resulted in 16 of the 54 cases, and blindness in one eye in three cases. There were 15 partial recoveries and 7 recoveries. Ten cases terminated fatally.

The symptoms are practically the same, differing only in degree of severity, in all the cases, and a diagnosis of the trouble is comparatively easy. The prominent symptoms are headache, gastric pain, nausea, vomiting and dilated pupils.

One brand of methylated spirits is highly recommended for "bathing, burning and cleaning," more especially for "bathing and sponging the sick, making liniments, rubbing for rheumatism, etc., veterinary use, Turkish bath cabinets, burning under chafing dishes and in spirit lamps, and for removing oil and grease from brass and woodwork." Used in any manner indicated above, there is a chance to absorb enough of the poison to cause blindness.

Few cases of wood alcohol poisoning occur in England, because there is no tax on grain alcohol, and the inferior and poisonous article is not "deodorized" and "purified."

There is no known antidote for wood alcohol poisoning. The stomach pump is used and an oily emulsion is given as a diluent.

How is wood alcohol poisoning to be prevented? Dr. Butler suggests the enactment of a law making it compulsory for those who sell the fluid to place on the bottle containing it, in addition to the usual "poison" label a label bearing this inscription:

"This fluid taken internally is likely to produce blindness."

How to prevent the employment of methylated spirits in the manufacture of essences, extracts, perfumes, toilet waters, proprietary and patent medicines and domestic liniments is another question.

ANDREW D. WHITE ON THE CZAR.

How Nicholas II. Impressed the Ex-Minister at St. Petersburg in 1892.

(From the Century for November.)

I was presented to the heir to the throne, now the Emperor Nicholas II. He seemed a kindly young man; but one of his remarks amazed and disappointed me. During the previous year the famine, which had become chronic in large parts of Russia, had taken an acute form, and in its train had come typhus and cholera. It was, in fact, the same widespread and deadly combination of starvation and disease which similar causes produced so often in Western Europe during the middle ages. From the United States had come large contributions of money and grain, and as, during the year after my arrival, there had been a recurrence of the famine, about 40,000 rubles more had been sent from Philadelphia for distribution. I therefore spoke to him on the general subject, referring to the fact that he was president of the Imperial Relief commission. He answered that since the crops of the last year there was no longer any suffering, that there was no famine worthy of mention and that he was no longer giving attention to the subject. This was said in an offhand, easy-going way which appealed to me. The simple fact was that the famine, though not so widespread, was more trying than during the year before; for it found the peasant population in Finland and in the central districts of the empire even less prepared to meet it. During the previous winter they had very generally eaten their draught animals and burned everything not absolutely necessary for their own shelter; from Finland specimens of bread made largely of ferns had been brought to me, which it would seem a shame to give to horses or cattle; and yet his imperial highness, the heir to the throne, evidently knew nothing of all this!

In explanation, I was afterward told by a person who had known him intimately from his childhood that, though courteous, his main characteristic was an absolute indifference to all persons and things about him and that he never showed any application to business or a spark of ambition of any sort. This was confirmed by what I afterward saw of him at court. He seemed to stand about listlessly, speaking in a good-natured way to this or that person when it was easier than not to do so, but on the whole indifferent to all that went on about him.

After his accession to the throne, one of the best judges in Europe, who had every opportunity to observe him closely, said to me: "He knows nothing of his empire or of his people; he never goes out of his house if he can help it," and this explains in some degree the insufficiency of his program for the peace conference at The Hague and for the Japanese war, which, as I revise these lines, is going on with fearful disaster and disgrace to Russia.

GAVE HIS LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS

Motorman Farnan Died at His Post, but Six Passengers Were Hurt.

CONDUCTOR ACTED BRAVELY

Motorman Thomas J. Farnan of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville street railway sacrificed his life yesterday to save his passengers, although six were hurt. Fog and dew on the rails are said to have caused the accident.

The accident occurred about 10:30 a. m. As Motorman Farnan turned into Versailles avenue, McKeesport, from Grandview, the car started slowly down the steep grade, but gained momentum in spite of Farnan's efforts. Near the foot of the hill the motorman saw a coal wagon with the driver, Harry Lever, walking beside it. He applied the handbrake and wrenched at the sand lever, but the car sped down the avenue like an express train. The motorman jerked his bell rope and at the top of his voice cried to Lever:

"For God's sake, get off the track; I can't stop."

Lever failed to understand until too late, and just as he turned his horse off the track the car crashed into the rear end of the wagon. At the same time Conductor R. T. Prescott was working furiously at the hand brakes in the rear of the car, and it was through his efforts the car was eventually saved from dashing upon the White street viaduct, which spans a hollow 100 feet deep.

When the crash came Farnan was at his post and the passengers were holding to their seats. The front end of the car was splintered and Motorman Farnan was pinned underneath the controller, with his head jammed against the iron brake rod. He was killed instantly. The passengers were hurled from their seats to the front end of the car, where an avalanche of coal came pouring upon them and piled several feet high. The car continued its flight for 100 yards after the collision. The wagon was torn loose from the horse.

Conductor Prescott stayed at the brakes in the rear until the wreckage came to a stop. He was bruised but assisted in rescuing the others. Mrs. Larson was taken out of the car almost unconscious. All the victims were covered with blood and coal dust.

ALLEGHENY POLICE MAKE MISTAKE IN ARRESTS

Got Confused With Names and Locked Up Pennsylvania Light Company Linemen.

The Allegheny police yesterday arrested Charles M. Geyer, George Shamiothony and Calvin M. Stump, linemen for the Pennsylvania Light and Power Company, and took them to Central station along with the company's wagon. At city hall the police discovered they had made a mistake, as they had been cautioned by Director McIlvain of the public works department to look out for the operatives of the Allegheny County Light Company.

The latter has an injunction restraining the city from cutting down poles or wires, and until the case is settled in court Director McIlvain has given orders that the Allegheny County Light Company be prevented from erecting poles or stringing wires in Allegheny. However, it was discovered that the employes of the Pennsylvania company were working without a permit, and a charge of violating a city ordinance was lodged against them. Morris Einstein, manager of the company, secured the release of the men, and obtained a permit from Director McIlvain.

The latter some time ago cut down a number of the wires of the Allegheny County Light Company because the latter has not paid either pole tax or other remuneration to the city for six years, according to McIlvain. Several weeks ago the company secured a temporary injunction against McIlvain and the city of Allegheny to prevent the destruction of its property. Since then McIlvain has instructed the police to watch for the workingmen of the company and arrest them if they attempt to extend their lines in the city. He declares he will allow them to do nothing in Allegheny until the courts have decided the case.

SENT PRESIDENT SHOE FROM M'KINLEY'S HORSE

Allegheny Man Offers Roosevelt Emblem of Sentiment and Good Luck Which Is Appreciated.

J. Frank Murray, of the firm of Murray Bros., building material contractors, Allegheny, has just received a letter of appreciation from President Roosevelt upon his receipt of a horseshoe from former President McKinley's favorite coach horse, "Winner."

During a visit to the sick bed of an aunt in Carrollton, O., last September, Mr. Murray bought "Winner" from C. A. Tope, a hardware dealer of that place, who secured the animal at Canton during the disposition of the late president's estate. The horse had been presented to President McKinley by the late Senator Hanna, and is a handsome bay, highly bred, standing 16 hands high and weighing 1,200 pounds. He is now receiving tender attention at the home of Mr. Murray at Woodville, this county.

On October 23 Mr. Murray read in The Gazette the account of the appeal by former President Grover Cleveland to an Allentown blacksmith, who had constructed for him a "lucky" horseshoe on the eve of his first and second election, to construct for Judge Parker a shoe fully as "lucky." It was in order to offset any charm that this request might cast over the outcome of the election that impelled Mr. Murray to have a shoe removed from the right front foot of "Winner," now known as "McKinley," and forwarded to President Roosevelt. The shoe was not embellished in any way and the letter sent with it carried the prayer that it might bring to the president an influence of never-failing health and "the approval of the people in November."

RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH.

Passengers Were Badly Shaken Up in Small Wreck Near Carnegie.

Loss of life was narrowly averted in a wreck last evening of the Pittsburgh, Chartiers & Youghiogheny passenger train due at Carnegie at 6:28. The train ran into an open switch near East Carnegie.

The locomotive was ditched and two cars derailed. Engineer Frank Orr and Fireman Frank Cott were thrown in a heap in the cab, but suffered only bruises. The passengers were severely shaken. The train was running 20 miles an hour. Boys were seen playing at the switch a short time before.

MIXED FEELINGS WERE AROUSED

Republicans Not All in Favor of Tight Qualifications Rule of City Committee.

MAGEE AND BIGELOW AGREE

The fact that old-time Republicans have, by the new rules of the city committee, been shut out of the Republican primaries next January, aroused mixed feelings yesterday, some Republicans thinking that to notify Republicans who vote the national ticket next week that they cannot take part in the primary election is not the best method of encouraging them to help roll up a big majority for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. This would apply particularly to the orphans, most of whom are Republicans.

The strangest thing about the affair is that the men at whom the rule was aimed, Mayor Hays, Director Bigelow and other leaders of the Citizens party, do not seem to care that they and the payroll are shut out of the primaries. Mayor Hays remarked that such rules usually come back to plague the organization that adopted them, while Director Bigelow totally ignored that feature.

Ex-Senator W. A. Magee, Jr., voiced the complaint made by Bigelow. Magee said he thought the new rules gave the city chairman such power that he himself, if a candidate for mayor, would not think of going into a primary election under such rules. However, the shutting out of Republicans who did not vote for councilmanic candidates last February is perfectly agreeable to Senator Magee.

Magee Favored Tight Rules.

While at the meeting of the city committee he did not take part in the debate on separate rules. In a preliminary speech he said that he was in favor of making them so tight that only those men who voted the Republican ticket last February and who would vote the Republican ticket next Tuesday should be permitted to participate in the January primaries. The city committee amended the rule to suit Magee. Mr. Magee did not object to making the organization tight against Republicans who went astray at the municipal election; his opposition was directed against giving the chairman so much power, and in this effort he had the support of Select Councilmen S. J. Wainwright and John Upperman.

Some Republicans fear that as the city administration and its adherents are now debarred from participating in the primaries they may decide to maintain a separate party organization after the national election, expecting to maintain that organization for four years, until a national election again puts a stop to it.

Might Test Legality of Rules.

It was hinted some time ago that if the Republican rules should be changed the Citizens might go into court and contest the legality of the alterations on the ground that if the rules could once be changed to be retroactive they could again be altered so that men who vote the Republican ticket next week and support again the Republican ticket in February may be shut out of the June primaries, on the ground that they did not vote for the Republican candidates at three preceding elections, instead of at only two, as now required.

William T. Lindsey, clerk of the United States district court, says the number of newly naturalized citizens is unusually small for a presidential campaign. During the 30 days preceding October 8, the last day on which papers could be taken out entitling the holders to vote, only 602 persons were naturalized in the United States court, while in 1900 400 persons were naturalized in one day.

M. M. Garland, who has been making speeches for the Republican ticket in New York and Indiana, said yesterday he was confident that Roosevelt would carry those two states by large majorities.

DRUGGISTS REFUSE AIDS.

Western Pennsylvania Association Will Not Assist Blue Law Legislation Proposed by German-Americans.

The Western Pennsylvania Retail Druggists' association will not support the measures which are being taken by the German-American Alliance of Philadelphia to have a bill passed by the Pennsylvania legislature repealing the blue laws of 1794. The local druggists declare that the present laws are all right if properly interpreted and administered.

The German-American Alliance is well supplied with money for its campaign, and it is intimated that they would throw open every town in the state on Sunday if their legislation is victorious. The druggists will not lend their efforts toward opening saloons on Sunday.

HUNGARIANS GO FARMING.

Foreigners from This Vicinity Are Establishing a Colony in Canada.

The general exodus of Hungarians from Pittsburgh and vicinity to a new colony being established in Assiniboia, Canada, during the past few weeks is reported. Some 1,000 Hungarian immigrants arrived in this city during the past week, the majority of whom were bound for the Canadian colony.

Through the spreading of literature in their own tongue among the Hungarians by the railroad companies and active work by passenger agents the colonization scheme was inaugurated. It is said that farming has appealed favorably to those who have undertaken the trip.

FIRST OF THE ORCHESTRA'S AFTERNOON CONCERTS TODAY

The first of the Pittsburgh orchestra's Saturday afternoon concerts for this season takes place this afternoon at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall, when the great program with which the season was inaugurated last Thursday evening will be repeated. Mr. Paur will conduct and the ticket sale indicates as large an audience as that which greeted the new conductor and orchestra Thursday evening. For these afternoon concerts all the seats in the hall are reserved at 50 cents each. They can be bought at Hamilton's until 12 o'clock noon and at Carnegie Music hall after 1:30 o'clock today.

SUE WILLIAMS SUED BY POLICE

Woman Who Testified Against Capt. James Wilson Arrested on Two Charges.

MARRON'S HOT STATEMENT

Supt. M. H. Campbell of the Allegheny police yesterday afternoon made information against Mrs. Sue Williams of 64 West Robinson street, charging her with selling liquor without a license and with keeping a disorderly house. She gave bail in $2,000 for a hearing before Alderman David McKelvey. One of the men who is furnishing the money to carry on the prosecution of the graft investigation went on the bond.

Mrs. Williams is the woman who declares she paid Capt. Wilson $100 on the night of July 1 for the privilege of opening her house and selling liquor. Her testimony was given at Alderman Toole's office on Thursday afternoon, and, with the testimony given by Nellie Snyder, resulted in Wilson being held for court in $5,000 bail on charges of extortion and aiding and abetting in the opening and maintaining of disreputable houses where liquor was sold illegally.

"This means war, war to the last ditch," said Attorney John Marron yesterday, when informed of the action of the Allegheny police in proceeding against the Williams woman. "We have been going along leisurely with this investigation, but this trick will mark a change in our operations. Those city hall people across the river will learn some strange things from now on.

"Considering the circumstances, this is the boldest thing I have ever heard of. But the police may rest assured that the officials of Allegheny cannot use this means to defeat the ends of the district attorney. This information is simply criminal proceedings used for the purpose of trying to suppress testimony. When the commonwealth seeks for knowledge of their wrongdoing it must go among the class of people with whom the police are on intimate terms. These people, for the service they give the district attorney, will be given proper protection. This move of Supt. Campbell is intended to scare other women whose testimony is to be used in prosecuting those who have been grafting in Allegheny, but the trick won't work, and both the women and the police will learn this immediately. When Mrs. Williams opened her house last July, if she paid Capt. Wilson $100, she did it with the consent and the cognizance of the Allegheny police. If it is a crime now to run such a place, it was just as much a crime then, and at that time the Allegheny police sanctioned it. Who is the greater criminal, the police or the woman?"

Neither Attorney Marron or Attorney Haymaker will intimate what step will be taken next in the pursuit of the graft charges. When Fred Tschume, whose license was revoked, was known as the official bootler in Allegheny, his customers paid $1 25 a case for beer that was sold by other dealers at 90 cents a case. In Allegheny it is common gossip that four men were profiting from the proceeds of the sale of liquor to the disorderly resorts in the First and Fourth wards. Although nothing has been said officially concerning this, it is understood that before the investigation goes much further these four men will be named and summoned to explain in court.

FIRST YEAR COURSE FOR ALL.

Preliminary Studies for Day Students at Carnegie "Tech" Will Be Uniform.

The initial year of instruction in the Carnegie Technical schools will cover general courses intended for all day students. This announcement was made yesterday by Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag and is the first indication of the plans for teaching when the schools open.

The fundamental training necessary to pursue the specialized courses will be given in the scholastic year of 1905-06 at the schools. After this first year's training the students will be equipped to choose the line in which each proposes to work and then receive the detailed technical instruction in that line.

The architectural work of the schools is being advanced daily under the direction of Henry F. Hornbostel. Mr. Hornbostel expects to spend in Pittsburgh the greater proportion of his time for some months to come in working out these plans. It is proposed that the first building will make provision for the fundamental courses which Director Hamerschlag will first introduce.

The director is now working out the details of the course of study for the first year and hopes to be able to announce it in a short time.

WINDOW GLASS MEN DECIDE UPON PRICES

The Independent Manufacturers and Jobbers Complete Details of New Association.

The executive board of the newly-organized Manufacturers and Jobbers Window Glass association met yesterday in the office of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, in the Frick building, and fixed the price for selling glass for the next 60 days. The price so arranged is the minimum and glass can be sold higher if the members so desire. The rate was fixed at a discount of 90-20-21½ for the first three brackets single, and 90-10-21½ for sizes not included in the first three brackets. The discount is from the manufacturers' list.

Headquarters for the association have been established in the Westinghouse building, in the rooms formerly occupied by the American Window Glass Company. The secretary-treasurer, the only salaried official, will take charge of the affairs of the association.

The object of the association is to reduce the cost to the manufacturer of marketing his product and to establish a more uniform price to the jobbers, and generally to promote the interests of both manufacturers and jobbers. The annual meeting of the association will be held the second Tuesday in September in each year. The fiscal year of the association will begin September 1 and terminate August 31. Members may terminate their connection with the association on the last day of the fiscal year by giving 60 days' notice of their intention to do so; but the association may, by a three-fourths vote of all the directors, at any time, sever the connection of any member of the association. Any manufacturer or jobber of window glass may become a member upon election by three-fourths majority of all directors, and by signing and complying with the terms of the agreement.

No manufacturing member will be permitted to allow any extra discount, rebate or gratuity to any jobbing member, or to offer any inducement in money or in connection with the sale of any other goods, or to use any irregular means to obtain orders or effect sales. No manufacturing member will be allowed to sell or otherwise dispose of any window glass to any individual, firm, corporation or other person not a member of the association. No jobbing member shall purchase or acquire any window glass from any person except of the manufacturing members of the association.

WANT TO VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Coal Miners of Indiana Have Heard of Candidate "Uncle Gassaway" Davis.

"WHITE CAPS" IN POLITICS

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM Walter J. Christy Staff Correspondent.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Nov. 4.—Down in the mining region of Indiana the coal diggers are waiting for an opportunity to cast their votes against Parker and Davis and many of them are Democrats. The stories of "Uncle Gassaway's" treatment of unionized labor will cost his party many votes. Numerous Democratic miners were interviewed today and they unhesitatingly announced their intention to vote for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. The Davis stories and the fact that the miners are prosperous under the Republican administration are the reasons assigned for the change.

Another encouraging thing for the Republicans is the great ovations given Senator Fairbanks at the Baltimore & Ohio shops at Washington and the shops of the Southern railroad at Princeton. It had been reported to the senator early in the week that the men in the Washington shops were opposed to the Republican ticket this year. About 700 of them left their work today to hear him speak and shake his hand.

The trip from Terre Haute to Evansville was through a strong Democratic community. There is much evidence that the people belong to that party. It is also a country where things have been done. Sullivan, the first stop, has credit for one lynching and at Vincennes two more have been sent out of the world by the tree route.

Speaking of trees, there is one in Corydon, the oldest town in the state and the first capital of the commonwealth, that has a history. It was under this elm that the original constitution of Indiana was drafted. Beneath the same elm important meetings of the "White Caps" have been held recently. Over at Marengo is a hickory known as the "Reformatory tree." Under this shellbark 60 men have been lashed by the "White Caps."

In this region the "White Caps" take considerable interest in politics and generally on the Republican side. This is especially true of Monroe county. There it is said that the men who are elected to office must be acceptable to the citizens who have taken the dispensation of justice into their own hands.

When the special stopped at Linton this morning one of the porters on the train decided to get a little air. He had hardly landed on the platform until he was surrounded by a crowd of 25 men and boys. They told him that negroes were not allowed to set foot in the town. A number of years ago some colored men were taken into the mines at Linton in the hope of breaking a strike. They were driven out and since then the village has been strictly a habitation of the white man.

Where the Negro Is an Issue.

Down this way one hears a good deal of talk about a "white man's party." Up Indianapolis way "Tom" Taggart cultivates the negro and if he is to have any success in Indiana this fall it will be because of his ability to swing the colored vote of Marion county. In the southern end of the state he makes no attempt to influence this vote. The only use that the Democrats have for a colored man down here is to get him to sign a receipt in order that he can be disfranchised. This is the same scheme that is being worked in the gas belt.

In the county of Vanderberg, where Evansville is located, the Republicans have been giving much attention to the negro vote and have been active in seeing that it will be greatly increased in this election. During the last year upwards of 3,000 colored men have been imported from the far south. They are all legal voters in this election and if their ballots can be gotten in and counted there will be no question concerning the result. The Democrats have some scheme to prevent many of the negroes from voting. What trick is to be used has not been discovered by the Republicans, but they have learned enough to know that "skullduggery" is contemplated.

Congressman James A. Hemenway came on the train to Vincennes. He is looked upon as the most probable successor of Senator Fairbanks. From all indications he has the quiet support of the candidate for vice president. This is given as one of the reasons why Gov. W. T. Durbin has not been stumping with the senator. The retiring executive is an aspirant for the toga.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge is also appearing by himself in this campaign. His train has been running about a day behind this special. While his re-election will not be fought by the Fairbanks end of the party, there is not a very strong bond of political friendship existing between the two factions in the state.

Congressman Hemenway is confident of a Republican victory all along the line in the state. Like a number of other leaders, he is expecting a majority ranging from 18,000 to 25,000 for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. As goes Vanderberg county so goes his congressional district. He says that Vanderberg will add to her majority this time.

One chairman of a reception committee who boarded the train today was asked if he would have a brass band at his town to greet the candidate. He replied: "The time for brass bands is passed in Indiana. The boys are looking for the money. It takes the cash to get out the vote down here."

Have Heard All About It.

The voters of Indiana have had so much oratory in this campaign that they appear to be wearying of it. The state has been flooded with spell-binders of both parties, who have been willing to sacrifice their lungs to save the nation. The voters are still turning out but they are there to see and not to hear. There is also a marked lack of enthusiasm at the meetings of both parties.

The silent vote of Indiana will be large. The Republicans say that it is with them and the Democrats believe that they are to be the gainers by this reticence on the part of the electors to indicate how they intend to vote. Indiana is filled with politicians and they are all leaders when the candidate's special comes along. It would be no trouble to fill 10 Pullman cars with nation savers each day.

In traveling through Hoosierdom the porters on the train are kept busy giving attention and the remuneration is not great. Last night a statesman was tucked away in an upper by the colored attendant. This morning the guest had his shoes shined, scarf tied and clothes brushed. When his telescope was toted out to the station platform the porter was given 2 cents. One of the stops today was at Poseyville, Hooppole township, Posey county. It was worth while.

GREAT BRITAIN ORDERS HER WARSHIPS HOME

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 4.—H. M. S. Grafton and H. M. S. Flora have received orders to leave immediately for England. The unexpected depletion of the Pacific station of its two largest vessels is explained at Esquimalt on the ground that more powerful vessels are on the way from England to this station which, since the friction with Russia became acute, has suddenly sprung into prominence as a naval base.

DAVIS STRONG PROTECTION ADVOCATE 11 YEARS AGO

He Appeared Before the House Ways and Means Committee and Protested Against Removing the Duty from Coal.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—In the fight of Vice Presidential Candidate Davis' position regarding the duty on coal, it will be well to call to mind the position which he took about 11 years ago.

On Tuesday, September 15, 1893, Senator Davis of West Virginia appeared before the ways and means committee, then engaged in framing the Wilson tariff bill, to protest against taking off the duty on coal. He was asked by Mr. Reed if giving coal protection did not establish a privileged class, and his answer was as follows:

"If you can call a million people a privileged class who produce it, dig it and bring it to the market, they are a privileged class. The class of people who are interested in it—who dig in the mines—perhaps make 75 cents a day or possibly $1 or $2 a day. If 300,000 or 400,000 of such people, and many of them in my little state may be called a privileged class, I do not know where you can find a class that is not privileged."

Then Mr. Davis added, referring to the people of Chairman Wilson's own district in West Virginia: "Make wool free and you take from them their bread."

Mr. Bynum then asked Mr. Davis: "Does the duty not add that much to the price of the coal?" Mr. Davis replied: "My gracious, that is hardly a fair question. The coal is sold itself at $2 50, and how could it be added to the price of coal? It is suggested that 95 per cent is labor."

ROOT'S DEFENSE OF CORTELYOU

Ex-Secretary of War Declares Parker's Charges Are Wholly Without Foundation.

DEMOCRATIC CAUSE IS LOST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The last large Republican meeting of the present campaign in this city was held tonight at Durland's Riding academy. The fact that Elihu Root was to be the principal speaker filled the hall and hundreds were unable to gain entrance. The other speakers were Gov. Odell, former Lieut. Gov. Timothy Woodruff and Walter M. Chandler and Frank B. Vrooman of California.

"In these last days of the campaign the Democratic candidate for the presidency has abandoned the course of conduct which he had marked out for himself, has left the dignified retirement of his home and taken the stump in his own behalf. The purpose which he had formed to observe the rule of propriety, customary to candidates for the highest office in our land, had been officially declared. It seemed to be as irrevocably fixed in his mind as the gold standard after his nomination. It has been completely abandoned, and these last days have seen the candidate rushing from hall to hall in the vortex of a whirlwind campaign.

"The change was coincident with a general public expression of relief by all Republicans—and by most Democrats in private conversation—that the Democratic cause was lost, and it was coincident with the return of David B. Hill from the west. It is impossible to resist the conclusion that the change of method was the result of that belief, and was an eleventh hour expedient to revive or retrieve the fortunes of a fallen cause.

"The change of method has been paralleled by a change in the substance and matter of the candidate's views. He has not only departed from the dignified course which he laid out for himself in conduct, he has departed from the sober and moderate expressions which brought him upon many points into substantial accord with the Republican platform and Republican principles.

"On the 31st of October, in a public speech Mr. Parker reflected upon the personal honor and integrity of President Roosevelt and descended to personalities so grave, so infamous if not sustained that it is impossible to avoid a reference to them. On that day, and in several speeches which he has made since, Mr. Parker has charged, in substance, that President Roosevelt and the chairman of the Republican national committee had, in substance, entered into a conspiracy to secure a great campaign fund by blackmailing the great corporations, the trusts, through the use of some information obtained by Mr. Cortelyou as secretary of commerce and labor and by means of assuring to the trusts the direct control of the government of the United States.

"These charges are absolutely and totally false. Neither the department nor Mr. Cortelyou nor the president had any information or secret of any corporation or trust that you or I or anyone of us has not.

"Mr. Cortelyou's chief duty is not to collect funds for the purpose of securing the election of the president, and he has not performed any such duty. He has been attending to the difficult and manifold duties of managing a presidential campaign all over the United States, and the moneys to pay expenses of that campaign has been raised by committees appointed in each of the principal cities of the union, under the direction of Mr. Cornelius Bliss.

"The fact is that that fund has come from more than 2,000 separate contributions, given freely and gladly, without demand or importunity or pressure from a committee or anyone. It is the smallest fund we have had for 12 years—about one-half of the Republican fund when McKinley was elected in 1896 and about one-half the Democratic fund when Cleveland was elected in 1892."

Mrs. Mary Rey Sturgeon Dead.

Mrs. Mary Rey Sturgeon, aged 68, died yesterday morning at her home, 230 Dixon avenue, Ben Avon. She was born in Pittsburgh, and was the daughter of John Rea, a former well-known contractor of this city. She was married 45 years ago to the late William H. Sturgeon. They lived in Pittsburgh until 1877, when they moved to Ben Avon. Mrs. Sturgeon was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, belonging to the Sixth church of Pittsburgh, and later to the Ben Avon church. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel R. Taggart of Wooster, O., and Miss Amanda L. Rea of Ben Avon, and two children, W. H. Sturgeon, Jr., and Mrs. Josephine S. Osborne, both of Ben Avon. The funeral will be conducted at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. H. H. Forsyth.

William K. Cavett Dead.

William K. Cavett, aged 68, a former well-known business man of Pittsburgh, died at 4:30 yesterday afternoon at his home, 245 Meyran avenue, Oakland, after a long illness. Mr. Cavett was born in this city and lived for many years in Allegheny. He was an engine builder and a former member of the firm of Cavett, McKnight & Co. He was connected with the Porter Foundry Company but about two years ago he retired from active work because of ill health and went to California, returning to this city about a year ago. He was a member of Pittsburgh circle, Protected Home Circle; Gen. Custer lodge, A. O. U. W., and of St. Mary's Memorial Protestant Episcopal church, Oakland. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Cavett, and a daughter, Mrs. Edith Siegman of Oakland.

KNOX WILL TALK IN PITTSBURGH

Senator Decides to Make an Extended Speech in This City.

ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION SURE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.

Senator P. C. Knox left this evening for Pittsburgh, where he will make an address at Old City hall Saturday evening. The senator called at the White House today and had a talk with the president. It had been his intention to make but a brief speech at Pittsburgh but he has now decided to speak at more length.

There is reason to believe that the senator will say some things that will make the Democratic candidate for the presidency sit up and take notice. The interview recently given out by Senator Knox was a decided jolt to Judge Parker and it is believed that this parting shot of the senator will be even more severe than his former utterances.

Down in West Virginia, where it has become generally known that Henry G. Davis and his brother have contributed $100,000 for the campaign in that state, word has recently been passed that there is to be another melon of the same size out tomorrow or Monday. Thus the plot thickens.

Ex-Senator "Jim" Smith of New Jersey has been hovering about headquarters in New York pointing out the possibilities of his state if the proper means are employed. During the last few days he has subsided and there is reason to suspect that August Belmont has granted him the means to make the undertaking. Still the plot thickens.

From Connecticut comes news of the activity of agents of the Democratic national committee, supplemented with a personal visit from a state of the presidential candidate. It had been hinted that the committee has made a liberal appropriation for a campaign of education in Connecticut and that the bulk of this appropriation is to be used on election day. And yet the plot grows thicker.

Thus, while Judge Parker is raising his voice in accusation of the Republican campaign managers for accepting funds from the trusts, charging corruption against the Republican leaders and connivance to the administration, it appears to be merely an attempt to throw dust in the eyes of the public and blind the people to the real doings of the men who are trying to bring about Parker's election. There would be less profound fear suspicion of Taggart and Smith and McGraw and others could the public see them from now until November 8.

Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia called at the White House today. He had just come from a tour of West Virginia. He told the president that he considered West Virginia, New York and Delaware all safe Republican states. He said he could not figure out how Parker could possibly get more than 175 electoral votes. Personally he would concede him nothing more than the 151 from the solid south, with Nevada's three votes added.

GERMAN MOB ATTACKS ITALIANS IN AUSTRIA

Inns Wrecked, and Demonstration Against Consulate. One Was Killed.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

INNSBRUCK, Nov. 4.—Rioting between German and Italian students, growing out of the inauguration of an Italian faculty at Innsbruck university, continued today. The German students, reinforced by a town mob, wrecked the Italian club and Italian inns, smashed windows in the Hofburg and made a hostile demonstration at the Italian consulate.

The municipal council held a stormy meeting this afternoon and adopted resolutions demanding that the Italian faculty of the university be removed and for a public funeral for Prezzey, the German artist, who was killed by a bayonet thrust when the soldiers charged the German students during the rioting early this morning. Besides the killing of Prezzey eight Germans and 10 Italians were wounded.

Herr Erler, the representative of Innsbruck in the reichsrath, has telegraphed to the premier demanding the removal of the Italian faculty and holding the government responsible for the consequences in the event of its refusal to do so. There have been many arrests.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—The Neue Freie Presse states that the ministers have resolved not to close the Innsbruck university or remove the Italian faculty.

LAWSON TELLS FRENZIED STORY

Shows Where Roosevelt Will Bring the Standard Oil Company to Task.

HAVE OVERSTAYED THE GAME

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—"Whom the gods would destroy they first make frenzied," says Thomas W. Lawson, in a statement today in which he sums up the present and future status of the Standard Oil Company. "Poor old Standard Oil," he continued, "is fast getting where all success-swelled bullies get who overstay their game—the spell's broken and Standard Oil is on the run."

"Standard Oil," frenzies seriatim:

First frenzy—When Roosevelt refused to "come here, go there, you beggar."

Second frenzy—When Morgan refused to call a halt on the big market and United States Steel because "Standard Oil" had sold out and had gone short.

Third frenzy—When "Jim" Hill refused to open his eyelids at the command of their head forager, Hardiman, when he concluded he wanted them for jacket buttons.

Fourth frenzy—When Odell refused to let them rob New York of $100,000,000 in the Consolidated gas bill.

Fifth frenzy—When I went on the war path.

Sixth frenzy—When I notified the public during the St. Louis convention that Senator "Pat" McCarren was on the Standard Oil payroll, and the unruly feicied "Pat" gave his answer to the world, "Lawson's a liar, and if I had him here I would break his face."

Seventh frenzy—When Charlie Murphy refused to play second fiddle to Senator "Pat."

Eighth frenzy—When on the eve of distributing $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 to "turn over" doubtful states I yelled "Police."

Ninth frenzy—When John D. Rockefeller came to town October 25, amended; Line up, ye degenerate junior partners and issue a resolution that I, being a Christian, have no part in your benighted—no, my men, dishonest—efforts to steal the presidency.

Tenth frenzy—When they read the handwriting on the clouds: "If you persist the American people will rend you from your toe joints to your neck-sockets."

Eleventh frenzy—When the $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 were slammed back into the city bank.

Twelfth frenzy—Night of November 8, when the returns have been tallied up and tallied down and "Teddy" raps three times with his big stick on the doorstep at No. 28 Broadway and yells, "You fellows toe the mark 365 days in each of the next four years or I'll give you a strenuous exhibition of just what I mean when I hiss 'de-light-ed.'"

The Death Roll

William Duckham.

William Duckham, aged 83, a former well-known butcher in the downtown and Lawrenceville districts, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 230 South Rebecca street, East End, after a long illness caused by paralysis. Mr. Duckham was born in Somersetshire, England. He married Miss Elizabeth Oldfield in England, and a year later the couple came to America. They came over on a sailing vessel with the late Father Matthews, the former well-known temperance apostle, and the friendship formed on the vessel was continued until Father Matthews' death. On the trip, which took a month, the vessel took fire and a panic on the ship was averted by the priest, who asked the people to kneel and pray. On landing in this country Mr. Duckham and his wife came direct to Pittsburgh and Mr. Duckham engaged in the butcher business in which he continued until 1870, when he retired and entered the real estate business. He was successful in both ventures. Mr. Duckham served as assessor of the Twentieth ward for several years. He was a member of the Friendship Avenue Presbyterian church, East End, and is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss M. E. Duckham, a son, Albert E. Duckham, a civil engineer, and a grandson, William Edward, all of the East End. Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. John Ballentine.

Mrs. Mary Jane Ballentine, aged 76, died yesterday at her home in Roboken. She was born in Allegheny, and until 15 years ago lived in that city. She had been a member of the United Presbyterian church, but on removing to Roboken, where there was no church of that denomination, she joined the Methodist Protestant church. In 1849 she was married to John Ballentine, who died several years ago. She is survived by two children: Mrs. A. J. Montgomery of Allegheny, and Miss Anna Ballentine, at home. Funeral services will be conducted at 7:30 o'clock this evening at her late home.

The Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. DeCosta.

The Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. DeCosta died yesterday in St. Vincent's hospital, New York, aged 74. Dr. DeCosta was for 38 years pastor of St. John's Protestant Episcopal church. He took an active part in the controversy over the admission of the Rev. Dr. Briggs to the Episcopal ministry and soon afterward he resigned from the Episcopal church and became a member of the Roman Catholic church. Last fall while in Rome he was ordained a deacon and on November 9 last was ordained a priest. He returned to this city to engage in parish work, but his health failed and he has been in the hospital for several months. Dr. DeCosta was the author of more than 30 religious and historical works and a novel, "The Rector of Rocksburg." He was born at Charleston, Mass., in 1831, graduated from Boston university and was ordained abroad. He served through the civil war as chaplain of the Fifth and Eighteenth Massachusetts infantry regiments.

Miss Rosaline Porter Frederick.

Mrs. Rosaline Porter Murdock, aged 52, widow of Capt. James H. Murdock, died at 4:30 yesterday morning at her home, 911 Chestnut street, Sewickley, after an illness of a year. Mrs. Murdock was a daughter of the late William B. Porter, a former well-known business man of Pittsburgh. She was a member of the Sewickley Presbyterian church, and is survived by her mother and five children: Mrs. Percy Bishop of Sewickley, Mrs. Albert Lea of Philadelphia, Miss Sarah Murdock, Austin and William Murdock. Capt. Murdock served with Knapp's battery in the civil war. Funeral services will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon. The remains will be taken to Wellsville, O., for interment on Monday.

Miss Mary C. Besterman.

Miss Mary C. Besterman died yesterday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Besterman, in Hill street, Sewickley. She was born in Pittsburgh and was 49 years old. She had been an invalid for several years. Miss Besterman was a member of St. James' Roman Catholic church of Sewickley.

Mrs. M. W. Jackson.

Mrs. M. W. Jackson, widow of Col. Mordecai W. Jackson of Berwick, and mother-in-law of the late Col. Wilbur F. Reeder of Bellefonte, died last evening at Bellefonte, aged 67. She will be buried at Lock Haven Tuesday afternoon.

DAVIS BEGS NEIGHBORS TO GIVE HIM SUPPORT

Reads a Telegram from Vice President F. S. Longstreet, of the Wabash, Who Declares He Is Working for Him.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ELKINS, W. VA., Nov. 4.—Henry G. Davis appealed to his fellow townsmen tonight to support him as the Democratic nominee for the vice presidency. The appeal was responded to by applause by as many of the citizens of Elkins as could get into the opera house.

The meeting here was the culmination of a day of campaigning on a special train. The train reached Elkins at 1 o'clock. On account of the demand of the citizens of Elkins to accompany the senator to Beverly, several extra cars were added to the train and were immediately filled with enthusiastic citizens, who supplied the shouts and enthusiasm at each meeting.

The appeal of Mr. Davis to his "home folks" as he stated it, was his masterpiece of the campaign. He reviewed the development of this section of the country. In connection with which he frequently mentioned the work of Senator Elkins, who was with him. He read a telegram he received tonight from Vice President F. S. Landstreet of the Wabash system, a Republican. Mr. Landstreet said he was now on a tour of the lines of his road in West Virginia in behalf of Mr. Davis. During the day Mr. Davis subordinated national political discussion to personal appeals to his neighbors for indorsement. He spoke in about a dozen towns in this vicinity.

Tomorrow night Mr. Davis will speak at Bellington, which will conclude his work in the campaign. His address tonight was supplemented by a comprehensive discussion of the issues by C. Wood Dailey.

GOV. ODELL EXPOSES HYPOCRISY OF PARKER

Says He Has Documentary Proof That Judge Is a Friend of the Trusts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Gov. Odell took up the matter of Judge Parker and the shipbuilding combine in his speech at the Murry Hill lyceum tonight. He said:

"For the first time in my recollection a Democrat has seen fit to attack a president. When I find men parading as trust 'busters,' when the contrary is the truth, I feel it is not honest, and is only being done to get your votes.

"I said Judge Parker had been connected with trusts. I know that Judge Parker had $20,000 of Shipbuilding stock and the reason I know it is because he came to me and asked me to let him have it. I know it because I instructed my agent to give it to him and he paid for it. I can produce the documentary proof in a few hours.

"I know he had stock in the Steel Corporation, I will furnish the proof, and do it in 15 minutes after I get to Newburgh. A man who is attacking the trusts ought to come into court with clean hands. Roosevelt on the contrary has been pulling down trusts. Honesty always wins, and Roosevelt has 100 per cent of honesty in his makeup."

BALTIC FLEET IN NEW LIGHT

Enemy's Torpedoes Used Wireless in Effort to Deceive Russians.

LATTER HALTED BY A RUSE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 5.—The Novoe Vremya this morning prints a long letter, dated Vigo, October 28, and credited to a man of the Baltic squadron, which states that Admiral Rojestvensky and the admiralty, before the sailing of the Baltic squadron, received from secret agents a mass of information regarding the plans and whereabouts of Japanese in European waters. The letter says:

"The Japanese had torpedo boats in the Norwegian fjords, and also purchased a number of fishing vessels at Hamburg, Hull, Southampton and Christiania. The Russians also purchased a number of small fishing steamers for scouting duty.

"The Russian government warned the governments of Germany, Denmark and Great Britain of the information in its possession, and asked that special precautions be taken to keep the track of the squadron clear of commercial vessels. Germany and Denmark both responded. Denmark sent a warship with the squadron, and warned off a number of fishermen and coasting craft.

"Before leaving Skagen, Admiral Rojestvensky received further specific information stating that four Japanese torpedo boats, accompanied by a collier, were waiting west of Cape Skagen. The Baltic squadron left in the morning and the Japanese, in order to make a night attack, were obliged to follow and catch up with the warships in the North sea."

The night of October 21, according to this letter, Admiral Rojestvensky received a wireless message from the transport Kamchatke, saying there was trouble with her machinery, that she was 30 miles in the rear, and asking whether the squadron would await her arrival or proceed. Then came a number of wireless messages in Russian, also signed "Kamchatke," asking the squadron's whereabouts by latitude and longitude, and particularly where the battleships Orel and Kniaz Souvaroff were.

These messages excited suspicion, and the flagship replied, asking the names and numbers in the family of a certain officer on board the Kamchatka. Thereupon the messages stopped.

"It was 12:55 o'clock that night," the writer of this letter continues, "when the squadron saw a green flare, such as is used by vessels in distress, evidently a signal asking the squadron to stop and assist. Soon thereafter a searchlight was thrown on Russian vessels by a vessel supposed to be accompanying the Japanese torpedo boats. This made the squadron a plain target for attack. At the same time the Russians made out the forms of two torpedo boats in the darkness to one side.

"Searchlights were immediately thrown from the squadron on the strange torpedo boats, who instantly darted ahead at full speed. The squadron opened fire, and the boats came under the guns of the Orel, Kniaz Souvaroff and Borodino. It is thought that one was sunk.

"Meantime the squadron had gotten entangled with the trawler fleet, which was displaying no lights, flags or signals. Admiral Rojestvensky, however, despite the fact that some of them were close enough to do serious damage had they had evil intent, signalled the squadron to stop firing. Some of the trawlers were then quite close under the bows of the squadron.

WHAT CAME OF A LETTER.

My Dear Aunt Kate:

I must tell you the good news. Right after receiving your letter, the day before New Year's I started in with new resolutions on the first of the year. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., as you requested me to do. I gave him all my symptoms, which were that I was tired—so tired—all the time and did not care to go anywhere, depressed and sad, and all ambition gone, backache and a dragged-out feeling, could not sleep, limbs feeling sore and aching. I followed the doctor's advice, which he went to considerable pains to make plain to me—to rest every day—a nap after lunch—complete relaxation—cultivate repose of mind, try not to worry, get as much outdoor air as possible, and practice long, deep breathing, expanding the lungs. Then for a uterine tonic, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, coupled with a wash he told me of. I must say that after following his advice for four months I feel perfectly cured and like a new woman.

Yours affectionally, JEWEL.

Letters like the above are not unusual.

Mrs. Rooman, of 832 Grant Ave., Schenectady, N. Y., says: "I continued with the medicine until I had taken five bottles, also two vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and I was cured. I always recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to my friends when they are not well."

"My daughter is in quite good health, thanks to Dr. Pierce's medicines. My wishes are that all who are afflicted will try them and see what good can be done for the sick," writes Mrs. Rhasbeth McConell, of Rochester, Ind.

CAMPBELL LAUDS DEAD PRESIDENT

Ohio's Ex-Governor Praises McKinley at a Big Meeting of Democrats.

HAS NO USE FOR ROOSEVELT

The Democrats had a successful meeting last night. All the seats in old city hall and more than half of the stage were occupied, fully 1,200 persons being present. The party managers were themselves rather astonished. But the auditors were there in goodly numbers, perhaps because it was the only opportunity they have had to release their pent-up enthusiasm, for this was the first and only Democratic meeting of the campaign.

Ex-Gov. James E. Campbell of Ohio was the star speaker. A large part of his speech was devoted to eulogies of the late President McKinley, and a comparison, derogatory to President Roosevelt. Men who heard Mr. Campbell when he stumped Ohio against McKinley say that on those occasions the ex-governor talked about the late president in an entirely different vein.

The speaking did not begin until nearly 8:30, at which hour the speakers appeared, led by the Seventh Ward Parker and Davis Democratic Escort club, which made a fine appearance. The meeting was called to order by A. G. Smith, who took occasion to say that "good wages depend upon the activity of labor organizations and not upon a protective tariff," and that "Pittsburgh, the most tariff-protected city in the country, has the poorest paid school teachers."

Criticises Knox's Appointment.

George W. Guthrie was the chairman of the meeting. He accused Gov. Pennypacker of ignoring the constitution of the state in appointing P. C. Knox to the senatorship, maintaining that constitution requires the governor to call the legislature in session when a senatorial vacancy occurs between legislative sessions. When Guthrie mentioned the name of Parker the unterrified cheered and stamped its feet with zest.

Mr. Guthrie introduced Mr. Campbell and the audience cheered and clapped its hands. Mr. Campbell, who says he voted for Lincoln and Grant, took a fall out of the new rules of the Republican city committee, and praised City Controller John B. Larkin, under whose management, he said, he had heard that a municipal deficit of $1,200,000 had been paid off. The speaker denied that President Roosevelt had done the many things against the trusts to be attributed to him, but he did admit, reluctantly, that the president's commission settled the anthracite miners' strike and the president prevented the consummation of the Northern Pacific railroad merger.

Charges Trust Affiliations.

Campbell charged that an investigation of the beef trust had developed that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, the line that transports cattle from the grazing grounds to the packers' slaughter houses, "was as deep in the mire as the trust was in the mud," and nevertheless Paul Morton, the president of the railroad, had since been appointed to the president's cabinet.

Mr. Campbell denied that President Roosevelt had followed in the footsteps of McKinley, asserting that the latter negotiated 10 or 12 reciprocity treaties before his death, and all but two or three unimportant ones were defeated under Roosevelt's administration.

Near the close of his speech Mr. Campbell mentioned the Democratic candidate for president and depicted the silent judge as a man frank and free in his utterances. Roosevelt was referred to as the man "silent under charges."

W. H. S. Thompson, William J. Brennen and D. F. Patterson gave brief talks.

THE HON. SETH LOW MAKES SPEECH AT CHESTER, W. VA.

Senator Scott Addresses Gathering at Garfton, W. Va.—Meetings at Tyrone and Fayette City.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Nov. 4.—The Hon. Seth Low of New York arrived here this evening and was met by a reception committee and marching clubs which escorted him across the river to Chester, W. Va., where he addressed one of the biggest Republican meetings of the campaign. He spoke on national issues and the tariff question particularly.

GRAFTON, W. VA., Nov. 4.—Democratic Congressional Candidate Wallace spoke here tonight at the opera house. Senator Scott spoke at the court house. He discussed state and national questions. Each party attempted to outdo the other.

ALTOONA, Nov. 4.—Under the auspices of the civil war veterans of Blair county one of the largest Republican rallies of the campaign was had at Tyrone tonight. The town was decorated and buildings were illuminated. Former Congressman J. D. Hicks presided. The principal speaker was Thomas F. Murphy of Johnstown.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 4.—Five thousand people attended the Republican mass meeting at Fayette City last night. The speakers were M. M. Garland of Pittsburgh, Attorneys A. E. Jones, D. W. Henderson and J. Q. Van Sweeringen of Uniontown.

Polls to Close at Four.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—The supreme court today reversed the decision of the circuit court in Cleveland in the matter of the validity of that clause of the election law providing for the closing of the polls at 4 p. m. in cities of over 300,000 population and voting will be stopped in Cleveland and Cincinnati at 4 p. m. on election day.

CLEVELAND GOES BACK MANY YEARS

Former President Tells About Tariff Legislation When He Was a Candidate.

MAKES A SPEECH AT NEWARK

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 4.—With a tribute to the strength and enthusiasm of the first voter, former President Grover Cleveland in this city tonight began his second speech of the present campaign. He had waited 10 minutes for the cessation of the cheering and noise that his appearance brought forth, and for 35 minutes after he began his address, 8,000 persons crowded together on the tan bark of a riding academy, alternately listened and cheered. Mr. Cleveland said in part:

It was 20 years ago almost to a day that I appeared before a Newark audience charged with the responsibility of my party's presidential candidacy. The Democratic platform in that campaign denounced the Republican party for having failed to relieve the people from crushing war taxes, and declared that unnecessary taxation was unjust taxation. This platform also promised that, if entrusted with the control of the government, "the Democracy would purify the administration from corruption, restore economy, revive respect for law and revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests."

It was in support of such a platform and in obedience to the promptings of Democratic impulse that I said on that occasion: "The right of the government to exact tribute from the citizen is limited by its actual necessities; and every cent taken from the people beyond that required for their protection by the government is no better than robbery."

Some Tariff History.

We had then just been favored with a demonstration of the manner in which the tariff is reformed by its friends. In 1882 tariff abuses had become so apparent, and the amount exacted from the people by taxation of imports was so much beyond any necessity or justification, that the Republican party in congress felt obliged to make a movement which would at least appear to be in the direction of reducing tariff rates. A commission, in the absolute control of Republican protectionists, was thereupon constituted to manage the affair.

Notwithstanding the manner in which this commission was constituted, its members were constrained by fear or shame, or by both, to recommend a reduction in tariff rates of from 20 to 25 per cent. Thereupon certain selfish interests which had such control of the party in power that they had become accustomed to demand and receive from its hands the tremendous profits arising from inordinate protection, were aroused to the most vicious activity and made a demonstration of their control, alike humiliating to American patriotism, discrediting our scheme of popular rule, and disgraceful to the party which surrendered to their dictation.

The recommendations of the commission were spurned, and in the bill finally passed it is computed that the average rate of duty on imports was actually increased, instead of being diminished. That the consumers of the land who then asked for bread were given a stone, is proof of the futility of any hope for tariff reformation by a party tied hand and foot in the bonds of sordidness and reckless greed. Upon the evidence supplied by this incident, it is incomprehensible that the pretense should longer be tolerated, that none can be trusted to justly relieve the people by tariff revision except the friends of radical protection.

Eckles Defends Democracy.

James H. Eckles, former comptroller of the currency, addressed the meeting as follows:

It is charged that upon more than one public question the Democrats have changed their position from time to time. If this be true what shall we say of the Republican changes upon the tariff question? At first they maintained the protective theory to diversify and build upon infant industries at home; then to make a home market, then in the laborer's interest as against the pauper labor of Europe, then because the foreigner paid the tax and again in the laborer's interests. At last, however, driven from one position to another, today feeling the strength of an alliance with great industrial combinations of the country, they defiantly assert that the protective system is the established system of the country and the query is made by them to the people, "What are you going to do about it?"

The president, once a member of the Cobden club of London, a member of the Reform club of New York and ardent tariff reformer verging upon free trade, now leads them all and out-Herods Herod in his devotion to this latest announced position. He sneers at the student in the closet and the economist and pins his faith to the doctrine and wishes of the favored beneficiaries and declares that they, the friends of the system and not the great body of consumers as well shall be the revisors of the present unreasonable and unjust scale of taxes.

I call attention to the fact that it was Republican and not Democratic legislation which created conditions that found fruition in the business derangement of the last Democratic administration, business derangement that would have been worse if President Harrison had been re-elected, for judging from his lack of courage in approving of the Sherman silver purchasing act, he would not have had the will to force its unconditional repeal. No matter what may be the position of the Republican party upon the money question now at the critical time they failed absolutely and by their failure brought on the conditions of which they now complain. The people of this country will not forget who enacted the country's silver legislation and who brought about its repeal.

DESPERATE EFFORTS OF BESIEGERS CEASE

Japanese Take Port Arthur Fort, but Cannot Hold It—Their Losses Are Enormous.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

CHEFOO, Nov. 4.—Information has been brought by Chinese that the six days' bombardment and desperate efforts on the part of the besiegers to take the fortress at Fort Arthur ceased Thursday, November 3. The Japanese took Fort No. 3, but were unable to hold it. The Japanese losses are reported to be enormous.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4.—Advices reaching Shanghai today say the northern point of East Kekwan mountain has been captured by the Japanese, who hold it under a furious Russian fire. A fort on the inner line defenses was destroyed by the explosion of a magazine on November 2.

The casualties of the Japanese are reported to be enormous.

The British steamer Victoria, which succeeded in running the Port Arthur blockade with a full cargo of beef, and has returned here, confirms the reports that the Japanese have captured all the main northeastern positions of the fortress.

Kaiser's Aides Coming.

DOVER, Nov. 4.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Hamburg had among her passengers for New York today Lieut. von Lowenfeldt of Emperor William's military staff, and Imperial Adjt.-Gen. von Schmettow, who are to represent Emperor William at the unveiling of the statue of Frederick the Great in Washington November 10.

Failed to Attend Hearing.

George H. Williams, colored, a saloonkeeper of 1314 Wylie avenue, was placed in jail last evening on a charge of selling liquor to minors and selling liquor on Sunday. The complaints were made by William Jones. Williams was to have had a hearing last evening, he having been out on bail. He neglected to appear and was later taken to jail.

Sinks His Battleships.

CHEFOO, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Advices received here tend to confirm the report cabled last night that Admiral Wirenius has sunk all his battleships. They had been so badly damaged in the fight with Togo in August and by Japanese shells since then that not one of them was fit to leave the port.

Pittsburgh Men to Take Plant.

MARIETTA, O., Nov. 4.—A syndicate has been formed by Pittsburgh men under the name of the United States Sheet Steel and Tin Plate Company, and the Marietta plant with a number of others throughout the country will be taken over by this concern.

Pope Resumes Audiences.

ROME, Nov. 4.—The pope considers that he has been restored to his usual health and today resumed his audiences.

BUSY DAY FOR REPUBLICANS

Mass Meeting and Parade Tonight and County Committee Meeting in the Afternoon.

HOW TO MARK ONE'S BALLOT

The closing big Republican meeting of the campaign will be held tonight in Old City hall. Senator P. C. Knox, Col. Henry Hall and others will address the meeting. While it is progress 20 or more Republican clubs will march in a parade to take in the principal streets. George T. Oliver will preside at the meeting.

The Republican county committee will meet in common council chamber this afternoon, and Senator Knox will be there to meet the committeemen and perhaps make a brief speech. After the meeting the members will go to the headquarters, 116 Grant street, and receive their pollbooks, watchers' certificates and other election day supplies. Secretary Charles A. Muehlbronner still sticks to his estimate of 60,000 majority in Allegheny county for Roosevelt.

Secretary Muehlbronner last night called attention to the fact that a person who wishes to vote a straight ticket next Tuesday must examine his ballot with great care, as a slight misunderstanding of the instructions at the top of the ballot is likely to cause a man to lose his vote for the congressional, legislative, state and county tickets. Secretary Muehlbronner said:

How to Mark the Ballot.

An examination of the ballot, as issued by the county commissioners, discloses the fact that great care must be taken in the marking. At first view the ballot seems to contain but seven columns, underneath being printed the names of the various candidates for state and county offices. At the head of each of these seven columns, which first catch the eye, appears a square opposite the names of the presidential candidates. A vote by marking in the space opposite the names "Roosevelt and Fairbanks" will be a vote for all of the presidential electors on the Republican ticket, but for no other candidates upon either the state or county ticket.

An elector desiring to cast his vote for all the nominees on the Republican ticket, or what is known as the "straight ticket," should mark his cross in the square at the right of the name of his party, as the name is printed to the left of the ballot under the words, "This column is for straight party votes."

H. P. Bope, chief marshal of tonight's parade, yesterday issued the following order, specifying the formation and route:

The Pittsburgh clubs taking part in the parade will form on Grant street, right resting on Fifth avenue, left on Water street, and will be formed in the order of their arrival at place of formation. The Young Men's Tariff club will have right of line as escort to the chief marshal. Allegheny clubs will form on Grant street, right resting on Fifth avenue, left on New Grant street, and will be placed in line in order of arrival at place of formation. The American club, after escorting Senator Knox to Old City hall, will take its place at left of line.

The parade will move at 8:30 p. m. sharp over the following route: Fifth avenue to Dinwiddie, to Center, to Fulton, to Wylie, to Fifth avenue, to Market, to Sixth street, over Sixth street bridge to Federal street, to Worth avenue, to Cedar avenue, pass in review and dismiss.

Many Meetings Last Night.

Four hundred persons attended the meeting of the Eleventh Ward Tariff club in the Miller street school house last night. Paul Seigel was chairman and Louis Wecksler secretary. The speakers were: A. C. Stein, Adolph Edlis, Archibald Mackrell, Walter E. Billows, Nathan Tineberry and Harry Reel. On Monday night the Eleventh Ward Tariff, Eleventh Ward Marching club and 1,000 other Republicans will parade through the Eleventh ward.

Other Republican meetings and speakers last night were in Schiller Glocke hall, Twenty-fifth ward, Charles H. Kline and Daniel Ashworth; Sterrett school, Twenty-second ward, Albert J. Edwards, Charles A. O'Brien and Dr. A. J. Barchfield; Sharpsburg Y. M. C. A. hall, James Francis Burke, H. I. Riley and William M. Benham; Tenth Ward Republican club hall, Allegheny, A. C. Robertson, Robert M. Ewing, Frank C. Kunkel, Russell Miller and H. I. Riley; Chuck-Auf hall, Heidelberg, Robert T. Houiden, H. M. Irons and N. G. Ayers; Brushton school, Thirty-seventh ward, John S. Weller, Capt. John A. Reed, George H. Bonner and R. H. Jackson.

Meeting in Tarentum Tonight.

Tarentum Republicans will have a mass meeting tonight in the Y. M. C. A. hall, at which Robert T. Houiden, H. I. Riley, Maj. A. B. Hay and Perry A. Shaner will speak.

The Fifth avenue opera house at Homestead was filled last evening by Republicans. The speakers were Dr. A. J. Bradfield, C. E. Theobald, the Rev. M. A. Dyer, Perry A. Shaner and John F. Cox.

The city administration's Young Men's Republican club met last night in the Thaddeus Stevens school house in the Thirty-sixth ward. Among those who spoke were Mayor's Clerk John Gable, Police Magistrate Joseph H. Vitchestain and James B. Drew. The new rules of the Republican city committee shutting the Citizens party out of the next Republican primaries were denounced. It was announced that a lawyer intended to present himself to the primary election board of his ward and declare his intention to vote for the Republican candidates; then, if his ballot was refused, he would take the board into court on the ground that it had disobeyed the Baker ballot law.

BALTIC FLEET TO SAIL.

Simultaneously English Warships at Gibraltar Receives Orders to Put to Sea.

TANGIER, Nov. 4.—The ships of the Russian Baltic squadron now here will sail tomorrow morning. Their destination has not been disclosed.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 4.—The battleships Victorious and Magnificent have sailed under orders to patrol the straits. The battleships Illustrious and Jupiter have been ordered to put to sea immediately. It is believed they will proceed westward.

Drive Out Russian Fleet.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Chefoo learns that the Japanese are compelling the Russian fleet to quit the harbor, and that Vice Admiral Togo is prepared for this move. If it is effected, the correspondent adds, the Japanese will settle down to a winter's siege.

Louise Seeks Reconciliation.

FLORENCE, ITALY, Nov. 4.—The former Crown Princess Louise, the divorced wife of the present King of Saxony, has arrived here, desiring, it is said, to be nearer Rome in order to facilitate the negotiations with the Vatican with the object of bringing about a reconciliation with the king.

Hunt Outposts With Dogs.

ST PETERSBURG, Nov. 4.—A special dispatch from Mukden says the Japanese are using dogs to locate the positions of the Russian sentinels and outposts.

DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE, SAYS UREY WOODSON

Bourbon's National Secretary Claims Majority of 26 Electoral Votes.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Secretary Urey Woodson of the Democratic national committee has prepared the following estimate of the states which Judge Alton B. Parker will carry Tuesday:

Electoral vote—New Jersey 12, New York 39, Connecticut 7, Delaware 3, Maryland 8, West Virginia 7, Indiana 15, Montana 3, Colorado 5, Idaho 3, Wyoming 3, Rhode Island 4, Washington 5, Alabama 11, Arkansas 9, Florida 5, Georgia 13, Kentucky 13, Louisiana 9, Mississippi 10, Missouri 18, North Carolina 12, South Carolina 9, Tennessee 12, Texas 18, Virginia 12; total, 295.

Necessary for a choice, 239.

Parker to be elected by 26.

After issuing this estimate, Mr. Woodson made this statement:

"For the national committee you may say that Judge Parker will not only be elected, but that recent dispatches indicate a Democratic landslide. We know that the Republicans are now panic stricken, and that the leaders of that party are beginning to appreciate the true conditions."

The Republican national committee compiled today a revised estimate of the probable complexion of the electoral college. This estimate, which was made by L. E. Coolidge, assistant secretary of the national committee, in conference with United States Senator Scott and Chairman Cortelyou, follows:

Electoral college—New York 39, New Jersey 10, Connecticut 7, Indiana 15, Utah 3, Idaho 3, Montana 3, West Virginia 7, Illinois 27, California 10, Iowa 13, Kansas 10, Maine 6, Massachusetts 16, Michigan 14, Minnesota 11, Nebraska 8, New Hampshire 4, North Dakota 4, Ohio 23, Washington 5, Wyoming 3, Oregon 4, Pennsylvania 34, South Dakota 4, Vermont 4; total, 289.

Necessary to a choice, 239.

Roosevelt to be elected by 50.

"You will observe," said Mr. Coolidge, "that we have not positively claimed Wisconsin, although we have every reason to believe that Wisconsin will be Republican by its usual large majority. We have here only claimed those states of which we are absolutely certain, and while we give the figures for them we believe that the real number in the electoral college for Mr. Roosevelt will be about 310."

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT.

Roosevelt Writes, to Washington, Pa. Boy Thanking for Prediction of Victory.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Lewis Evans, a 12-year-old Washington boy, recently sent to President Roosevelt a diagram made up of four squares. In one square was the name "Fairbanks," and above it the inscription, "Flush." The other upper square contained the name "Roosevelt," and over the name was the word "Royal." In the two lower spaces appeared the names "Parker" and "Davis," and above them the respective inscriptions, "Four" and "Deuces." Young Evans explained to the president that the royal flush was the best hand and could easily beat a pair of deuces.

Today Evans received a letter from the president, acknowledging the receipt of the diagram and thanking him for the prediction.

HALLS WILL BE READY.

Contractor for New State Capitol Reiterates His Promise of Speedy Completion.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—"They will positively be ready; you can make that as strong as possible, coming from me personally," said George F. Payne of Philadelphia, contractor for the new state capitol, when asked today if the senate and house chambers will be ready for the next legislature.

Although both halls are filled with scaffolding, Mr. Payne said that little actual work remains to be done, except to set the marble wainscoting. Twenty marblesetters are now at work, and 20 more will be here Monday.

OFFERING FIVE TO ONE ON ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Large sums were offered today at odds of 5 to 1 on Roosevelt. One stock exchange firm has $75,000 to bet that way. Charles H. Marshall offered $10,000, or any part, even money, that Roosevelt will receive 300 or more electoral votes, and $10,000, or any part, that Roosevelt will carry New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Connecticut. Wendham Brothers of 20 Broad street are commissioned to bet $250 to $500 that Parker will carry this state.

Lined Up Six Men.

REDDING, CAL., Nov. 4.—A masked man armed with a pistol entered a saloon at Cottonwood today and lined up six men with their faces to the walls and their hands over their heads while he relieved them of $500 in cash and $1,800 in checks.

Town Nearly Wiped Out.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 4.—Fire has destroyed the entire west side of the little town of Marion, 100 miles northeast from here. The opera house block, postoffice block, 10 stores and 23 residences were destroyed. Loss $200,000.

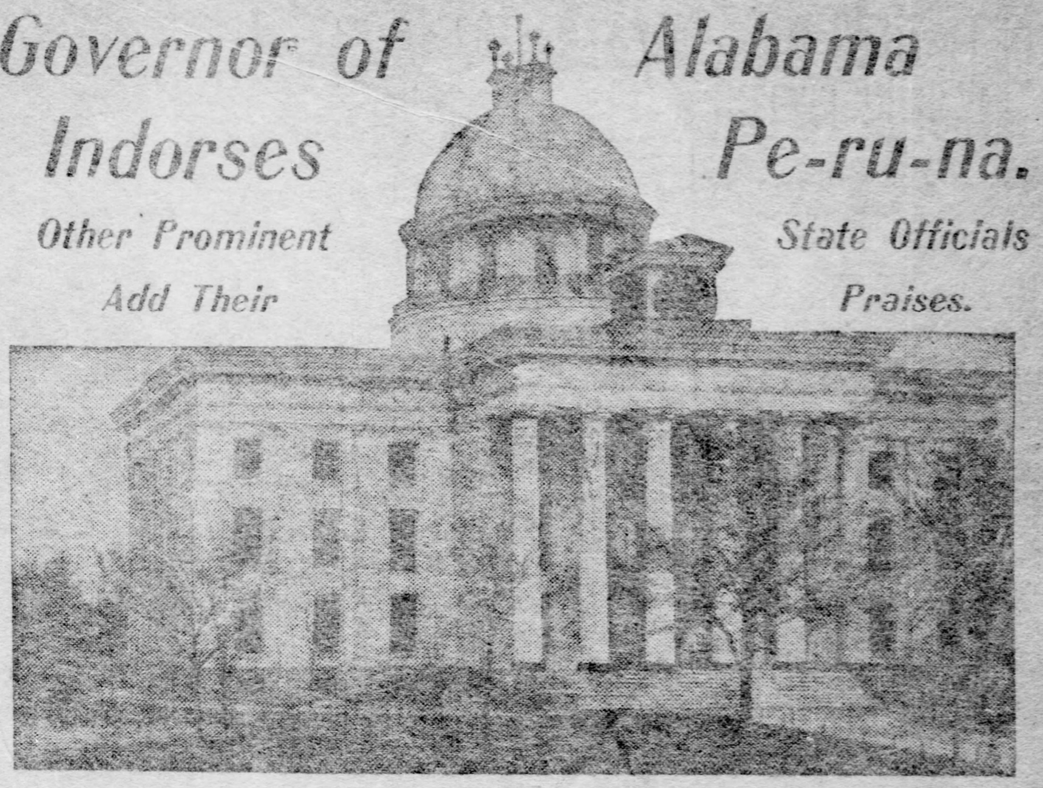
Governor of Alabama Indorses Pe-ru-na.

Other Prominent State Officials Add Their Praises.



The Magnificent State Capitol Building of Alabama.

ONE of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of indorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men of national importance.

The most distinguished men of the United States have no hesitation in lending their influence to assist in letting the public know of the merits of Peruna.

Nearly one-half the people are in some way affected by catarrh. Therefore it is almost a national curse, and it is of national import that the people should know of Peruna.

Catarrh is an American disease. Peruna is an American remedy.

Catarrh is a result of changeable climate. Peruna is a result of long and careful experimentation.

Catarrh enters the system through the nerve centers and affects the mucous membranes. Peruna enables the nerve centers to repel and expel the catarrh from the system.

Catarrh is a systemic disease and curable only by systemic treatment.

The remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does.

Governor of Alabama Commends Pe-ru-na

In a letter dated July 26, 1899, written from Montgomery, Ala., Governor Joseph J. Johnston, says:

"I join Congressman Brewer in commending Peruna."—Joseph J. Johnston.

Redeemer of Public Moneys.

The Hon. John C. Leftwich, redeemer of public moneys, whose office is in the Postoffice building, in a letter written from Montgomery, Ala., says:

"I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent tonic, and it is recommended to me by those who have used it as a good catarrh cure."—John C. Leftwich.

Register United States Land Office.

Hon. Robert Barber, register United States land office, writes from Montgomery, Ala.:

"For some time I have been a sufferer from catarrh in its incipient stage, so much so that I became depressed and feared my health was generally in a decline. But hearing of Peruna as a good remedy I gave it a fair trial and began to improve. Its effects were distinctly beneficial, removing the annoying symptoms, and it was particularly good as a tonic."—Robert Barber.

Collector of Port.

Hon. J. K. Burke, collector of port, Mobile, Ala., writes:

"Peruna I can recommend as a fine medicine. It has been used in my family and as a tonic it is excellent. I take pleasure in testifying to its fine qualities."—J. K. Burke.

Postmaster of Mobile.

Hon. P. D. Barker, postmaster of Mobile, in a recent letter from Mobile, Ala., says:

"Allow me to send to you my testimonial as to the good qualities of Peruna. I have used it for the past three months and find it is a most excellent tonic."—P. D. Barker.

U. S. Marshal, Northern District.

Hon. Dan Cooper, U. S. marshal for the northern district of Alabama, writes:

"Your remedy for catarrh, and la grippe, Peruna, has done me so much good that I cannot speak too highly of it.

"I have used it for a short time and have improved rapidly from the first day. I was really much surprised at such a quick and effective cure."—Dan Cooper.

U. S. Marshal, Southern District.

Hon. L. J. Bryan, U. S. marshal for the southern district of Alabama, writes:

"I have used Peruna for catarrh a short time and have also had several friends try it and they all pronounce it the best catarrh remedy ever put on the market. It cannot be praised too highly."—L. J. Bryan.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, and he will give you the benefit of his valuable advice gratis. All correspondence strictly confidential.

HE ENJOYED THAT CARNEGIE FEELING

Successful Gambler Felt His Heart Enlarge, but Not for Libraries.

FED POOR IN HERALD SQUARE

THE CARNEGIE FEELING. (American Slang)—An uncontrollable desire to part with one's money in the interest of one's fellow man, and without hope of reward.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—James Mahoney, genial and generous, this morning added a phrase to the language, and made glad the hearts of the homeless nomads. Way down in Mahoney's heart, ever and anon, he gets what he calls "a Carnegie feeling," and when he acquires it certain sommolent gentlemen who recline at eve in the public parks eat, drink and become merry.

The Carnegie feeling took possession of Mahoney just as the sun kept its daily appointment. Mahoney made his entrance to Herald square from his home. He trotted happily to the classic shade of the Daige monument, made a megaphone of his hands and shouted:

"Wake up and have something to eat, you fellows. I've got that Carnegie feeling."

The nimbly wanderers, roused from their dreams of a home, made a concerted rush toward Young Carnegie. Mahoney marched the ragged ranks to a Sixth street restaurant. It cost him 25 cents a plate to feed his charges, and presented each with several good cigars.

When it was all over a policeman who had assisted at the function asked Mahoney the whys and wherefores. Said the Samaritan:

"I won a roll at 100 to 1 on Bar le Duc, and as I can't buy libraries and wouldn't if I could, I decided to feed the populace."

POSSES CLOSE IN ON BANDITS

Desperadoes Find Refuge With Friends in Hole-in-the-Wall.

BUFFALO BILL NOT IN IT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DERANCH, WYO., Nov. 4.—(By telephone to Cheyenne.)—Your correspondent arrived here shortly after sundown with Sheriff Stough of Fremont county, and Sheriff Fenton and posse of Big Horn county, the officers having trailed Harvey Logan and his band of Cody bank robbers into the very heart of the Bad Lands.

The posse is not more than 10 miles behind the bandits, and reliable information has been received here that Curry and his men have taken refuge at the ranch house of a sympathizer in the notorious Hole-in-the-Wall rendezvous, southeast of this place.

Pequot and his men will do a little scouting tonight and tomorrow to see that the outlaws do not leave their hiding place before Webb and his party arrive. Should the outlaws attempt to leave the county, Sheriff Webb will be advised at Wolton, Lost Cabin or one of the smaller stations along the telephone line, and an effort will be made to intercept the bandits at the eastern exit of the Hole-in-the-Wall.

A bloody battle is certain to occur during the next 36 hours, either at the eastern or western exit of the Hole, or in the vicinity of the present hiding place of the outlaws. Should the bandits remain in ignorance of the plans to bottle them up the fight will occur at the ranch home of their friend, for the two posses from the east and west will combine forces as soon as Webb arrives and close in on Logan at once.

The officers here are tired and almost completely worn out, but are anxious for the fight. They will get almost 24 hours' rest, however, if present plans carry and will be in prime shape for the battle when Webb arrives.

A telephone message from Casper tonight states that Sheriff Webb and a large party of picked men left there at 9 o'clock for the Hole-in-the-Wall country. Webb has captured such outlaws as Jim Cloud, Tom O'Day and Frank Woodward, the desperado who murdered Sheriff Ricker two years ago, and was lynched by the people of Casper.

With Webb is Bob Lee, the Curry ranch foreman who, singlehanded, a few years ago boarded the Tom Smith gang of horse and cattle thieves in their den in the Hole-in-the-Wall and, after killing Smith, scattered or chased the remaining members of the band.

"Buffalo Bill" did not participate in the man hunt, but went with his New York and English friends into the game country northwest of Cody today.

Accused by Pittsburgh Man.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Aaron Steiner of Pittsburgh had Charles Smith, a justice of the peace of Stockdale, this county, arrested today and held under heavy bail for court on a charge of extortion. Steiner claims that he was arrested for the illegal sale of liquor and paid $19.08 without a hearing.

Fire in Allegheny Market.

Grease boiling over in McPride's restaurant at Federal and South Diamond streets, Allegheny, caused an exciting fire at the Allegheny market early this morning and the firemen had trouble saving other stands. The flames spread to the stands of W. C. Berry, a confectioner, and James Kerr, a dealer in dairy products, in the market. The damage to the three places is about $1,000.

MARRIED FOUR WIVES IN AS MANY WEEKS

Gay Lothario Ends His Matrimonal Feat With Arrest in Indiana Town.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 4.—Four wives accumulated in less than four weeks' time is the record established by Edward H. Lane of New York. Lane was arrested at Logansport today, and described his marriage feat as great sport.

Lane first showed up in Cincinnati on a visit to relatives. He wooed and in two days won and married Miss Minnie Veibling of this city. He then came to Indianapolis, where he espoused Mrs. Minnie Wilson. He spent two days with her, then said he had to go to Marion, Ind.

There he met Mrs. Lula Young Brushwiler, a divorced young woman of 22, and a striking beauty. He married her after an elopement last Tuesday.

On went the gay Lothario to Logansport, Ind., where yesterday he was married to a fourth wife.

Collision on Pennsylvania.

JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The second section of the Cleveland and Cincinnati express, while traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour, crashed into the Altoona shopper between Portage and Wilmore this morning, slightly injuring several railroaders, demolishing the engines and two passenger coaches. Dan Hanna of Cleveland and several other passengers were hurt. The fog was so dense the engineers could not see the signals.

Amusement Company Incorporated.

A certificate of incorporation was filed at Dover, Del., yesterday for the Ingersoll Amusement Company of Pittsburgh to manage all kinds of amusements and theaters. The incorporators are Leforest Ingersoll, Pittsburgh; Anna Bowers, Duquesne, and James F. Bell, Scranton. The capital stock is $30,000.

HARBOR LINE HEARING HELD.

Capt. Dravo and Others Present During Arguments Made Before U. S. Engineers.

ROCHESTER, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—By direction of the secretary of war, a public hearing was held here this afternoon to consider the establishment of harbor lines on both sides of the Ohio river between Dam No. 4 at Legionville and Dam No. 5 at Freedom. Col. E. J. Lydecker and Lieut.-Col. Ernest H. Ruffner, United States engineers, heard the arguments.

Among those who attended the hearing were R. R. Jones, J. Frank Tilley, J. E. Atwood, Capt. J. F. Dravo, Robert Trimble, Scott H. Fowler and a committee from Harbor No. 25, American Association of Masters and Pilots of Pittsburgh, composed of Capt. George Gibson, Homes Harger, Sr., James O. Wood, Frank Culp, Harry W. Fairfield, A. S. Ackard and T. J. Dunlevy. Objections to a proposed line were filed by representatives of various coal interests. Borough officials and private citizens also filed objections.

PITMAN'S ALPHABET IN CARNEGIE COMPETITION

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The alphabet reform plan of Ben Pitman, the "father of shorthand," is in competition for Andrew Carnegie's offer of $100,000 to be expended in alphabet reform. Mr. Pitman is at work on a book called "A Plan for Alphabet Reform," which he will dedicate to Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Pitman claims his method will save a child two years at school.

Officials Inspected Properties.

Eleven United States Steel Corporation officials, headed by Taylor Allerdice, arrived in McKeesport yesterday and made an inspection of the plants. The party also inspected the new property acquired for the erection of the $10,000,000 tube mills.

PITTSBURGH MAN WANTS TO SOLVE A QUESTION

J. H. Dietrich Wonders Where Letter to His Sister Had Been Hid for Ten Years.

J. H. Dietrick of 307 Fourth avenue, this city, is the man who 10 years ago wrote a letter to his sister, Mrs. G. L. Reagan, the wife of a well-known physician of Luzerne county, which she received only two or three days ago, as told in a special telegram from Wilkesbarre in yesterday's issue of The Gazette.

Yesterday Mr. Dietrick got the letter from his sister, with the request that he explain, if possible, the cause of the letter's delay. But he is just as much puzzled as his sister. At the time he wrote the letter, on October 30, 1894, he was part owner and superintendent of the Euclid coal mines at South Fork, with his offices at Altoona, at which point he mailed the letter. After he got out of the coal business Mr. Dietrick was for a time publisher and editor of the Braddock Herald.

Mrs. Reagan, in her letter to her brother, states that at the time she got the letter she merely noticed that the envelope bore the mark "opened by mistake," and taking no heed of the heading or the date, started to read. It was all so strange that she remarked to her husband, "Joe must be crazy." Suddenly the date attracted her attention, and then the question arose, where had the letter been all these years? The paper was not soiled nor worn at the creases, and the ink was as black as the day on which it was used.

Mrs. Reagan thinks some one stole the letter and kept it until a guilty conscience caused an effort to be made to get it into the hands of the person for whom it was intended. The postmaster at Berwick, the home of the Reagans, found the letter opened and marked "opened by mistake" on a pile of foreign letters in his office, and has no idea where it came from.

DAY OF INTEREST IN THE CHURCHES

Many Dedications and Special Events by Local Congregations Tomorrow.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR RALLY

St. James Memorial Protestant Episcopal church, Kelly and Cellier streets, will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock under direction of the Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese. The Rev. E. Livingston Wells of Bridgeport, Conn., will deliver the dedicatory sermon, while addresses will be made by local clergymen. The church has been erected at a cost of $85,000.

Closing services in the old Twelfth United Presbyterian church, Western avenue and Manhattan street, will be held tomorrow evening, when the pastor, the Rev. C. McCreary will preach on "Looking Backward." The new church will be dedicated on the following Sunday.

The first meeting of the world's reunion rally of the Christian Endeavor Union will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, when a reception will be tendered the Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, national president, and William Shaw, national secretary, both of Boston. This evening a mass meeting will be held in the Bellefield Presbyterian church, and tomorrow afternoon a meeting will be held in the Second United Presbyterian church, Stockton avenue, Allegheny. Dr. Clark and Mr. Shaw will address both meetings.

The cemetery of St. Mary's German Catholic church of Sharpsburg, in O'Hara township, will be dedicated and blessed tomorrow afternoon. Preliminary services will be conducted at the church by the Rev. Joseph Otten. The congregation will then march in a body to the cemetery, where the dedicatory address will be delivered by the Rev. Stephen Schramm of the South Side. Four statues of Carrara marble, each over six feet high, will also be dedicated in the cemetery. The new cemetery comprises 87 acres.

St. Pius Roman Catholic church in Evans avenue, McKeesport, will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon, Coadjutor Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin will officiate, assisted by several local priests. In the evening an address will be made by the rector, the Rev. Father Coyle.

The Rev. J. J. McMillan, who was pastor of the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church in 1862, and the oldest pastor in the Pittsburgh conference, will preach the final service in the old building tomorrow morning. Many local clergymen will follow with addresses.

The advent of election will be observed in many pulpits tomorrow by sermons bearing on national suffrage.

Children's day will be celebrated in St. Andrew's Evangelical Lutheran church, Morewood and Center avenues, tomorrow morning. The pastor, the Rev. W. P. Sachs, will preach on "The Children of the Church."

The last of the special musical services with Mme. Noll-Hawdon as soloist will be given in the Church of the Ascension, Shadyside, tomorrow afternoon and evening, when selections from Mendelssohn and Gounod will be offered. Organ accompaniments will be reinforced by harp and violin accompaniment by members of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra.

Must Not Carry Coal for Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Foreign Secretary Lansdowne has informed a British ship firm that "it is not permissible for British owners to charter their vessels for the purpose of following the Russian fleet with coal."

CLEVELAND IS HOST TO STEEL INSTITUTE

Members Shown Industries and Afterward Tendered a Banquet.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 4.—The visiting members of the Iron and Steel institute of Great Britain were today escorted to the Newburg mill of the American Steel and Wire Company, where they witnessed the making of wire for the first time since their arrival in this country. Later they inspected the general furnaces and the ore docks of the Erie road.

One hundred and fifty of the visiting members of the institute were tendered a banquet by the steel and iron interests of Cleveland, in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce tonight. The colors of the United States and Great Britain hung from opposite sides of the speakers' platform. James H. Hoyt, Esq., of Cleveland was toastmaster.

The following sentiments were responded to: "Fourteen Years After," the time between the first and second visit of the institute; Bennett H. Brough, secretary; "Cleveland—A Name of Good History and Prophecy in the Iron Trades of Two Countries," E. Windsor Richards, past president; "The Future of the World's Iron Trade—Competition or Co-operation, Which?" E. F. Martin, past president; "The Personal Equation in the Industrial Problem," Charles Kirchhoff, New York, chairman of the American committee; "The Lake Region as a Factor in the American Development," John Birkinbine, Philadelphia. "The Disappearing Barriers Between the Nations," the Hon. Theodore E. Burton, member of congress, Cleveland.

PIPES FOR JAPANESE.

Mikado's Government Orders 10,000 Briar Woods for Its Soldiers in the Field.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—James E. Young, a representative of a London manufacturer of tobacco pipes, said today the Japanese army is shortly to be supplied with English smoking pipes.

"My firm received an order about a month ago from the Japanese government," said Mr. Young, "to furnish 10,000 briar pipes for its army in the field. The pipes are to be short and stubby, so that they can be conveniently carried in the pocket. We have a suspicion that the person responsible for the order is Gen. Kuroki, who is an inveterate tobacco smoker. This innovation is an attempt to eradicate the opium habit among the soldiers."

Found Ring and Wanted Reward.

Frederick Metz, aged 25, of No. 3525 Mulberry alley, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Cole and Eagan on information received from Mary Nesbit of the Globe Trading Stamp Company, Wood street. Thursday the girl lost a $175 diamond. She advertised that a reward of $20 would be paid for the recovery. Metz, who is employed at the same place, returned the diamond yesterday afternoon and demanded the reward. The girl suspected Metz and taken the diamond and asked the officers to investigate.

Will Open Free Library.

The new branch of the Carnegie free library at Turtle Creek will be opened next week in the engine house, which has been undergoing changes. The first floor is being fitted as a library and the second floor will be the public reading room. The books will be sent from the Braddock library.

The 'mum show is now at its height

The public chrysanthemum show is more beautiful than ever. As this show illustrates the advance made in the culture of flowers—in like measure does the Kaufmann clothing exemplify the forward strides that have been made in the art of tailoring. Both are the product of man's genius, aggressiveness and desire for perfection in everything, be it that which emanates from the soil or that which grows under the skillful manipulation of trained fingers. At the chrysanthemum show, at the theater, or at any social function where well-dressed men are wont to congregate—THERE you'll find the Kaufmann Clothing, for well-dressed men know that it fits and looks as well as the merchant tailor's best product. Aside from these virtues, Kaufmann clothing is favored by the majority of Pittsburgh men because of its price-reasonableness.

At every grade OUR PRICES will be found to range from 20 to 25 per cent below those of all others.

At 8.50 and 10.00

Not a garment at these prices that we cannot conscientiously recommend. Not part wool and part cotton, but ALL (100 per cent.) WOOL, stylishly cut, carefully tailored and perfect fitting. The suits in single or double-breasted, three or four button—in new mixtures, fancy cheviots, worsteds, cassimeres, etc. In overcoats choose from those natty coverts, in light and dark tans, mixtures, and plain blues and blacks, in the medium and full length if you prefer them. These garments are fully equal to the $12 to $15 sorts you'll find elsewhere.

At 12.00 and 15.00

You'll agree that never before have $12 and $15 bought such swell clothing. Every style shown on the fashion plate is here in every material, pattern and color that has received the sanction of fastidious dressers. The suits in three or four button sacks, or the new three-button double-breasteds, with the broad, athletic, concave shoulders. The overcoats in those dashing coverts, silk or satin lined—or in the medium and longer styles for those of more subdued tastes. You'll pay from $16 to $20 elsewhere for equally good suits and overcoats—and even then they'll not possess that individuality which obtains in Kaufmann clothing.

At 18.00 to 35.00

Our clothing at these prices is on a par with the finest custom made. The materials are fine imported woolens; the styles are draughted by skilled artisans, and the tailoring is done by the most competent journeymen tailors—and yet you pay only half what you'd have to, if you left your measure with a tailor. Concerning the matter of fit, it would be impossible for a custom tailor to better the fit of the Kaufmann garments. The most hypercritical men may have their exacting requirements relative to clothing met in our finest grades, which range from 18.00 to 35.00.

Very special inducements in boys' clothing for Today

The supremacy of "The Big Store's" great boys' clothing department is unquestioned. It shows in the character of the garments, in the immensity of the assortments and in the greatness of the values. There are few boys' clothing organizations in the country that's its peer. The power and prestige of leadership are what bring you values which others find impossible to duplicate.

At 3.00

You can today choose from table after table of boys' suits and overcoats which would be good value at one-third more. Embraced are stylish brown mixed, olive shade and plain blue rough cheviot Norfolk suits, with regular or knickerbocker trousers—also double-breasted coat styles, nobby Russian blouse, sailor and Buster Brown suits, in heavy plain navy, red, royal, green and brown serges—long fly front overcoats, nobby three-quarter coats, military coats and Buster Brown coats. Boys' overcoat special—boys' long cut fly front oxford overcoats, with velvet collar, also novelty overcoats, sizes 2½ to 15, special today at..... 1.85

At 5.00

You'll find here the nobbiest and smartest attire you could wish to see your boy don. As a matter of fact, we show more garments at this one price than many stores do at ALL prices. You can choose from about every new style brought out this season. We're particularly strong on Norfolks and double-breasteds. Novelty overcoats, long tourist coats, belted back coats, long oxford coats and the regulation P. T. style reefers are here in all the various overcoat materials. All sizes, 2½ to 16. Every garment a $7.50 value.

Pants special—5,000 pairs boys' fine all-wool heavy cheviot knee pants—the regular 75c and $1 kind, on special sale today at only..... 48c

At 7.75

The nobby young dresser can fit himself out here today in a regular $12 or $15 suit or overcoat. Among the suits comprised are black thibets, unfinished worsteds and plain rough cheviots; also plain brown and blue serges and fancy mixtures—in both single and double breasteds. The overcoats come in oxfords and plain black—cut in the long fly front and the new double-breasted tourist coat style with belted back. Not only big boys but small men with up to 35 inch breast measure can wear these.

Extra—with every purchase of a boy's or youth's suit or overcoat here today we'll sell a regular 50c football or a 50c shin guard, or a 50c pair of football pants for..... 5c

COLLEGE TEAMS SAVE THEIR STARS FOR BIG GAMES---OTHER SPORTING

WILL TRY OUT MANY NEW ONES

Coach Mosse Gives His Lineup a Shaking and Westminster Will Face a New Team.

WILL BE HARD GAME

Western university and Waynesburg will play at Exposition park this afternoon. The kick-off will be at 3 o'clock. Waynesburg is coming with its team in excellent condition, according to all reports. It will be accompanied by a delegation of rooters.

Coach Mosse appeared before the Western university students yesterday and urged them to stand by the team today. He said that Waynesburg may be counted upon to put up a stiff fight and the Wups will need the encouragement that has been given to them in all of the other games of this year. He predicted that the new combination of W. U. P. will give a good account of itself today. He announced the following lineup:

W. U. P.		Waynesburg.
Crea	L.E.	Raudabush
Fighter	L.T.	Zimmerman
Sullivan	L.G.	Allerton
Leidenroth	C.	Day
Edgar	R.G.	Parkinson
Elliott	R.T.	Green
Ritchie	R.E.	Ray
Boisean	Q.B.	Call
Springer	L.H.	Lippincott (capt.)
McCormick	R.H.	Linton
Miller	F.B.	Hughes

The line up of W. U. P. is new but the coaches think it can win. Perry, East, Dr. Rugh, McKean and Capt. Joe Thompson will all be out of the game. They will be on the side lines, and if the subs get into trouble they will rush to the rescue. Mosse believes that this arrangement will furnish an interesting and close contest and at the same time save the other players for the election day game with the University of West Virginia.

The coaches have called upon the university to send out more candidates for the varsity team. Next week Mosse wants 30 men out every day. He is not satisfied with the defense play of the team and wants to improve it. The medical students came to the front yesterday with an order for 75 grandstand tickets for their friends. The faculty took 10 seats in section B. Two additional box parties have been announced.

Mosse heard from West Virginia last night. Coach Chez sent in his list of names, and every man mentioned is a student. The West Virginia students will be here early Monday morning.

HIGH SCHOOL IS INVITED.

U. of P. Wants It in Cross Country Run Thanksgiving—Other Local Prep School News.

The Pittsburgh High school has been invited to send a team to compete in the cross country run Thanksgiving day at Philadelphia, which will be given under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. High school has been invited to the big interscholastic indoor meet at Washington, D. C., next January. George Orton, graduate manager of athletics at Penn, was impressed with the showing of the Pittsburgh relay team last spring in the big meet at Franklin field, and desires to have it in the cross country run.

High school may send a team. Pittsburgh has no cross country team, but one may be organized and sent to Philadelphia. In that event Duncan Worrell will likely be chosen captain. Worrell will captain the field and track teams next spring. It is the intention of Prof. H. B. Cooper to start the track men to work immediately after the close of the football season preparing for the events that will come next spring. Of last year's relay team Paul Johns, now a freshman in Princeton, is the only man missing. Worrell, Downing and Steen will again wear the red and black. Scott, who won the mile championship race in the interscholastic meet last spring at Friendship park, beating Corbett of Kiski, will be a likely man for the cross country and relay teams.

Prof. Cooper yesterday had hot water baths put in the dressing rooms at Friendship park. The High school football team will play the Johnstown High school at Johnstown November 12, arrangements having been made yesterday.

The High school and Shadyside representatives will meet again early next week to complete arrangements for the championship football game November 19. Joe Thompson of W. U. P. and Hill Church of Princeton will likely be the officials, both schools favoring them.

It was reported in school circles yesterday that Kiski supporters in Pittsburgh are willing to bet 2 to 1 on their team against Shadyside next Saturday.

SCHOOL TEAMS ARE BUSY ON THE GRIDIRON TODAY

Big Eastern Universities Have Important Games Scheduled—Tigers Meet West Point.

The local school teams today will be busy. Pittsburgh High school will meet its old rivals from East Liberty academy at Friendship park, and the Allegheny Prep. school will play Trinity hall at Washington, Pa. These are hard games and important ones. Shadyside academy will play the W. and J. scrubs at Washington and Kiski will have the Washington High school as an opponent at Saltsburg.

The big eastern college teams have important games today. Pennsylvania will meet Lafayette and Princeton will take on the West Point eleven, while Harvard will tackle Dartmouth. It will be up to Pennsylvania to show Philadelphians how she beat Harvard. For Harvard Dartmouth will have some terrors. The Crimson must redeem itself for the Pennsylvania defeat. It is Princeton's turn to defeat West Point. Harvard had a narrow escape with the Cadets and Yale fell their victims.

The High school-East Liberty game will be called before 3 o'clock. The lineup of High school and the probable East Liberty lineup follows:

High School.		East Liberty.
D. Johns	L.E.	Haifferty

MONSTER POOL COMBINE.

Chicago Gamblers and Politicians Will Open Big Place.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—A monster and powerful gambling combination, in which several leading politicians are central figures, is preparing to open the greatest system of pool rooms that Chicago has ever known.

This information was quietly "tipped off" today. Already networks of special wires have been laid to carry information from the winter race tracks directly to the chain of pool rooms that are being opened from one end of the city to the other. Possibility of the police breaking up the operation of the big combination is scouted by the leaders in power, and it is charged that the recent anti-pool room crusade of the police has merely served to put the re-organized gambling combine in greater power to crush out its rivals.

Fox Hunters in at One Death.

GREENSBURG, Nov. 4.—Two successful fox chases were conducted on the farm of Harry A. Thomas, two miles north of Greensburg today. The first fox was liberated in the morning and was run down and killed by the hounds before any of the hunters arrived at the quarry. In the afternoon rare sport was furnished the 100 participants, reynard doubling on his tracks not less than half a dozen times. It was almost sundown before the hounds finally overtook him, and half of the hunters were present at the death.

Will Hire a Special Train.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Manager W. S. Grubbs of the Washington and Jefferson football team, made arrangements for a special train to Pittsburgh next Tuesday for rooters to see the game against Pittsburgh Lyceum. Suter, the big center, returned to the field today. He had been out with a bad arm. There will be no game tomorrow for the varsity. W. and J. will go to Columbus for the annual game with Ohio Medical university next Saturday.

Association Kickers to Start.

The opening game of association football in the Monongahela valley district will be played this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Edgar Thomson Steel Works park, Braddock, by the Braddock and Morgan A. C. teams, both members of the new league of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio association football teams.

Wilkinsburg Calls Off Game.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Manager Taylor of the Washington and Jefferson Academy football team received word today from the manager of the Wilkinsburg High school team stating that the game scheduled for this afternoon could not be played.

Results in Pool Tourney.

In the pool tournament at the Casino, Wilkinsburg, last night, Graham beat Brindley, 50 to 45, and Worsel won from Lewis, 50 to 36.

TELESCOPE'S VICTORY BROUGHT SMALL FORTUNE

Opened at 50-to-1 and Was Backed Down by Owner, Who Raked in All Kinds of Cash.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Telescope, backed from 50 to 1 to 5 to 1, won the last race at Aqueduct today and made a small fortune for his owner, W. H. Kraft. The race was for maidens, 3 years old and up, distance 1 mile, and 17 horses faced the barrier. An Andalusian broke in front, but Telescope rushed into the lead. Rounding into the stretch he was leading by a length, but had to be hard ridden at the finish to win by a head from Thespian.

Coy Maid, the 4-to-5 favorite, won the Bellrose selling stake in a driving finish by three-quarters of a length from Niblick. Coy Maid broke the track record for five furlongs by running the distance in :59 3-5. The best previous time was one minute flat. Summaries:

First race, 5 furlongs—Diamond, 126, Redfern, 15 to 20 and 1 to 4, won; Cairngorm, 114, W. Davis, 7 to 1 and 7 to 5, second; Blue Coat, 97, Hildebrand, 9 to 1 and 2 to 1, third. Time, :59 4-5.

Second race, selling, 1 mile—New York, 111, Shaw, 7 to 1 and 3 to 2, won; Coppelia, 100, Hildebrand, 7 to 2 and 6 to 5, second; Champlain, 96, Travers, 12 to 5 and even, third. Time, 1:40.

Third race, 6 furlongs—Roseben, 123, Martin, 6 to 5 and 1 to 5, won; Crown Prince, 120, Gannon, even and 1 to 5, second; Rob Roy, 112, Hildebrand, 8 to 1 and 3 to 5, third. Time, 1:13 3-5.

Fourth race, the Bellrose stakes, selling, 5 furlongs—Coy Maid, 99, Hildebrand, 4 to 5 and 1 to 5, won; Niblick, 98, Travers, 16 to 5 and 3 to 1, second; Czarephine, 104, W. Davis, 2 to 1 and 2 to 5, third. Time, :59 3-5.

Fifth race, selling, 1 1-16 miles—Consideration, 96, Hildebrand, 6 to 1 and 8 to 5, won; Sir Shep, 90, Sperling, 30 to 1 and 7 to 1, second; Plamnula, 102, Crimmins, 16 to 5 and even, third. Time, 1:47 3-5.

THE FOX HUNT OVER.

Last Day Was Most Successful and Hundreds of Riders Followed the Hounds.

CANAL DOVER, O., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The big fox hunt at Zoar closed today with the most interesting features of the meeting. The party of 200 hunters started before sunrise and covered extensive territory east of the Tuscarawas river. Three foxes were roused from their lodgings, and although some very exciting chases followed none were captured. The entire party returned to the hotel for dinner, and in the afternoon the three reynards which had been caught earlier in the week were released on the plains between Zoar and Bolivar.

As this was visitors' day, fully 800 people were present and witnessed the final events of the meet. The first fox was released from the cage and given a start of 20 minutes. The hounds were then allowed to follow, and in a short time they had overtaken sly Reynard. The dogs followed the fox in his hiding place, and before the riders could arrive the latter had been killed. The second fox, after being released, escaped before the hounds had fairly gotten on his trail. Owing to a misunderstanding on the part of some of the men holding the cage containing the dogs, the third chase was unsuccessful. The hounds were liberated before, and had already passed, and consequently the final event was called off.

Most of the hunters have already returned to their homes, while the others are preparing to leave. President Snyder declares that the hunt just closed has been the most successful ever conducted by the Tristate Fox Hunters' association, and is already making arrangements for the mid-winter meeting to be held by the same club. This next hunt will be a private affair, and will be open only to the members of the association.

Forbes and Coff Draw.

DETROIT, MICH., Nov. 4.—Clarence Forbes of Chicago and Harry Cobb of Detroit fought ten rounds to a draw tonight. For five rounds Forbes was easily master of the situation, but Cobb evened up in the seventh, eighth and ninth, having Forbes in a tired condition at the end of the eighth. In the tenth round honors were even.

Bowling Series Is a Tie.

GREENSBURG, Nov. 4. — (Special.) — Greensburg won the fourth contest of a series of five from the Latrobe bowlers tonight, and the series is now a tie. All three games were won by the locals.

AMATEUR FOOTBALL GOSSIP.

The Chamberlin A. C. has today open. Call 9008-R Fisk, between 9 and 12 o'clock, and ask for Naser.

The Lowell seconds challenge 75-pound teams for Election day. Call 2788-R Highland, between 10 and 10:30 a. m., and ask for Crouse.

The Hazelwood A. C. has Thanksgiving open for a good 85-pound team within a radius of 50 miles of Pittsburgh. Alvin Spreher, Glenwood avenue, Pittsburgh.

Bryants have no game for today and would like to hear from a 60 to 70-pound team. Call 4404-W Fairmont, or Bell 'phone, before 12 o'clock, and ask for Paul Evans.

The Bellevue Tigers are without a game for Election day. Any 85-pound team call the Crucible Steel Company and ask for John J. Burns, Jr., of the order department.

Owing to cancellation both the Glenfield A. C. first and second teams are without games for today. Any 80 to 90 and 60 to 70-pound teams 'phone 477 Grant or 477 Main and ask for J. K. Scandrett.

HARD PRACTICE HELD AT YALE

Harvard Looks for Dartmouth to Offer Strong Fight Today. Tigers' Light Work.

FROM THE OTHER COLLEGES

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 4.—With only tomorrow's game with Brown before the Yale-Princeton championship game of one week hence, the Yale coaches sent the players back to elementary practice today as if they were "reviewing for an examination."

The big line men were drilled in quick charging and in falling on the ball. The halfbacks caught and run back punts with Bloomer running at them as if to tackle and the ends hurried up and down the field to cover the kicks and nab the ball if fumbled. Bloomer's right shoulder, which is still weak from repeated dislocations, is not yet in condition to permit him to take much part in active play, and he will probably not go into the game tomorrow at all.

Kinson has been drilled in Bloomer's place all week, and has developed into a first-class man. After an hour and a half of signal practice behind closed gates the varsity team was drilled before several hundred student spectators in the recently devised protective formations for the man who may catch the ball on the kickoff.

Yale anticipates a sharp practice game tomorrow, and especially as news comes that Brown's coaches have been saving the three best players for the Yale contest.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—In view of the hard struggle expected on the morrow with West Point's husky giants, the Tigers took it easy in a light signal practice. Much attention was given to the returning of the ball after long punts, and the team showed up in fine shape, covering the ground with great speed. Considering his build, which is not that of a runner, Ritter proved himself very fast. The energy he puts into his work more than compensates for his few faults. His interference is fine and he seldom fails to dispose of anyone so unfortunate as to cross his whirlwind passage.

Considerable confidence is felt in regard to the struggle with West Point, as the teamwork has certainly improved 20 per cent during the last two weeks. It is felt that the team will not again be guilty of the temporary apathy they showed in the first part of the Cornell game, a slump which was without excuse or reason. What they can do under the stimulus of misfortune they showed in the latter part of that struggle in a fashion that will be remembered, and which has done even more to encourage the college than the improvement made in practice. The Tigers expect to make at least two touchdowns tomorrow, though the Army boys are giving odds of 5 to 3 on their team.

The squad, about 35 strong, will leave for West Point tomorrow morning at 9:30, and will be accompanied by the greater part of the students.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Harvard had an easy day today in preparation for the Dartmouth game, which the head coach thinks will be the hardest game the Crimson will play outside the Yale game. The New Hampshire college men defeated Harvard last year 11 to 0, and tomorrow's game will be for blood. Harvard will make a supreme effort to keep the green and white from defeating her two years in succession, while Dartmouth will try to perform this feat, which no small college has ever done in football history.

The Dartmouth men have made special preparations for tomorrow's game, while Harvard has not gone out of her way for it. There is a feeling of anxiety among the undergraduates in regard to the result, for, owing to secret practice, they have not seen their team since last Saturday. During the week the Harvard team has developed a lot of steam and fight, but, owing to incessant drilling by the coaches, the work has not been very smooth. It is thought, however, by those who have followed the team, that Harvard, after today's rest, will be in condition to give the Dartmouth team a harder run than they gave Pennsylvania last week.

West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The Army team ran through a short signal practice this afternoon, and is on edge for the Princeton game tomorrow. All the men are in good condition with the exception of Graves, who will not play. So much confidence is expressed on the West Point campus to night as to the Army's chances of victory over the orange and black. There is little West Point money in sight, although a few bets have been placed at even that the Army defeats the Tigers. The assemblage that witnesses the game here tomorrow will be the largest ever attending a football match at the academy, and tomorrow all roads will lead to West Point.

Gov. Murphy of New Jersey will witness the contest as the guest of Gen. Mill, superintendent of the academy. Among others of distinction to be present will be Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Gens. Miles, Johnston and Brooke.

Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The Navys is desperately anxious to win the game with State college of Pennsylvania here tomorrow. Following the victory over Princeton, the Dickinson and decisive defeat by Swarthmore have indicated a terrible slump, and, as State is about the same strength of the latter two, tomorrow's contest, if won, will stand as a recovery of playing strength such as marked the opening of the season.

State has won two out of three of the last games, the scores of all three being close. If there is any chance for it, there will be many changes back of the line tomorrow. Wilcox will start at quarter, but both Decker and Norton will likely go in. Among those from whom the other backs will be selected are Spencer, Doherty, Chronly, Parsol, Townsend and Strassberger.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Cornell will send her best available team against Lehigh tomorrow. The eleven that will go on the field will be much changed over that which played Princeton in the first place Cook and Costello, the tackles, were ordered to the repair shop for a rest today.

Costello's knee is bothering him and Cook is slightly sick. Regular Sub-Tackle Smith will take Cook's place, but a new man will be found in Costello's berth. He is Martin, a freshman who has been out for only a short time. Capt. Lynch will play Forgy's place in right end, while Bird will get the captain's place at quarter back. Gibson will play Birmingham's place at right half back.

U. of P.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The University of Pennsylvania football team is expecting one of the hardest games of the season tomorrow with Lafayette. This is the first time that Penn has met the Easton eleven since 1900, and as the latter team has concentrated everything on this game the Quakers expect to be tried out to the limit. In view of the fact that Penn has not been defeated nor had her goal line crossed this year, the strongest eleven that can be obtained will be put in the field to keep up the record. This means that Full Back Smith, whose sister died a week ago, will be obliged to play and also that Lamson will line up against his former team mates from Lafayette.

SAILOR SHARKEY RETIRES.

Recognizes the Fact That He Is a Back Number and Will Fight No More.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Tom Sharkey, the fighting marine, who has never quailed before the best fighters of the day, who has met them all and the only man who ever stood Jeffries off for 25 rounds, has retired from the ring. The fighting marine has just recovered from an attack of typhoid fever. He said today:

"I know that my best days are over, and although I feel good, and it seems as though I could fight as good as ever I know I'm not there. After my fight with Munroe I knew that I had gone back. You know a man has his day, and if he doesn't get right to the top then there is no use keeping at it until you are old enough to play Santa Claus.

"I'm satisfied with my record. None of these fellows ever gave Jeffries the fights I gave him. They may all be great men, but I have yet to see the man who has gone the limit with him and have a close decision given. I've lost fights, too; yes, but I have no kick coming."

The "Human Punching Bag" Coming.

The Carnegie A. C. has received the forfeit of Joe Grim, the Italian boxer of Philadelphia, who is booked to meet Eddie Kennedy at Carnegie on the night of November 14. Grim also wrote that the several other matches which he had on have been called off by him in order that he may be in the best of shape when he meets the Allegheny boy before the Carnegie Athletic club.

GOLF ASSOCIATION TO CONSIDER PROTEST

Meeting Will Be Held on Monday and Action Taken on the Case of Dr. Fredericks.

Announcement was made yesterday that a special meeting of the executive committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf association had been called at the request of its president, John Moorhead, Jr., at the Pittsburgh club, Monday afternoon next at 4 o'clock.

The object of the meeting is to consider the protest of the Allegheny Country club against the playing by the Oakmont Country club of Dr. D. P. Fredericks of Oil City, in the team match between the clubs at Oakmont, October 25. The match was a play off of a tie for the championship in the association and Oakmont won, 23 to 5.

The contention is that Dr. Fredericks was not at the time a bona fide member of the Oakmont club. It is understood that he was elected the day before the match. If it be found that he was not elected by the club in a regular manner it is thought that the match will be ordered to be played over again.

The executive committee consists of a representative from each of the clubs forming the association, which are: Allegheny Country club, Edgewood Golf club, Edgeworth club, Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh Golf club, Pittsburgh Country club, Brighton Country club, Westmoreland Country club, Pittsburgh Field club and the New Castle Golf club, together with the officers of the association, who are: President, John Moorhead, Jr.; vice president, Alexander R. Shepherd; treasurer, W. N. Kerr, and secretary, Edwin Z. Smith.

Today's Local Golf Schedule.

Country Club of Pittsburgh—18-hole qualifying round under assigned handicaps for cup presented by Hon. William Flinn, first eight to qualify to continue at match play under 3/4 of regular handicaps on November 8, 10 and 12. Also two-ball sweepstakes today.

Edgeworth club—Postponed team match with Edgewood Golf club at Sewickley.

Oakmont Country club—18-hole handicap for a cup offered by C. E. Fownes, and also play for points on the C. A. Verner cup.

Pittsburgh Golf club—Ninth competition for the John T. Speer trophy, first round 18 holes of medal play under handicaps.

TO HASTEN WORK OF COMMISSION

Foreign Minister Delcasse Arranges for Sittings of Inquiry Court in Paris.

AMERICA TO BE REPRESENTED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Foreign Minister Delcasse announced to the council of ministers today the details of the approaching session of the Anglo-Russian commission in the North sea incident. He said that by agreement between both parties, Paris had been determined on for the sessions of the commission. These might begin about November 16, if arrangements were possible to secure a full attendance by that time.

The commission would be composed of British, Russian, French and American admirals, one from each country, these four to select a fifth admiral. The sessions will be held behind closed doors, probably in the hall of the ambassadors.

M. Delcasse is arranging to give the commission every facility. It is the understanding that the commission will hear oral testimony, chiefly that of the Russian officers who were detached from their ships at Vigo, and the principal witnesses who testified at the Hull inquest. The desire of the authorities here is to expedite the inquiry.

M. Delcasse's statement to the ministers was based upon official advices showing the present status of the negotiations, which continue to be open to modification pending the formal adhesion of both parties to the convention.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 4.—The delay in the final ratification of the convention for an inquiry into the North sea incident is over the formulation of the questions which the international commission is to decide. The Russian authorities are understood to desire to acquaint themselves with the detailed report of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, which was brought here by Capt. Clado and his three brother officers today, in order to ascertain whether any new questions raised by the report should be included.

John Bromley's Body Arrives.

The body of John Bromley, who was killed in a dynamite explosion in the oil fields at Batson, Tex., last Tuesday, arrived last evening at his late home, 913 First avenue, McKees Rocks. Funeral services will be held over the remains this evening at 7:30 by the Rev. George Orbin, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of McKees Rocks. William Bromley, a son, and Frank Kenny of McKees Rocks, accompanied the body home. The remains will be buried at Beaver, Pa.

KENTUCKY MAYOR TURNS LOOSE ON THANKSGIVING

Urges Citizens, Among Other Things, to Give Thanks for Bountiful Crop of Babies.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HENDERSON, KY., Nov. 4.—Mayor J. H. Powell of this city, in issuing his characteristic annual thanksgiving proclamation, among other things says:

"Let us be thankful that our colonels are not so full of corn as our corn is full of kernels. Though the surrounding soil, tickled with a hoe, is laughing with a harvest, poor folks are still with us. From thin soup and cold potatoes, good Lord, deliver them.

"Oh, Christian men and women, astonish the stomach of the starving sufferer with oysters, turkey and mince pie. Adorn the ragged pauper with comfortable clothing. An ounce of practice is worth a pound of preaching.

"Dearly beloved, let us play upon a harp with a thousand strings a new song of praise. Let us give thanks unto the Lord for the most charming crop of beautiful babies ever born in the old town since the creation dawned and the morning stars sang together. Sweet, dainty, darling ones, like sunbeams in shady places, kick up your little heels and make of earth a heaven.

"With charity unto all and malice toward none, I do hereby subscribe my official signature to the words that have been written this 4th day of November."

Resigns to Accept Bishopric.

ERIE, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The Rev. Franklin S. Spaulding, rector of St. Paul's church, who was elected missionary bishop of Salt Lake, presented his resignation to the vestrymen tonight, and it was accepted. He will probably be consecrated bishop here shortly before Christmas.

SUPREME COURT WINDS UP WORK

Important Decisions Handed Down in a Number of Interesting Suits.

RENO DARDAIA MUST HANG

After handing down a number of decisions the supreme court closed its sessions in Pittsburgh yesterday to reconvene in Philadelphia on the first Monday in January. Among the interesting suits upon which the court took no action are the judicial salary case, the Russ case, to recover expenses for the trip the legislature took to the dedication of Grant's tomb in 1897, and the Municipal league suit over the form of ballot to be used in Philadelphia, when the election comes on next Tuesday the league practically loses so far as this year is concerned. The constitutionality of parts of the election law is attacked by the league, and when the opinion comes down in January it may be interesting.

An unusual procedure was taken in the case of Baldwin township vs. the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. There was a dispute over a country road near Willock station, where the company was charging its line, and the township stopped proceedings by a preliminary injunction. The company appealed, and the supreme court reversed the lower court in a per curiam, something that is of very rare occurrence. The opinion merely says: "We do not think this a case for a preliminary injunction."

Duty of Courts to the Public.

In affirming the court of common pleas of Clarion county in the case of Melvin vs. Summerfield the court took occasion to express itself on the failure of county courts to take action in cases of public improvements. The suit was brought to prevent the erection of a poor farm in Clarion county and a number of technical points were raised among them one about the failure to have the proceedings approved by the county court. The lower court found that the proceedings were regular, and is sustained. Chief Justice Mitchell, who wrote the opinion, after referring to the various steps including the submission of the question to the voters, says: "It cannot be supposed that the legislature intended that, after such a reference of the matter to the people of the district themselves, their decision should be subject to be nullified by the fiature of a judge of the common pleas to approve the contract to carry it out."

The liability of employers for personal injuries to employes is treated of in an opinion in the case of Louis Cracraft vs. the Bessemer Limestone Company, an appeal from Lawrence county entered by the Bessemer company. Cracraft, who is 20 years of age, was employed by the company. He had a hand hurt by a saw and entered suit, recovering in the lower court. This finding is reversed. Justice Potter in the opinion says: "Generally speaking, the duty of the employer to give information to an employe as to the particular perils and dangers of the service in which he is engaged is unquestioned." Then, after describing Cracraft's work and telling how he was hurt, the court asks, "What particular information could have been given the plaintiff except to warn him not to allow his hand to come in contact with the saw?" Evidently the court thought Cracraft old enough to know better, for the lower court was reversed.

Reno Dardaia Must Hang.

The appeal of Reno Dardaia was rejected and the record ordered remitted so that the sentence of the lower court that Dardaia be hanged can be carried into execution. Dardaia killed Thomas Sinclair at Imperial. He pleaded guilty in quarter sessions court, and, after hearing the testimony, the court found him guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced him to be hanged. The supreme court says that all the elements of first degree murder are shown by the records, and that the court below could not possibly have reached any other conclusion.

The new court house for Westmoreland county can now be erected. The efforts to stop it have failed in the Westmoreland county court, in the superior court and now finally in the supreme court. The latter decides that the act of 1870 is not repealed by the act of 1895, and affirms the finding of the superior court.

The inheritance tax cases will be argued in January at Philadelphia, an order being made fixing the second Monday of that month as the date. The order includes the case of the Philadelphia Company, Consolidated Gas Company, the Allegheny County Light Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company. When this motion to advance these cases on the list was made it was explained to the court that it would be of great importance to the city to have them decided before the tax levy and appropriation ordinances for next year are prepared. Presumably it was on this account that the order was made.

Other decisions handed down were as follows: Swearingen vs. Barnsdall, Allegheny; affirmed; Lincoln vs. Moorhead, Armstrong, affirmed; Swank vs. Freits, Westmoreland, affirmed at cost of appellant; Hunter vs. Baxter, Gaertner's appeal, Allegheny, affirmed; in re estate of Kittanning Company, Armstrong, affirmed; assigned estate of White, Gittinger's appeal, Westmoreland, affirmed; Hoober vs. Consolidated Traction Company, Allegheny, affirmed; Sutters vs. Isabella Furnace Company, Allegheny, affirmed; First National bank vs. McKinley Coal Company, Allegheny, affirmed; Krusan vs. Hutchinson, appellant, Allegheny, affirmed; Harrington vs. Harrington, Armstrong, affirmed; Schreckengost vs. West Armstrong, affirmed; Realty Company vs. Gallinger, Allegheny, affirmed at appellant's cost; Shedden's estate, Carter's appeal, Allegheny, affirmed at appellant's cost; Hill vs. Central Accident Insurance Company, appeal, Armstrong, affirmed; Kircher vs. Oil City Railway Company, Venango, affirmed; Haviman vs. Citizens Gas Company, Beaver, affirmed; Allisons' estate, Bellour's appeal, Washington, affirmed; Pennsylvania Mining Company vs. Washington, affirmed; Weaver vs. Griffith, Indiana, affirmed; Patterson vs. Pittsburgh & C. C. Railway Company, Washington, affirmed; Lininger vs. Westinghouse Airbrake Company, Allegheny, affirmed; Dunbar V. Foundry Company, McClure's Company's appeal, Washington, affirmed.

Brutal Crime Recalled.

Franz Deboid, Sr., will be tried next Wednesday for murder. Early in the morning of August 20 Deboid, while drunk, went to his home at Heidelberg, and going to the bedroom of his son and namesake, Franz Deboid, Jr., aged 11, hacked off the sleeping child's head with an ax.

The jury in the case of Robert Harper, a Coraopolis policeman, charged with killing Forest S. Craig during a raid on an alleged moonshiner, is out.

Frank Joy is on trial charged with operating a detective bureau without a license.

In the juvenile court Edward Lightner and Fred Lloyd were sent to Morganza for larceny.

The grand jury for the December term of quarter sessions court is as follows: Geo. W. Alsop, laborer, Seventeenth ward; Edward Anshutt, farmer, Lower St. Clair township; George W. Anderson, manager, Nineteenth ward; William Apple, mechanic, Twenty-first ward; T. D. Brunner, farmer, Patton township; William H. Cassidy, treasurer, Twentieth ward; S. M. Cool, laborer, Nineteenth ward; William Grindell, machinist, Sixth ward; Edward T. Jackson, fire insurance, Wilkinsburg; Peter Klein, miner, Baldwin township; Daniel Lewis, West Elizabeth; W. W. Morrilly, retired, First ward; John McDowell, carpenter, Ross township; James M. McNair, recorder, Second ward, Allegheny; T. C. Perrine, furniture, Fourteenth ward; Frank M. Reed, superintendent, Clairton; William Robinson, grocer, Scott township; N. F. Sanford, coal operator, Twenty-third ward; Samuel Sloan, millwright, Thirteenth ward; John Wachter, farmer, Ohio township; Ralph White, auctioneer, Greentree; John Eichenouer, carpenter, Pittsburgh; C. D. G. Donavan, real estate, McKeesport.

Libels in divorce were filed as follows: Harry W. Baur against Ella J. Baur, alleging infidelity; Maud W. Painter against Edward J. Painter, Elizabeth Gaber against John Gaber, Benjamin R. Valentine against Meta V. Valentine, Sofia Vinduiz against Vasilie Vladovic, Frank T. Morris against Bertha May Morris, also alleging infidelity, and Julia Kunkler against Anthony Kunkler, cruelty.

Suits alleging libel on trespass was brought by the Duquesne Distributing Company, manufacturers of Red Raven Splits, against George W. Thomas, operating as the Re-Leaf Company.

Another Suit Against John.

Another suit has been entered against J. Henry John. The sum of $2,666 and interest due on a mortgage executed by him to Thomas D. Gladden. The suit is brought by S. B. Donaldson, trustee of Gladden's estate.

Hannover Zeboski filed two suits for damages against the Allegheny Coal Company for the death of both husband, Michael, and son, Steven, who were killed in the Harwick mine disaster. She asks $10,000 in each case.

Henry Phipps has been sued by the Magnesite Covering Company for use of the Kemby and Mattison Company to recover $1,295.15 alleged to be due for waterproofing the walls of the Bessemer building.

A statement was filed in the suit of John S. McNutt, receiver of the Salem Church Organ Company, against Thomas H. Bakewell to recover $9,200. The claim is made that Bakewell as a stockholder in the company refuses to pay a judgment secured against the company.

Executions issued: Christiana Johnson vs. John S. Logan, $210; Mathilda M. A. Demmler vs. Samuel W. Arnott, $650 38; Mamie J. Sandin vs. same, $650 38; Homer F. Rambler, $347 75; Shoemaker & Company vs. Morris Salker, $258 15; International Manufacturing Company vs. M. C. Williams, $253.20; John McGinnis vs. Lewis G. Wentzel and John W. Keller, $2,005.715; Whitney, Wabel & Company vs. Hamilton Carshake, $258 30.

Judgment in favor of Mrs. Tye was filed by James F. Reese, a wholesale liquor dealer, of Beaver. He gives his liabilities as $17,468 94 and his assets as $2,999 26. His heaviest creditors are liquor dealers of this city.

MAYOR LOSES IN SUPREME COURT

Right of John Bradley to Hold Position of Oil Inspector Is Affirmed.

OFFICE PAYS $10,000 A YEAR

Mayor Hays has been turned down by the supreme court in his efforts to secure the power of appointing the county oil inspector and to oust John Bradley, the appointee of the county court, from this position in favor of the mayor's own appointee, William Shore, Jr. Notice was received yesterday of the supreme court's decision, which affirms that of the county court. Bradley's victory is important, as the position of oil inspector is reputed to be worth about $10,000 a year in fees.

This fact aroused the cupidity of the city administration, and Mayor Hays, relying upon an untested law, enacted May 15, 1874, appointed Shore to the position last year. This law reads as follows:

The said inspector shall be appointed by the court of common pleas, one in each county in the commonwealth wherein said burning oils or fluids, as before mentioned, are manufactured: Provided, That in any county where there shall be more than one court of common pleas the said appointments shall be made by court No. 1 in said counties, and in any county wherein is situate a city of more than 300,000 inhabitants, in such case, in lieu of court No. 1, the appointment of inspector shall be made by the mayor of said city.

By the last census Pittsburgh has a population of over 300,000, and the mayor and his advisers argued that the act of 1874 covered the present case. John Bradley, formerly chief clerk in the county prothonotary's office, was appointed oil inspector by the judges of common pleas court No. 1, as had been the custom ever since the law of 1874 was put in force. Shore is a young assistant engineer in the bureau of construction. Mayor Hays went into the county court to oust Bradley, but he was defeated there and took an appeal to the supreme court.

Bradley's defense was that the portion of the act of 1874, cited by Mayor Hays, applied only to the city of Philadelphia, which was the only city in the state having a population of 300,000 in 1874. His lawyers contended the power of appointment was not to be conferred upon the mayor of any other city that might, after 1874, grow to a population of 300,000, the proviso being in the present tense.

It was also pointed out by Bradley's lawyers that the act of 1874 could not apply to Pittsburgh because the oil inspector was appointed to do work in the entire county, that Pittsburgh comprised only a portion of the county, and that Mayor Hays' jurisdiction did not extend over the entire county. It was shown that the exception in the act was intended for Philadelphia, which comprises the entire county of Philadelphia. Bradley will hold office for three years.

THE THREE RIVERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 4.—The stage of the river at 6 o'clock this evening was 5.4 feet and rising. Today's arrivals were the Chickasaw, Portsmouth and Lizzie Bay, Louisville. The Big Kanawha is on the Queen City marine ways having her guards repaired, and will be let off in about a week. The Keystone State will be let off as soon as the water reaches about the 6-foot mark. There are rumors afloat of the combination of the up-river packets and the White Collar line, so that they may be able to handle freight from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh. Weather clear and pleasant.

LOUISVILLE—River rising. In canal, 2.6 feet; on falls, 4 feet; below locks, 3.4 feet.

HUNTINGTON—River 4 feet 8 inches and stationary. Greenwood down, 2 p. m. Stanley and Tacoma will resume Pomeroy and Cincinnati trade at once under management of Capt. Gordon Green and Capt. W. E. Rose.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 3 inches and falling. Weather cloudy and warm.

GALLIPOLIS—River 3 feet 6 inches and stationary. Weather clear and cool.

STEUBENVILLE—River 2 feet 3 inches and falling. Weather cloudy and cool.

WHEELING—River 2 feet 11 inches and falling. Weather cloudy and warmer. Down, Bessie Smith, Parkersburg, noon.

WARREN—River 1 foot. Weather fair and mild.

GREENSBORO—River 5 feet 10 inches and falling. Weather threatening and cooler. Columbia down Saturday; Hite up.

MORGANTOWN—River 6 feet and stationary. Weather clear and colder.

PT. PLEASANT—River 2 feet 1 inch and falling. Weather clear and pleasant.

PARKERSBURG—River 3.8 feet and falling. Weather clear and warm.

COL. LYDECKER HERE.

Has Charge of River from State Line to Cincinnati.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 8 o'clock last night was 2.8 feet and the river was stationary.

Col. G. J. Lydecker, who has charge of the river from the state line to Cincinnati, arrived in Pittsburgh Thursday afternoon and visited the office of Maj. W. J. Sibert, the local engineer. Together they visited Fort Perry dam and inspected the new work in progress there and also made a trip along the Pittsburgh harbor.

Col. Lydecker went to Rochester yesterday to meet those interested in the establishment of harbor lines in the Ohio river from Logastown to Rochester. The following rivermen composed a committee from Harbor 25 to inspect the harbor plans: Capts. George W. Gibson, John W. Buttonfield, Frank Kulp, Thomas Dunlevy and Robert Holden. They went to Rochester yesterday afternoon and expected to return last evening after the hearing.

Harbor Line Board held a meeting at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and a full attendance of members is requested.

Noah C. Pharis, marine underwriter's inspector, arrived in this city from Cincinnati yesterday and inspected a number of boats in the local harbor.

The big Kanawha went on the ways at Cincinnati Thursday and will undergo a general overhauling.

The Mike Dougherty came down the river yesterday morning blowing her for whistle. It was almost impossible to navigate and movement had to be accompanied by great caution to make any headway at all.

Rivermen are beginning to fear that unless rain comes within a few days the water in the pools will get so low river business will be entirely suspended.

The Rose Hite came in yesterday about 12 hours late, owing to fog. She went out last night with a heavy freight trip.

HOTEL SCHENLEY.

This evening and tomorrow evening and every Saturday and Sunday following, the Hotel Schenley will serve a Table d' Hote dinner in the handsome banquet hall of the hotel from 6 until 8:30 p. m. at a charge of $1.25. SOCIETY

THE members of the entertainment committee of the Brighton Country club have issued neat little "social calendars," announcing plans for the winter. A special feature will be made of Tuesday evenings during November, December, January, February and March. Card parties will be held on the first Tuesday of each month, in charge of the following managers: Miss Alice Abbett and Miss Margaret R. Young, November 8; Mrs. William W. McCandless and Miss Lyde R. Bradley, December 6; Mrs. J. Harper Lyle and Mrs. C. V. Wheeler, January 3; Mrs. Elliott Rodgers and Miss Eva Stoner, February 7; Mrs. William J. Harris and Mrs. S. C. Porter, March 7. An informal dance will be held on the second Tuesday of each month: November 15, December 13, January 10, February 14 and March 14, and on the third Tuesday of each month, November 22, December 20, January 17, February 21 and March 21 a chicken waffle supper will be served. On the fourth Tuesday of each month musicales will be given as follows: November 29, John McD. Ferguson in charge; December 27, R. L. James; January 24, John G. Leich; February 28, Hamilton Stewart and March 28, Miss Emma Lindsay. An inter-club bowling league will be organized during the winter with a regular schedule for Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Miss Packer's Engagement Announced.

Pretty little heart-shaped cards with the initials of the guest of honor and her fiance in gold, marked the places at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Lide Packer Blair of Castleman street. It was in honor of her niece, Miss Mabel A. Packer, whose engagement to William L. Davis was announced. Covers were laid for 24 friends of Miss Packer, who is the daughter of the late Jos. M. Packer of this city and makes her home with her aunt, Mrs. Blair. Mr. Davis is identified with the Cosmopolitan bank.

Wedding Date Announced.

Pittsburghers will be interested in the approaching wedding of Miss Jessie Fox, daughter of the late John Fox of Cleveland, O., and Seymour S. Preston, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Preston of St. James street, Shadyside. Miss Fox has selected Tuesday, December 6, as the date for the wedding. Mr. Preston now makes his home in Philadelphia and Miss Fox lives with her sister, Mrs. Frank E. Bowman of "Kinloch," Remington, Va., formerly of Edgewood park.

To Visit the Sorgs.

Major and Mrs. William P. Aul of Fifth avenue will leave for the east next week to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arthur Sorg, who are occupying apartments in New York. Major and Mrs. Aul have just returned from a visit to Cleveland. Early next month they expect to go to Pasadena, Cal., for the remainder of the season and will probably entertain Mr. and Mrs. Sorg, who are planning to travel this winter.

To Meet Mrs. Hogg.

Mrs. James R. Mellon of North Negley avenue has asked the members of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to be her guests next Wednesday afternoon to meet Mrs. Julia K. Hogg of New Rochelle, N. Y., who is visiting her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. William Mellon Hall of Morewood avenue. Mrs. Hogg has been in Pittsburgh for a week and will remain until the latter part of next week.

Musicale for the Day Nursery.

A successful musicale was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hammond in Clyde street, Shadyside, for the benefit of the Oakland Day nursery. Those who gave the program were Madame Henriette Kell, Dan Beddoe, Joseph Giffings, Luigi Von Kunits and Wallace Lee Bonham, the latter the instructor in elocution in the Shadyside academy.

Miss West Was Honor Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Woods of Grant street, Sewickley, entertained friends informally last evening to meet Miss Clara West of New York, who is a guest at the Woods home. Miss West gave a short talk. About 50 persons were present.

Mrs. Paulson Entertained.

Mrs. Frank C. Paulson entertained yesterday afternoon from 2:30 until 5 o'clock at her home in Frederick avenue, Sewickley, at six-hand euchre, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Harry D. Atwood, who is soon to move from the valley. Thirty-five guests were present.

Notes of Society.

Letters have already been received from Mr. and Mrs. William Booth Trainer saying that they had arrived in St. Louis.

Mrs. Alexander R. Peacock held her first at-home of the season yesterday at "Rowanlea," her residence in North Highland avenue.

Mrs. Robert Mercer Jones of Summerlea and Ellwood streets, entertained at cards yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Marcus Stearns of Oak Park, Ill.

A very enjoyable reception was given last evening by the members of the Walton Methodist Episcopal church to their new paster, the Rev. P. C. Brooks.

AMONG THE CLUBS

Mrs. Julia K. Hogg, the founder of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was present at the meeting of the chapter yesterday afternoon in the Twentieth Century club, and made an address. The greater part of the afternoon, however, was devoted to the reappraisal of the efforts which the Daughters have put forth to preserve the historic block house. Mrs. Cyrus Clarke, Jr., secretary of the board of directors of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Allegheny, the legal incorporated name of the Pittsburgh Daughters, read the minutes of all meetings of the board which have been held in the interests of the block house since last June. Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, the chairman of the advisory committee, giving a complete account of the work which has been done in the Point district since July 1, having visited that locality each day to see that no damage was done to the site by the work of tearing down and excavating for the warehouses.

During the last 13 months interest in the block house was unabating, some weeks showing that 200 visitors registered, while many neglected to do so. The total number of registered visitors for that period was 9,000. She spoke of the action leading up to the damage case instituted by the Daughters against the city, and stated that though $18,300 had been awarded them for damages that amount would not be sufficient to cover the expense of putting the property in as good condition as is possible. The city has made a motion for a new trial. The bill in equity filed by the Daughters against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company asking the courts to restrain the company from obstructing the northern front of the property will probably be argued on the next equity list. The house at 25 Penn avenue will be torn down as the Pennsylvania company will erect a wall about the block house. This property the Daughters will deny themselves the income of in order that they may have an entrance to the historic site.

Mrs. Julia K. Hogg, since the death of her husband a couple of years ago, has made her home in New Rochelle, N. Y. Yesterday she was present and spoke with satisfaction and pride of the work which the Daughters whom she organized in 1891 in this city have done.

Miss Kennard, the historian, gave a concize account of Fort Fayette, situated between Penn avenue and Ninth street and the Allegheny river. The registrar reported five new members.

A paper was read written by Mrs. Martha L. Sternberg of the Memorial Continental hall committee in which she said that a special effort will be made to have the interior of the hall completed by next April, the time of the meeting of the next continental congress. The cost of the building will be about $400,000, and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, the president general, added a plea that the Pittsburgh Daughters will continue their financial support to this object. The chapter is arranging to have Miss Mary V. Waddell give a lecture before it in March, her subject being "Nathaniel Green, the Man and Patriot."

Mrs. Sullivan Johnson reported for the committee appointed to ascertain whether a monument might be erected on the site of Fort Necessity. The committee has been unable to secure the consent of the owner to the sale of the necessary ground for such a memorial, nor will he consent to the erection of one.

The chairman of the state committee appointed to purchase a suitable gift for the cruiser Pennsylvania, Miss Julia Morgan Harding, reported the bronze bas-relief of William Penn, which will be the gift of the Pennsylvania Daughters, completed. The joint committee of Women's club for summer playground and vacation work acknowledged the receipt of $52 for the purpose specified for the children. Other business transacted authorized the appointment of a committee by the regent for the purpose of considering the advisability and possibility of holding a loan exhibition, the committee to report at the next meeting. At this time also the four delegates from the local chapter to the fourteenth continental congress in Washington, D. C., will be elected.

The annual conference of the Pennsylvania Daughters of the American Revolution will be held in Allentown week after next. Among the local women who will attend are Mrs. James R. Mellon and Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon.

Club Notes.

The Women's Southern society met yesterday afternoon in the Bellefield club house in Craig street, the president, Mrs. Henry J. Ford, presiding, Mrs. J. Marvin Hall being the leader for the day. A sketch of the life of F. Hopkinson Smith was given with readings from his books by Mrs. Ellison L. Costin. Mrs. E. A. Pool gave a resume of the interesting events in the life of Thomas Nelson Page, and a discussion of "Red Rock" was carried on, opened by Mrs. Burchman Harding and Charlotte Price.

The Epoch club met as usual yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. W. W. Blackburn and conducted an interesting program of current events.

The Travelers club has arranged for a musical program at its meeting next Tuesday afternoon. Miss Katherine Ellis, soprano, being the soloist with Mrs. James Blair Walker, accompanist.

Miss Susan E. Blow gave her opening lecture in Pittsburgh yesterday, speaking in the Kindergarten college on "The Child of Nature."

COLD STORAGE EXPERIMENT.

Dr. Wiley's "Poison Squad" Will Feast on Beef and Game Two Years Old.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Meat and game kept on ice for two years will be the diet of Dr. H. W. Wiley's "poison squad," when he resumes his experiments next week. This consists of beef, partridges and quail which have been in the cold storage plant of the Military college at West Point.

These experiments will be made with the intention of testing the nutritive value of all cold storage food. Dr. Wiley sent circulars to cold storage warehouses, asking for information and samples of food. He found that the cold storage plant at West Point offered the best food for the tests and the offer of the officers of that institution was accepted.

County Commissioners Restrained.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—On the petition of representatives of the Taxpayers league of Washington county, Judge J. A. McIlvaine today granted a temporary injunction restraining the county commissioners from making payment on a new road constructed according to the Flinn road law in the vicinity of Claysville. The petition claims that the contract was not let to the lowest bidder.

Gassers Coming to the Front in Lower Southwest Fields

Gassers figured conspicuously in the developments in the lower southwest fields during the last 24 hours. South of Downs station, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the Mary Mulvehill farm into the fifth sand and has developed a very strong gas pressure. Drilling has been suspended and no effort will be made to drill it deeper at this time. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the same company has drilled its test on the M. T. Robbins farm into the Gordon sand and has passed into the same district the same company has drilled its No. 10 on the I. D. Morgan farm from the Big Injun to the Gordon and the well made a 25-barrel flow from the lower formation. The same company's No. 13 on the Isaac Hoge farm stands full of Gordon oil and will be put to pumping. West of Weston, Lewis county, the Reserve Gas Company has drilled its test on the Marion Gaston farm into the fifth sand and has a fair gasser. In the Salem district, Harrison county, the South Penn has completed and shot its test on the Scrapta Nutter farm and has a show for a five-barrel pumper in the fifth sand. In the Fairview district, Marion county, the South Penn has put its No. 10 on the D. Jones farm to pumping and it produced 50 barrels the first 24 hours. This is a very good showing for that district in the Big Injun. In the Mannington district, Marion county, the South Penn company's No. 5 on the Jacob Brummage farm, previously reported a dry, has been given a shot and will make a five-barrel pumper from the Gordon. This well had scarcely a show of oil when drilled through the sand. In the Pine Grove extension, Wetzel county, the South Penn has drilled its test on the S. P. Dunlap farm 16 feet into the stray sand and has developed no oil or gas. On the east side of the Tolsom district, in Harrison county, the South Penn has drilled its No. 8 on the Baston Robinson farm 10 feet into the Gordon and has developed a very light showing of oil. The South Penn has drilled its No. 8 on the M. P. Dye farm 3,667 feet and has developed a little oil. It is still drilling and may find another pay in the Garner district, Wetzel county, the South Penn gave its No. 1 on the H. R. Thompson farm a shot, but it failed to respond.

Near Littleton, Wetzel county, Stewart, Finnigan & Co. have put their No. 1 on the Amos Jolliffe farm to pumping from the Gordon and it is producing 20 barrels a day. This sets an old Big Injun well drilled down to the Gordon. Drilling old wells deeper and testing the lower sands is now quite a feature in all fields in the lower southwest.

At Georgetown, Beaver county, Raymond, Croxall & Co. have completed a test on the Mrs. Benjamin Lawrence farm and has a duster. In the same district Glass & Co. have completed a second test on the James Calhoun farm and had the same kind of luck.

On the Ohio side, near Lowell, Washington county, C. E. Bennett has drilled in his No. 11 on the G. O. Matters, Jr., farm and has a show for a 15 or 20-barrel producer. In the same district the Red Fox Oil Company has drilled its No. 7 on the William Rothrucks farm through the sand and has a duster. In the Macksburg district, Lutz & Co. have completed their No. 6 on the Leo Crumm farm and have a five-barrel pumper.

In the Wolf creek district, Washington county, the Pure Oil Producing Company has drilled its No. 11 on the L. M. Thornberry farm through the Slow Run and Macksburg sands and has a duster.

Many Miles of Track Added to the Country's Railroads

Interesting statistics have been furnished in the advanced sheets of Poor's manual for 1904. It shows that the length of railroads completed in the United States on December 31, 1903, was 280,962 miles, an increase of 4,774 miles over the previous year and an increase of 30,000 over the past four years. The elaborate statements of capitalization, earnings and other data which are given, do not cover quite the entire mileage, but are more nearly complete than in previous years. The large increase in the report is the significant indication of the continued growth in extent, value, liabilities, expenses, traffic and productiveness of the railway systems of the country in the last four years. The locomotives in use were 44,539, an increase of 7,284; the cars, including passenger and freight, were 1,502,980, an increase of 206,501; capital stock and debt, $14,283,249,959, an increase of $2,125,822,110; passengers carried, 696,949,929, an increase of 158,972,624; tons of freight moved, 1,306,6 9,-888, increase, 330,838,817; traffic earnings, $1,-908,807,826, increase $372,761,447.

Have Faith in the Future.

All the leading railroads throughout the country, believing a prosperous future is in store for them, are authorizing necessary improvements. The Cleveland Terminal & Valley railroad, a subsidiary line of the Baltimore & Ohio, is among the companies to decide upon extensive betterments. This road, which runs from Akron to Cleveland, being an extension of the Pittsburgh & Western, is to spend $115,000 within the next few months. The improvements include the elimination of several curves, the reduction of grades and the reconstruction of all the bridges on the line. This is ordered so that the large engines and ore trains can be run over the line. At present the road will not step for freight engines now running on the main lines of the Baltimore & Ohio system. The Baltimore & Ohio is rapidly becoming an ore carrying road and promises to exceed in tonnage any other lake line, excepting the Bessemer & Lake Erie. On the Baltimore & Ohio line there still remains several wooden bridges that are to be supplanted by steel ones.

May Extend Election Rates.

Commissioner Donald, of the Central Passenger association, has requested all roads which are members of that body to forward immediately by wire their vote on the question of extending the time limit on the election rates. Under the present arrangements the rates are effective Sunday, but as some sections of the country have no Sunday service the voters would be delayed until Monday in reaching home. The rate is one fare, plus 25 cents, on the certificate plan.

Apply for Cheaper Rates.

The managers of the world's fair have made application to the different railroads for a further reduction of the rates to the show. The proposition submitted is that they reduce their seven-day coach excursion rates to a basis of about three-fourths of a cent a mile. The present rate is one cent a mile for points more than 150 miles from St. Louis. The proposal boils down to make the round trip rate from Pittsburgh about $9 instead of $12.

Low Rates for Live Stock Show.

All railroads will make a low rate for the live stock show to be held at Chicago November 29 to December 3. The rates will be one fare, plus $1. The railroads usually give reduced rates to the live stock exhibit, but this is the first time such a low rate has been made. The railroad men naturally expect that travel will be considerably increased to that point.

Railroad Notes.

Ray Moore, for five years yardmaster of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh at Bradford, has been transferred to Punxsutawney.

E. C. Lane, assistant general passenger and ticket agent of the Lake Shore, celebrated his 30th year of service with the Lake Shore Thursday.

Calls have been sent out for the regular monthly meeting of the Central Passenger association. It will be held in Chicago next Wednesday.

It is announced that the Erie railroad has purchased the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, the Pere Marquette and the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville railroads.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie has awarded a contract with the McClintic-Marshall Construction Company for a double track steel bridge over the county road at Fallston. It will cost about $6,000.

GIRL SLAYERS ABROAD.

Reward of $1,000 Offered for Miss Steinigeweg's Murderer—Similar Case in Missouri.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—The president of the telephone company by whom the girl was employed has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the murderer of Alma Steinigeweg.

Frank Linle, conductor of the car Miss Steinigeweg rode on her way home Wednesday night says on Wednesday night a short, stout man alighted alone with the girl. Jacob Kollmer, a saloonkeeper, says a stranger, dusty and nervous, entered his place, a few squares from the scene of the murder, at 10:15 Wednesday night and asked the nearest place to board a freight train.

MARSHALL, MO., Nov. 4.—The dead body of Miss Rosa Butts, aged 23 years, a white servant girl of this city, was found today in the suburbs of South Marshall in a pasture. The girl's throat had been cut with a sharp stick, her left ear had been cut off and there was a bullet hole in her head.

Miss Butts was last seen late Wednesday night with two young men, one of whom her sister can recognize.

Pittsburgh Woman an Auditor.

EASTON, Nov. 4.—At this morning's session of the convention of the Woman's Suffrage Association of Pennsylvania the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Lucretia L. Blankenburg, Philadelphia; vice president, Mrs. Ellen H. E. Price, Swarthmore; corresponding secretary, Miss L. Rice, Newtown; recording secretary, Mrs. Helen M. James, Philadelphia; treasurer, Mrs. Mary B. Luckie, Chester; auditors, Miss Natalie Crompton, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Minerva F. Phillips, Pittsburgh.

"WHACKS"

And What They Mean.

When Old Mother Nature gives you a "whack" remember "there's a reason," so try and say "thank you," then set about finding what you have done to demand the rebuke, and try and get back into line, for that's the happy place after all.

Curious how many highly organized people fail to appreciate and heed the first little, gentle "whacks" of the good old Dame, but go right along with the habit, whatever it may be, that causes her disapproval. Whisky, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea or other unnatural treatment of the body, until serious illness sets in or some chronic disease.

Some people seem to get on very well with those things for awhile, and Mother Nature apparently cares but little what they do.

Perhaps she has no particular plans for them and thinks it little use to waste time in their training.

There are people, however, who seem to be selected by Nature to "do things." The old Mother expects them to carry out some department of her great work. A portion of these selected ones oft and again seek to stimulate and then deaden the tool (the body) by some one or more of the drugs—Whisky, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea, Morphine, etc.

You know all of these throw down the same class of alkaloids in chemical analysis. They stimulate and then depress. They take from man or woman the power to do his or her best work.

After these people have drugged for a time, they get a hint, or mild "whack" to remind them that they have work to do, a mission to perform, and should be about the business, but are loafing along the wayside and become unfitted for the fame and fortune that wait for them if they but stick to the course and keep the body clear of obstructions so it can carry out the behests of the mind.

Sickness is a call to "come up higher." These hints come in various forms. It may be stomach trouble or bowels, heart, eyes, kidneys or general nervous prostration. You may depend upon it when a "whack" come it's a warning to quit some abuse and do the right and fair thing with the body.

Perhaps it is coffee drinking that offends. That is one of the greatest causes of human disorder among Americans.

Now, then, if Mother Nature is gentle with you and only gives light, little "whacks" at first to attract attention, don't abuse her consideration, or she will soon hit you harder, sure.

And you may also be sure she will hit you very, very

BOOM IN STEEL STOCKS THE NEW YORK FEATURE

Steel Common Crossed 24 and Minor Issues Scored New High Prices—Advance in Pittsburgh Coal and Pig Iron Warrants.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The boom in the iron and steel stocks overshadowed everything else in the New York market yesterday. While the movement was largely speculative—inasmuch as the largest advance was in the non-dividend payers—it was nevertheless backed up by news and rumor of a very encouraging character. A report was current in Pittsburgh, for instance, that the Steel Corporation was not booking any more steel rail orders for this year's delivery. From Chicago it was reported that the bookings of finished products in that market recently had reached 100,000 tons. From the south it was reported that the Tennessee Coal and Iron had received some good orders in addition to the 40,000 tons steel rails for the Louisville & Nashville railroad. On the Pittsburgh stock exchange warrants for Bessemer pig iron, November delivery, sold at $14.20, an advance of 20 cents a ton over the last previous sale, and closed at $14.70 bid, a total advance of 70 cents a ton for the day. Despite the evidence of improvement in the trade, the street could not escape the conviction that there was professional manipulation on the bull side of the market, and most people were inclined to scout the prediction of a resumption of Steel common dividends next year.

The general market opened rather heavy under the influence of the lower London quotations, but the declines were confined almost exclusively to the railroad list. There was heavy buying of Pennsylvania during the first hour and the price advanced to 135¾, which was equivalent to 135¾ with the dividend on. Apparently an effort was made to recover the dividend for the effect it would have on the rest of the market. Later the stock reacted ¾ per cent and closed unchanged for the day. Only fractional recoveries took place in the remainder of the railroad list, and then the latter was neglected for the industrials.

There were enormous transactions in U. S. Steel common, and with no reaction of note the price moved upward until it touched 24¼ and closed at 24 bid. Between 23¾ and 24, which prices were reached shortly after 2 o'clock, the trading was very heavy, blocks ranging from 2,000 to 6,000 shares each changing hands within a few minutes. The preferred stock rose to 83 and closed at the top, a net gain of 1⅞ per cent. At some time during the day every member of the iron and steel group enjoyed a period of activity and strength. Railway Steel Spring common jumped 3 points to 28. American Locomotive common advanced from 27 to 29. Republic Iron and Steel preferred advanced from 54¾ to 57¼ and the common from 12¼ to 14¼. The most active issue, however, was Tennessee Coal and Iron, which rose from 61¼ to 62¾, the final sale. Colorado Fuel and Iron, after advancing from 43¼ to 44¼, broke to 42½, and was the only prominent industrial stock to close at a net loss. There was a fair degree of activity in Amalgamated Copper, which advanced to 73¾, and Sugar, which advanced to 146½, and while they did not close at the top, final sales showed net gains. The strength in this group stimulated the railroads to some extent and a moderate rally took place, but closing prices, as a rule, showed net declines for the railroad list. An exception was Missouri Pacific, which was strong most of the day, and there was inside buying of other Gould stocks.

The money market remained easy and unchanged within a range of 2 to 2¼ per cent for call loans. The preliminary estimates on today's bank statement foreshadow a large decrease in cash, with the probability of a further reduction in surplus reserve. This prospect, however, had no effect upon the stock market.

The local stock market was the most active for three weeks and the business was well distributed. The largest dealings were in U. S. Steel, which advanced to 24 for the common and 82¾ for the preferred, the highest prices being made in the final trading. Crucible Steel preferred was a fraction higher at 92¼, but reacted to 91¾. The common stock was comparatively dull and failed entirely to sympathize with the rise in this class of stocks in the east. Pittsburgh Coal preferred made a new high price for the year by advancing to 76¾, but reacted to 76 at the close. The common advanced to and closed at 17¼. The action of the company in anticipating the redemption of its dividend scrip and the generally cheerful sentiment in industrial circles contributed to the buoyancy of the coal stocks. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas was moderately active and strong, advancing to 75, the highest price since the listing of the stock on the exchange. Pittsburgh Plate Glass was active, selling at 120½ to 130, closing at a net loss of 1 per cent for the day. The Westinghouse stocks were neglected, but Electric gained a small fraction by selling at 85¾. There was also more activity in the bond list, but prices were either unchanged or slightly lower.

There was a good demand for pig iron warrants and bid prices advanced, but there were no offerings for a nearer delivery than January.

SQUIRREL HILL BUILDING BOOM

Nearly 50 Fine Houses Are Under Way and New Streets Are Coming to Notice.

SKATING RINK FOR OAKLAND

The building boom on Squirrel Hill is perhaps the most interesting feature of the realty situation in Pittsburgh outside the downtown district. For several months the number of houses going up on the hill has been such as to cause general remark, but as they approach completion the movement is more evident and is making dozens of friends for that part of Pittsburgh which is destined to be for years the most desirable lot of property available for high-class residence sites. Nearly 50 residences are now under way on Squirrel Hill. From a point in Bartlett street, near Shady avenue, 25 new houses were counted one day last week. Most of these are houses costing $10,000 or more. George Flinn is building 15 houses in Denniston avenue that will sell for about $15,000 each.

The contract was awarded recently to George B. Bennett for four houses to be built for W. A. and Robert P. Longeay in Beacon street, which will cost $14,000 each. Mrs. Sarah Lingo has under way two fine residences in Darlington street and William Kerr's Sons have four houses building in Forbes street, near Wightman street.

At Wightman and Beacon streets the $100,000 residence of Jacob Kaufmann is attracting general attention, and John Walsh is building a $30,000 house in Bartlett street. In all the best streets on the hill as well as on some of the new streets, which, by reason of the street improvements made last summer have come into general favor, the houses are being erected. The Squirrel Hill boom which was started a few years ago and which waned in common with the general slump in real estate dealing is again becoming more evident every day as the merits of Squirrel Hill as a residence center are brought to notice by the city improvements.

It is predicted that next year the 300 acres or more of choice sites between Irwin avenue and Beacon street will be the scene of a house building boom that in its character and importance will be second to none ever seen in the city. As a well-posted real estate man remarked yesterday: "Squirrel Hill is just in its infancy. The 1,000 acres that are available there for fine buildings will afford choice locations for Pittsburghers to build on for 10 years."

Want Ground for Skating Rink.

It is reported on good authority that an offer has been made by local men for part of the Flannery holdings in Oakland to be used as a site for a big skating rink. The property wanted faces in Meyran avenue in the rear of the Iroquois apartments, and runs back to Atwood street. The frontage is valued at $500 a front foot, it is said. Some time ago Mr. Flannery contemplated building another large apartment house on this property, but no plans for that are known to have been prepared. The site for a skating rink would be central and if the property is secured it is said a building will be erected at once.

Another very attractive innovation in signs has been put out this week by the Freehold Real Estate Company. Instead of the usual black and white sign the company has changed its colors to green and orange, making a very striking display amid the old-fashioned sign boards. To add to the effectiveness of the downtown signs there has been added over the customary words, "To Let," the words "Office" or "Store Room," as the case may be. This makes the sign distinctive, and as is the case with the new shield signs of the Real Estate Trust Company, cannot fail to attract notice.

The Germania Savings bank building at Wood and Diamond streets looks almost like a new structure. A new front has been put in on the Diamond street side, including two entrances and four large windows. The entire building has been repainted and other improvements made that will add much to the convenience of patrons.

An Epidemic of Rumors.

Real estate rumors were to be heard on every hand yesterday and most of them were of more than ordinary importance. Downtown corners that have been unheard of for months bobbed up serenely as the places where big buildings were to be erected. Large deals were reported in streets where hardly a sale has been made in many years. The spirit of competition seems to be in the air again and it would not be strange if within two weeks announcements were made of realty investments that will be followed by the erection of costly buildings downtown.

Hays street: Samuel McCaslin sold to Mrs. Nora L. Filler a 10-room brick house on Rex 150 feet at Mellon and Hays streets, Nineteenth ward, for $8,800, and to Mrs. Elizabeth Malone a residence property at 619 Mellon street for $8,400. This makes the last of 14 houses in Mellon street sold by Mr. McCaslin.

Race street: Stephen G. Gibson sold to Clark M. Harbaugh an improved lot, 25x93 feet, on the north side of Race street, Twenty-first ward, for $6,100.

Lombard street: William Le Goullon sold to William F. Arnold an improved lot, 22x110 feet, on the east side of Lombard street, near Reed street, Eleventh ward, for $3,200.

Greenfield avenue: Mary A. Seymour sold to Samuel B. Charters 30x100 feet at the southwest corner of Greenfield avenue and Exeter street, Twenty-third ward, for $1,100.

The demand for first-class bachelor apartments in the better Pittsburgh is evidenced by the rapidity with which the Real Estate Trust Company is renting the Knickerbocker apartments in East Diamond street, Allegheny. The building was only finished November 1, but already the company has secured tenants for 12 of the 20 suites. The apartments are so arranged that two, three or four men can be accommodated, as desired. In addition to the usual conveniences found in all high-class modern apartment houses, there are furnished janitor and chambermaid service, laundrying of the bed linen and towels, which are furnished, and handsome furniture for the rooms themselves. The Knickerbocker is another innovation in flat building and its success shows the broadening tendency of flat life in the two cities.

Second avenue: Through the office of the Arcuscn Realty Company, F. C. Irish has bought from Edmund F. Stroud of the First National bank, Wilkinsburg, 150-134 Second avenue and 131-135 Beech alley. The lot is 60x 110 feet and is improved with six four-room dwellings.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: To W. C. Davidson, frame dwelling, Lelid street, Thirty-second ward, to cost $2,250; to A. D. Ewing, frame two-story addition to store and dwelling, 270-81 Frankstown avenue, to cost $2,600; to Joseph Kaufman, frame two-story and attic dwelling, Berg street, to cost $985.

SUGAR ADVANCES TEN POINTS ON ALL GRADES

Demands of the Confectioners Make Sharp Rise—All Other Lines Holding Firm.

All sugars advanced 10 points yesterday on the strength of the confectioners' trade, which has opened up. The way confectioners are buying is an indication that an unusually large Christmas candy business is looked for this year and the candy makers seem to entertain no fears of what the future of business will be along about the holiday time.

Flour remained firm yesterday and coffee continues to act in a spirited manner, but with no increase in price. The coffee situation seems to be easing off in the east and dealers are beginning to think the anticipated shortage will not be so serious as at first thought. At any rate an increase in price seems no nearer now than it was a couple of weeks ago when it was first announced that the market was growing stiffer.

Every line of produce held its own yesterday and a fairly good day was reported along the street, although not what might have been expected. Receipts were light again, although heavier than the day before. Produce dealers are pleased with the light receipts, as they have forestalled a glut in the market, which looked unpleasantly near at hand a week ago, owing to heavy receipts and light sales. The result this week is that heavy stocks are being sold off at good figures and the threatened fall in prices, which would have meant heavy loss to dealers, did not materialize.

Poultry continues dull and live birds shaded off yesterday a cent a pound, the demand for poultry, both live and dressed, is remarkably light. Some good prices are being realized, but as a rule the prices do not much more than pay for handling. The demand is so light the dealers have made no extra effort to fill the market up. All the men along the street are waiting on some good freezing weather. Such a turn will start business going at a lively rate and get prices up to a profit-making basis.

Interest in the election has increased along the street this week, but it is purely of a personal character. There are few along the business quarter who are not satisfied with the way things appear to be going, but they look for no improvement in business conditions until the matter is finally disposed of. For this reason they will all be glad when it is over, and next Tuesday cannot come any too soon to suit them.

The latest grain, fruit and produce reported yesterday were as follows: Apples, 6 cars, making 66; bananas, 7 cars, making 17; grapes, 2 cars, making 61; onions, 2 cars, making 12; potatoes, 21 cars, making 135; sweet potatoes, 3 cars, making 27; miscellaneous, 1 car, making 8.

The first car of Red Emperor grapes for this season sold on this market today by the Union Fruit Auction Company. There were 960 crates in the car, and they sold from $1 60 to $3 20 a crate. These were sold for account of the Earl Fruit Company, through their agents on this market, Connolly-McAfee Co.

HAY AND GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Receipts of hay and grain in the local yards yesterday were as follows. Pennsylvania lines, 5 cars oats, 1 car feed, 2 cars corn, 15 cars hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 8 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 2 cars corn; Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars oats, 2 cars mill feed corn, 4 cars hay, 1 car corn, 1 car straw.

The hay and grain market was firm yesterday, with conditions unchanged from what they have been for a week or more past. Lighter receipts of all kinds had a tendency to stiffen prices and no changes were noted from the quotations of yesterday. The supply of shelled corn shows no improvement and the new corn is still backward in coming in. The warm weather makes it a dangerous commodity to handle and dealers look for no improvement in the corn situation until cold weather makes it a safe proposition to handle the new crop.

WHEAT WEAKENS ON INCREASED RECEIPTS

Reports Come of Large Exports from Argentina — Foreign Quotations Are Lower.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Increased exports from Argentina and increased receipts in the American northwest had a weakening effect on wheat prices here today. At the close December was off ⅝c. The May delivery is down ⅝@¾c. Corn and oats are practically unchanged. Provisions show a loss of 5@12½c.

Weakness in wheat was manifested at the start. Liverpool quotations were much lower, presumably as a result of an increase in Argentina exports and of a report from the country contradicting rumors of unfavorable weather there. Northwestern receipts were quite liberal. In addition, prospects of rain in the southwest gave promise of a break in the existing drought. This combination of features, unfavorable from the bull stand point, brought out a lot of loosely held wheat purchased under more encouraging circumstances that surrounded the market. Opening quotations on December were off ⅛@⅜c at $1 12@1 12½. May was down ⅝@⅞c at $1 11⅝@1 11¾. Shorts were fair buyers on the decline, but the demand was not of sufficient strength to prevent a steady weakening of values. December sold up to $1 11¾, May to $1 11⅞. Late in the day the market rallied somewhat on buying brought out by a report of a St. Louis trade journal. According to this authority, drought conditions have prevailed quite generally throughout the winter wheat belt and in some sections, notably in the southeast, complaints of retarded growth or inability to seed are becoming more general. Trading throughout the greater part of the day lacked enthusiasm and was confined mainly to local operators. The market closed rather weak, with December at $1 11¾. Final quotations on May were at $1 11¾@1 11⅞. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 33,500 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,122,300 bushels, compared with 1,342,000 bushels a year ago. Exports of wheat and flour for the week, as shown by Bradstreets, were equal to 1,482,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 900 cars, against 839 cars last week and 678 cars a year ago.

Fine maturing weather and weakness of wheat had a depressing influence on the corn market, early in the day. Receipts, however, were small and a good shipping demand was in evidence. As a result of these factors a firmer tone developed and prices made a fair advance. On moderate realizing, the market again reacted late in the session, all of the gain being lost. December opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, at 48¾@48⅞c and sold between 48⅝c and 48¾@48⅞c and closed at 48¾c. Local receipts were 84 cars, with 7 cars of contract grade.

The trading in oats was extremely quiet and the market held steady the entire day. December opened a shade lower at 28⅝@28¾c, sold between 28¾c and 28⅝c, and closed at 28⅝@28½c. Local receipts were 116 cars.

Liquidation of provisions was on rather large scale and on an absence of support the market became quite weak. Selling by pit traders on increased hog receipts started the decline. At the close January pork was off 12½c at $12 52½. Lard was down 10c at $7 05. Ribs were 5@7½c lower at $6 47½@6 80.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 56 cars; corn, 87 cars; oats, 122 cars; hogs, 12,000 head.

BIG FIGHT BEGUN ON METER BILLS

Opposition in Select Council Claims Bigelow's Plan Will Cost City $2,000,000.

MEASURES AGAIN HELD UP

A big fight is on in select council over Director Bigelow's meter ordinances, which were held up again yesterday afternoon, the second time within a week. A special meeting of the branch had been called to pass the meter ordinances and also the ordinance repealing the ordinance for the extension of Hamilton avenue from Fifth avenue to Penn avenue. The Hamilton avenue repealer went through by a unanimous vote, but select council adjourned before the meter ordinances could be even taken up on second reading.

The members opposing the passage of the meter ordinances assert they are in favor of meters, but will make a fight to have the work done by contract instead of by the director of public works. They declare it will entail an expenditure of $2,000,000 to buy and install meters by Director Bigelow's plan, and claim the city can save money by giving the work out by contract under competitive bidding. Under the pending ordinances Director Bigelow is given authority to purchase any particular kind of meters he pleases and to employ as many men as he wants to install them.

Burns Suspects a "Job."

Dr. H. B. Burns and others, who oppose Bigelow's plan, claim councils should have something to say in regard to the selection of meters, and they want information as to the best meters on the market. For this reason, they say, they demanded yesterday that the Plumbers' association be given a chance to be heard at the next meeting of select council and to give data and figures to show that the city can save money by having the work done by contract.

"I do not say that there is a 'job' in the plan proposed to give the department of public works power to select and purchase the meters and to employ the men to install them, but the plan admits of a 'job,'" says Dr. Burns.

"I understand that Director Bigelow intends to put in the Keystone meter of the Westinghouse Company," said Select Councilman Thomas O'Brien. "There are other meters just as good and which may be cheaper. Councils ought to know what kind of meter is to be used and which is the best meter. We ought also to know what they will cost. We want the plumbers to appear before select council to give us this information. We opposed the ordinances today because the administration was taking snap judgment by calling a meeting on one day's notice to put the ordinances through before we could get any information."

Bigelow's Plan Expensive.

"Bigelow proposes to put in 5,000 meters the first year and in the ordinances asks councils to appropriate $60,000 to buy them," said Dr. Burns. "He says he is going to pay $12 apiece for the meters, but mind you, $12 is the price for the smallest size of the style which he has selected. The average price, according to his selection, will be about $15 for each meter. He also estimates it will require about 50,000 meters to supply the city and that it will take about eight years to supply the entire city with meters. By the end of eight years the growth of the city will necessitate probably 10,000 meters in addition to the 50,000. The cost of 60,000 meters at $15 apiece would be $900,000. The best informed plumbers tell us that one plumber in a year of 250 working days can put in about 125 meters, making all the necessary connections, which is a much more difficult job than putting in a gas meter. The city employe will probably not be able to put in more than 100 meters in a year.

"To put in 5,000 meters in a year would require 50 plumbers, each receiving $4 a day, which would make an annual payroll of $50,000, or $400,000 in eight years. At this rate the expense of buying meters and installing them would amount to $1,300,000.

May Cost $2,000,000.

"Then the other ordinance provides for additional employes in the water bureau on account of the meter proposition, although I cannot conceive how they are needed. There will be engineers of various classes, draughtsmen, clerks and others to employ, which will make an annual payroll of $13,500, or $108,000 in eight years. This ordinance also authorizes the director to employ whatever laborers he may consider necessary.

"There is no limit to the number of laborers and it cannot be doubted that a large number will be necessary to assist the plumbers in putting in the meters. This, in eight years, will run up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, so that the aggregate expense will not fall far short of $2,000,000."

Two meter ordinances were reported to select council by John Costello, a member of the public works committee. Dr. Burns raised the point that under the rules the public works committee must report to the branch of councils of which the chairman of the committee is a member, which is common council. President Wightman said the ordinances could not have been sent to common council by the committee because they had already passed common council, and he ruled the bills were properly before select council. Burns took an appeal, but the chair was sustained by a vote of 24 to 1, Burns not voting.

Opposition Forced Adjournment.

Then Burns moved the ordinances be postponed until the next meeting of councils, which was supplemented by an amendment by Douglas that the plumbers be given a hearing at the next meeting. This motion failed by a vote of 13 ayes and 14 noes, as follows:

Ayes—Armstrong, Burns, Cavett, Douglas, Frederick, Friedman, Manion, Thomas O'Brien, Schempp, Schneider, Shenkel, Toole, Upperman—13.

Noes—John Barry, P. J. Barry, Booth, Casserly, Costello, Edwards, Gallagher, Hermes, Lang, William McKelvey, W. D. O'Brien, Rohlandt, West, Wightman.—14.

Immediately after the announcement that the motion had failed Shenkel moved to adjourn and this was carried.

Director Bigelow believes the passage of the ordinance repealing the opening of Hamilton avenue will enable him to explain his position in regard to this improvement in court, where he expects to be taken on contempt proceedings by the viewers in the case. Bigelow objected to the amount assessed against the city, claiming the entire expense, or nearly so, should be borne by the property owners. He is accused by the viewers with instructing the clerk in the bureau of viewers to hold up the report. Councilmen were told yesterday that Bigelow expected to be before court today, hence the haste in calling a meeting of select council on one day's notice.

The ordinances granting the firemen two weeks' vacation next year and licensing massage parlors were reported from the public safety committee and passed unanimously.

Traction Bill Juggle.

Dr. Burns presented a resolution calling attention to the fact that the two traction ordinances presented at the previous meeting had been transferred without authority of council from the public safety to the corporations committee, and asked that they be returned to the safety committee. President Wightman declared the resolution out of order. Costello, chairman of the corporations committee, asked Wightman if he had referred the bills to his committee. Wightman replied:

"No, I referred them to the public safety committee."

Then Wightman said he would make an "explanation." "I referred the two traction ordinances to the public safety committee," he said, "and I held them in my hand with two ordinances for the surveys committee, and I handed the four ordinances to the clerk, telling him to refer them all to the proper committees. I did not have any conference with Director Bigelow about these ordinances, and I have never juggled with an ordinance or anything else."

Explanation Did Not Explain.

"Mr. President, that explanation does not explain. Will you permit me to ask you a question?" inquired Douglas.

"No, I will answer no questions. I have said all I am going to say. The clerk will make an explanation if there is no objection," said Wightman.

"I object. I don't care to hear any explanation from the clerk," said Douglas, and the matter was dropped.

A large number of bills, messages from common council, were passed finally under suspension of the rules, including an ordinance authorizing the director of public works to have printed and bound 10 sets of pamphlets containing the contracts and specifications of the filtration plant, at a cost of $5,000; an ordinance to repave Marion street, Sixth ward, from the end of the present pavement to Bluff street, which is an improvement that has been proposed in councils for several years; four ordinances authorizing the Pennsylvania Water Company to supply plans of lots in the Twenty-second and Thirty-seventh wards.

CONTROLLER BROWN TELLS SCANDRETT PLAIN FACTS

Allegheny Public Safety Director Amazed at Answer to Question Concerning Payment of His Messenger's Salary.

Director Scandrett and Controller Brown of Allegheny have got into a battle over the question of whether or not Scandrett is entitled to a messenger in his office. The controller yesterday refused to pay the warrant of Florence Vick, an intimate friend of Scandrett, and the man who has been acting as messenger in the director's office since the middle of July.

It was only on Thursday that Controller Brown discovered Scandrett had appointed an extra man in his office to take the place of John T. McAuley, who had a position created for him by ordinance. Vick got McAuley's former job and has been drawing $93 a month since. On the payroll Vick is a sergeant and clerk and gets $3 a day. As sergeants work seven days a week on the police force, Vick is paid on the same basis. On hearing that Brown had refused to honor Vick's warrant, Director Scandrett went to the controller's office.

"If that man is a police sergeant, put a uniform on him, and send him out to do police duty and I'll pay him," was the first answer Scandrett got to a question put at the controller. "There is not enough work in your office to keep one man busy, but you have three there. You have no authority to keep a messenger and I won't pay Mr. Vick. We need more policemen, as everybody knows, and if you put your messenger to work and the city gets the worth of his services he will get his salary. You can't take care of your friends at the expense of the city."

Scandrett seemed thunderstruck at this plain speech from the controller, and left the office without further comment.

The matter was laid before Mayor Wyman and it is not known what action he purposes taking.

ALLEGHENY TEACHERS START THEIR CAMPAIGN

Forming an Organization for the Purpose of Securing Higher Salaries—Circulars Are Issued.

A vigorous campaign, backed by an organization, is being started by the teachers of Allegheny to secure an increase in salaries in all grades of the public schools. For some weeks past the teachers have been completing their organization and arranging to meet the necessary expenses. Officers have been elected and a press committee has already begun to circulate tracts and pamphlets showing the relative conditions of teachers in Allegheny and in other cities of equal or greater size.

One of the circulars sets forth figures to show that in the past 15 years the value of property in Allegheny has increased almost 100 per cent and that wages and salaries in all trades and professions have advanced in proportion, except the salary of the teacher. Living expenses, they contend, are three times as great as 15 years ago, when salaries were the same as today. Comparative figures show that, with the exception of Pittsburgh, Allegheny pays its teachers less than any big city in the country.

The agitation in favor of better salaries is to be put before the voters and kept in a state of activity until the result sought is achieved. Aid has been promised the teachers by a number of prominent Alleghenians and determined efforts are to be made to have the board of school controllers take favorable action on the report that has been submitted to them by a committee of teachers appointed to deal with the controllers.

ARRANGE FOR INSTITUTE.

City Teachers' Executive Committee Fix Time and Place of Meeting.

Announcement was made at the regular fall meeting of the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Teachers' Institute, held in the Fifth avenue High school yesterday, that the regular city teachers' institute would be held November 25 and 26, in Syria temple, Webster avenue. Dr. P. C. Lockwood, president of Meadville college, and Miss Ada Harris of Rochester, N. Y., will be the principle speakers.

The committee decided to hold an institute for each grade during the coming season. The eighth grade meeting will be held in the North school December 2 and the first grade in the same school on December 9. Dates for other grades have not yet been fixed.

The Pennsylvania Schoolmasters' club will hold its annual banquet in the Colonial hotel on November 12. The Hon. William H. Maxwell, first superintendent of schools of Greater New York, will be the speaker. The Principals' association will meet in the Fifth avenue school this morning.

COSTELLO TREATS IT AS HUGE JOKE

Corporations Committee Chairman Thinks Appeal from Traction Relief Is Funny.

SAFETY COMMITTEE TO MEET

Chairman L. H. Frederick said yesterday he would call a special meeting of the public safety committee of councils for some day next week to approve the two traction ordinances referred to the committee Wednesday night by select council. One prohibits standing on platforms of street cars and the other prohibits standing between seats in summer cars.

John Costello, chairman of the corporations committee, was asked yesterday when he would call a meeting of his committee to take up the original bills from select council. Costello laughed in derision.

"Why," he said, "no person has said anything to me about them," and he laughed again.

Chairman Costello apparently thought it very funny that persons should want any improvement of the present traction service furnished the public, particularly the West End, where he resides.

Chairman Frederick of the public safety committee said he would consult other members of his committee and set a date for the meeting next week. Councilman A. G. Roenigk, a member of the East End Board of Trade traction committee, said yesterday that the board of trade did not intend to look longer to councils for relief, and the organization would seek a remedy itself. The committee called upon Director Moore and asked him why he did not enforce the ordinance requiring street cars to be equipped with fenders. Director Moore said he did not know why the ordinance was not enforced, but he would look the matter up.

TRAGEDY IN A SWAMP.

Foreman of Construction Gang Kills Two Italians and Is Fatally Wounded.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4.—In a riot which occurred a mile east of Egypt, near this city, today, one man was killed and three probably fatally injured.

Thomas Dean, foreman of the construction gang for the Rochester & Syracuse Trolley Company, ordered the men, all Italians, to go into the swamp. They refused because they had no high boots. Dean insisted. The men then attacked him with knives.

Dean began shooting. One Italian was instantly killed, another fatally wounded, and it is said there is another dead Italian in the swamp. Dean cannot live.

FOUR DEALERS ACCUSED OF ADULTERATING MILK

Milk Inspector Adler has brought suit against four milk dealers, who are charged with adulterating their supply. Those indicted are E. Greenawald, 2315 Fifth avenue; N. Silverstein, 2308 Fifth avenue; the Oakland Produce Company, and W. E. Duncan, 229 Collins avenue. The latter is accused of putting formaldehelde in his milk. The suits were brought before Alderman John Groetzinger.

BUSINESS MEN MET MR. MORLEY

Dr. W. J. Holland's Luncheon at Union Club Was Attended by Distinguished Guests.

LOW LEFT FOR OHIO TOWN

Pittsburgh business men yesterday were given the privilege of meeting the city's distinguished Founder's day guests at an elaborate luncheon served at the Union club. Dr. W. J. Holland was the host and covers were laid for 100 guests. Another opportunity was afforded Mr. Morley to "look into the eyes of an American audience," and in a brief address acknowledging a toast, he offered a clever compliment to Pittsburgh hospitality.

Mr. Morley is an entertaining after-dinner speaker. He is sober and measured in his delivery and tells few stories, but in his sincere manner he instantly secures the enthusiasm of his hearers. Seth Low spoke in a humorous vein. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university had a fund of good stories and told them in a manner that provoked much laughter. Nearly a score of short speeches were made, many of the Pittsburgh members of Dr. Holland's guests taking advantage of the opportunity to comment on Mr. Morley's now famous address of Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Low left yesterday afternoon for East Liverpool, O., where he was billed to make a political address. He said it caused him much regret to miss the chamber of commerce banquet. Mr. Low will go back to New York on Saturday. He is sanguine of a Republican victory, and says the reception which West Virginia accorded the Republican speakers indicates the confidence of the Republican managers and the voters.

The art galleries were formally thrown open to the public yesterday morning and the crowd throughout the day was one of the largest that has attended an opening of the exhibition. The real art lovers were there during the morning and the prize pictures were subjected to the closest scrutiny. In the choice of the medal painting the amateur critics almost invariably coincided with the opinions of the art jury. In the others there was more or less discussion. Many declared that some paintings hung on the second line should have been in the prize class.

It was a brilliantly-gowned throng of women who inspected the institute yesterday. Figures obtained by attendants who counted the visitors in the institute and the Phipps conservatories estimated that more people enjoyed the first public exhibition than in the usual rush on Founder's day.

MUST RETURN ORPHANS.

President Orders Forty Children to Be Taken from Disreputable Foster Parents.

DENVER, COL., Nov. 4.—A special from Prescott, Ariz., says:

Attorney General Wells of Arizona has received a private letter from Phoenix, stating that Gov. Brodie has left Phoenix for Clifton and Morenci, under orders from President Roosevelt, to gather up the 40 orphans recently taken away from the Sisters of Mercy, and to prepare at once to return them to New York.

Since the sisters were forced a few weeks ago to give up the children to Clifton and Morenci, white people, they have taken the matter before the president. They allege that most of the orphans are now in the custody of disreputable people, some being keepers of grog shops and houses of ill repute.

The governor is said to fear trouble when he tries to take the children, and has instructed Capt. Rynning of the Arizona rangers at Douglas to be ready to quell any disturbance that may arise.

SPENDS HONEYMOON IN JAIL.

Newly Married McKees Rocks Woman Enters a Rough Matrimonial Sea.

Married Tuesday, arrested Wednesday, arraigned Thursday and sentenced to jail for 30 days on Friday is, in brief, the history of the honeymoon of Mrs. Joseph Mason of Island avenue, McKees Rocks.

It is charged that Mrs. Mason developed an insatiable thirst during the wedding ceremony, which continued two days, and on Wednesday went into the street abusing passersby. She was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and ordered to pay a fine of $10 or serve 30 days in jail. Her husband, an employe of the Pressed Steel Car Company, asked a day's grace to secure the amount of the fine, and as it was not forthcoming Mrs. Mason was led to jail yesterday.

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN GERMANY AND AMERICA

Preliminaries to the Framing of an Arbitration Treaty Take Place by President's Suggestion.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Negotiations have been initiated for a treaty of arbitration between Germany and the United States. Several days ago President Roosevelt suggested to Baron Sternberg, the German ambassador, that a treaty of arbitration between the United States and Germany would, in his judgment, be very desirable. Ambassador Sternberg coincided in this view and told the president that he would inquire of his government what steps, if any, it desired to take in the matter.

Late this afternoon Ambassador Sternberg called upon President Roosevelt and informed him that the German government had expressed itself as entirely agreeable to the president's proposition and that he had been directed to open formal negotiations for such a treaty. These negotiations will be conducted by Ambassador Sternberg on the part of Germany and Secretary Hay on the part of the United States.

OFFICIAL—ALLEGHENY.

Office of City Clerks.
City of Allegheny, Pa., October 21, 1904.
Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance was presented at a meeting of common council of the city of Allegheny, on the 20th day of October, 1904, and was referred to committee on public works.
ROBERT DILWORTH, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and ordering the grading of Falck avenue, Eleventh ward, from west side of California avenue to west side of Wyoming street, and providing for assessment and collection of the cost and expense thereof.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the select and common councils of the city of Allegheny, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the grading of Falck avenue, Eleventh ward, from west side of California avenue to west side of Wyoming street, is hereby authorized and ordered, and the director of the department of public works is hereby instructed to prepare specifications therefor, and the mayor and the said director are authorized to advertise for proposals for doing said work in accordance with such specifications, and award the contract therefor, according to the provisions of the acts of assembly in such cases made and provided.

The cost and expense of said improvement to be assessed and collected in accordance with the provisions of the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania pertaining thereto and regulating the same.

Sec. 2. That so much of any ordinance as may conflict with or be supplied by the foregoing, be and the same is hereby repealed.

One Million Dollars

Have Been Spent to Give Liquozone Free to the Sick.

We have bought a 50c bottle of Liquozone—and given it free to each of 1,800,000 sick ones. And we have spent over $1,000,000, in one year, to announce and fulfill this offer. May we buy you a bottle, to show you the wonderful product which warrants an offer like that?

Before we bought the rights to Liquozone, we tested it for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We proved it in all kinds of germ diseases—in thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable. And we cured with it nearly every disease which was considered incurable.

We knew then that the product was of vital worth to humanity. We knew that everywhere there was sickness which Liquozone alone could cure, and suffering which nothing but Liquozone could stop. We knew that thousands died daily whom Liquozone could save.

But what was the best way to quickly let the sick ones know it? How could we get this help to them at once? How could we best convince them that Liquozone did what medicine never could do.

We decided to buy the first bottle and give it free to every sick one we learned of. We would let the product itself prove its power. So we published this offer, again and again, in nearly every newspaper in America.

The result is that millions use Liquozone now. Your own neighbors, wherever you are, can tell you about it. And half the people one meets, in any part of America, know some one whom Liquozone has cured.

What Liquozone Is.

Liquozone is not a medicine. It is not made by compounding acids or drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. Each cubic inch of Liquozone requires the use of 1,250 cubic inches of gas.

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. The main result is to get into a liquid, and thus into the blood, a powerful, yet harmless, germicide. Another result is to create a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare.

Kills Inside Germs.

The great value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it does what oxygen does. Oxygen is the vital part of air, the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. It is the blood food, the nerve food, the scavenger of the blood. It is oxygen that turns the blue blood to red in the lungs; that eliminates the waste tissue and builds up the new. Too little oxygen always causes lack of vitality. An excess of it gives strength to every function of Nature.

Oxygen is also a germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and an excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetal matter.

Liquozone acts like oxygen. But it does more than oxygen, because it is stable. It carries its virtues into the blood to go wherever the blood goes. It is a remarkable tonic—the best thing in the world for you. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

The discoverer of Liquozone has solved the great problem of killing germs in the body without killing tissues, too. And there is no other way. Any drug that kills germs is poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Liquozone is the only way that any man knows to end the cause of any germ disease.

Nine Nations

Now use Liquozone. The product is more widely employed than any medicine ever was; more widely prescribed by the better physicians. And no one can doubt that it is doing more for sick humanity than all the drugs in use combined.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Liquozone; and the British rights sold for a similar sum. Those are the highest prices ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We tell you this fact because it illustrates the value of Liquozone. A product whose rights can bring a price like that must have very great merit—must be of very great worth to humanity.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases; all due to germs, or the poisons which germs create. These are the diseases to which medicine does not apply, for drugs cannot kill inside germs.

All that medicine can do for these troubles is to act as a tonic, aiding Nature to overcome the germs. But those results are indirect and uncertain. They depend on the patient's condition. When drugs were prescribed for these troubles nobody knew of germs. Now every good physician knows that they call for a germicide.

Liquozone alone can destroy the cause of these troubles. It goes wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it, and we have found no disease germ which can resist it. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. In any stage of any disease in this list, the results are so certain that we will gladly send to any patient who asks it an absolute guaranty.

Asthma	Hay Fever—Influenza
Abscess—Anaemia	Kidney Diseases
Bronchitis	La Grippe
Blood diseases	Liver Troubles
Bright's Disease	Malaria—Neuralgia
Bowel Troubles	Many Heart Troubles
Coughs—Colds	Piles—Pneumonia

Eczema—Erysipelas	Tumors—Ulcers
Fevers—Gall Stones	Women's Diseases
Goitre—Gout

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

First Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never used it, please send us the coupon below. We will then send you an order on a local druggist for a full-sized bottle—a 50c bottle—and will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This applies only to the first bottle, of course—to those who have never used it.

The acceptance of this offer places you under no obligations. We simply wish to convince you; to let the product itself show you what it can do. Then you can judge by results as to whether you wish to continue.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want these results; you want to be well and to keep well. Then be fair enough to yourself to accept our offer today. Let us show you, at our expense, what this wonderful product means to you.

Liquozone costs 50c and $1.
